WOMAN THWARTS GYPSIES WHO TRY A "FAST ONE"

Lester Prairie—Gypsies who invaded the home of Mrs. Rebecca Hayes in Middleville in McLeod county were fast workers, but they were met by some equally fast work by their intended victim. Mrs. Hayes was in the kitchen cooking when two gypsy women approached the house, opened the door and rushed in with cries of "I want salt! I want bread! I want water!" Acting like a crazy woman, one of the gypsies engaged Mrs. Hayes' attention in the kitchen while the other disappeared into the bedroom, where she was found rifling a traveling bag. Mrs. Hayes was not to be taken in, however, and followed the woman into the bedroom. She was successful in wresting the bag from the gypsy, and the two women left without having secured anything in the house.

5,000 PRESENT AT MARSHALL COUNTY CREAMERY PICNIC

Ideal Weather Favors Event Sunday at Old Mill Grounds

Keep an open mind and face the facts of an ever changing world, A. A. Dowell advised more than 5,000 Marshall county residents at the eighth annual picnic of the Marshall County Creameries at the Old Mill site in Foldahl township Sunday afternoon, says the Warren Sheaf.

The bright clear day with a gentle cool breeze from the Northwest proved ideal for the picnickers who attended the annual summer event in good spirit to listen to the addresses of Mr. Dowell and Frank Stone of Land O'Lakes Creameries and otherwise renew acquaintances with friends.

An official check showed that 1,211 cars containing 4,947 persons passed through the main gates to the picnic grounds. In addition, numerous cars entered the grounds through other avenues, assuring the officials that more than 5,000 people were in attendance.

The annual picnic was sponsored this year by the creameries at Stephen, Argyle, Warren, Alvarado, Viking, Newfolden, Strandquist, Holt, Middle River and Gatzke.

N. D. STATE FAIR TO OPEN MONDAY AT GRAND FORKS

Exciting Features Planned for Thrill Day Next Thursday

An entire afternoon packed full of daring and spectacular stunts on and in the air will comprise Thrill Day, Thursday, June 25, at the North Dakota State Fair which opens Monday, June 22 at Grand Forks.

A speeding auto will crash through a solid wall of flaming boards, the stunt which killed the famous Elfrieda Mais. Slewing and skidding down the track at high speed, a stock car will be rolled over right in front of the grandstand.

In the sky, the sensational Bird Man will plunge, somersault and soar 2000 feet unaided by any mechanical device, an air sham battle and sky-writing will follow. Parachuting, championship motorcycle races, auto polo, and jumping automobiles are only a few of the many breath-taking stunts scheduled.

According to Dan F. McGowan, manager, a string of harness horses owned by Mae West will compete Monday, Wednesday and Friday for the $2500 prize money. Auto races will be held on two days this year—Tuesday and Saturday.

Five big circus acts will perform every day, including the World-famous Six Lucky Boys, international foot-juggling champions, just returned from a tour of England.

Ernie Young's 1936 production "Passing Parade" is reported to surpass last year's highly rated "Fascinations". Two solid double length steel cars are required this year for scenery alone, Young said.

1,118 people are required to bring Royal American Shows into action on the Fair midway, with its 18 thrill ride devices, and 24 tent theatre attractions, which occupy 50 railway cars in transit.

CROOKSTON CLINIC FOR THE CRIPPLED SET FOR JUNE 27TH

Physically Handicapped Children to be Examined at Clinic

Launching Minnesota's social security program for Crippled children, two orthopedic clinics, the first of a series of 12, are slated for this month. They will be held at Moorhead, June 20 and Crookston, June 27.

Clinic services will include medical examination of physically handicapped persons under 21 years of age, consultation with the family physician, recommendation for transportation service to school and consultation on training for future employment. Examiners will be members of the Minnesota-Dakota Orthopedic Club. Vocational advice will be provided through the Division of re-education, Minnesota department of education.

These clinics are not a new activity in the state. They were inaugurated many years ago by the Minnesota Public Health association and have been financed annually by Christmas Seal funds. Thier value demonstrated, the clinics have been made a part of the Social Security program for the state and will be financed by government funds in the future. The state Christmas Seal organization will continue to take an active part in the educational and organization work in connection with the clinics.

The annual $50,000 federal allotment will make possible a census of all crippled children in the state. Because facilities in the state hospitals for indigent children are not sufficient to care for all those needing this type of care, funds available from the government will make possible the hospitalization of indigent children in other hospitals throughout the state.

MERCHANTS STAGE A "ROOSTER DAY"

Worthington — Better than 20,000 pounds of the estimated 30,000 of surplus roosters in the Worthington produce plant territory were snatched from the flocks in that area on the occasion of "Rooster Day", a new idea sponsored by Worthington merchants. The occasion was launched with little time for effective promotion, but was so successful that serious plans are already being considered for making it a real event in 1937. The "hire" was a 4-cent premium paid by the Worthington produce plants, plus a 5-cent bonus given by 30 business houses. Prizes were given for the largest rooster, the second largest rooster, the rooster being brought from the greatest distance, and the greatest weight in a rooster being brought from the greatest distance, and the greatest weight in a rooster shipment, the prizes being sacks of egg mash and a batch of chicks.

LIGHTNING HITS KITCHEN STOVE; TEARS BIG HOLE

Willmar.—Mrs. George M. Robbins had an experience that doesn't come to a person often, and that she does not care to have repeated too soon. During a severe electrical storm in Willmar recently, a bolt of lightning struck one of the wires leading to the electric stove in the kitchen of the Robbins home. Following the wire, the lightning raced into the room and tore a hole in the side of the stove similar to that which would be made by an axe handled by Paul Bunyan. At the time the bolt struck, Mrs. Robbins was standing but a short distance away from the stove. She was considerably unnerved and upset by the shock, but suffered no permanent injuries.

LAND TWO BASS ON SINGLE PLUG

Willmar.—Eight pounds of bass but divided into two separate fish, were hauled in on one cast by Rev. W. F. Luttman, Willmar. The reverend gentleman made a cast and as the plug hit the water two bass leaped for it. Upon reeling in the line, Reverend Luttman had them both, with each weighing a bit more than four pounds. The feat followed closely on that of Rudy Halldin's catch of three in one cast, and was made in Nest lake.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. [illegible]

Recently the writer talked with George R. Johnstone, veteran employe of the Great Northern railroad, who is in this part of the country for a visit. He is night roundhouse foreman at Seattle, where he has lived since 1914. Prior to that year he was an engineer on the Great Northern and before that, of course, a fireman. He made a number of trips as a fireman to Thief River Falls from Crookston in the 90's but never pulled a passenger train to this point.

"I remember that there were lots of Indians at Thief River Falls in the 90's and we had lots of fun with them," he said. "We didn't bother the Indians—we weren't bold enough for that, but we had our fun making other train men believe they were about to go on the warpath. In 1891 there was an Indian scare in this part of the country and every once in a while there would be some report about Indians becoming hostile. Since there were lots of people in the towns we stopped at who were afraid of the Indians and were ready to run at the report of an outbreak, we didn't have much trouble convincing some of the boys who didn't know much about the country or Indians either that they were about to be scalped.

"But the Indians furnished quite a bit of excitement in other ways. They had trinkets they had made for sale, including little birch bark canoes and beadwork and articles made of buckskin. We bought quite a bit of this stuff and brought it home. I was living in Grand Forks then. I was married and bought the things for my wife, but some of the other boys got them for their sweethearts who thought they were heroes for daring to visit those 'wild Indians' at Thief River Falls."

"In the 90's the country was a great deal wilder than it was in later years and there were lots of geese and ducks and deer and elk and even moose were to be found in large numbers," the veteran engineer said. "We did a good deal of hunting and it was not uncommon to stop a freight train for a while to hunt. We even stopped passenger trains when everybody aboard seemed to be in favor of the idea."

The veteran asserted that the apparently general belief that James J. Hill, the president of the Great Northern railroad then, was a martinet and a cold-blooded rail magnate is largely unfounded. "He was hard-boiled, all right," he confided, "but he didn't keep as close track of the employees and other matters that now receive careful attention from the higher-ups. After all, Hill was human and his relationships with his men were always on a personal basis, even though he did not pal around with them, as some oldtimers would have us believe."

Mr. Johnstone has made frequent trips to Thief River Falls in recent years and when he left the run to this point came into contact frequently with firemen and engineers who made the runs between here and Crookston. He ran to Cass Lake from Grand Forks for a time and also was on the main line west of the Red river. For two years before he went to the Pacific coast in 1911 he ran a threshing engine for Walter Hill on his bonanza farm at Northcote and one year he returned from Seattle to operate the engine.

"Thief River Falls always was a popular place with the railroad boys", the veteran said. "I guess it was because the railroad was new there. There were quite a few pretty girls who seemed to like railroad men and a good many matches were made in those early years. At that, a girl did not do so bad when she married a 'rail' because the pay was good and there was always a chance for advancement."

The oldtimer told of antics performed by railroad men while laying over in Thief River Falls. One popular "stunt" was to dress one of the boys in a bearskin robe and lead him around after the manner of an Italian organ grinder with a real bear. One of the boys would lead the bear and another would play some instrument, usually a mouth organ. Naturally, there were a good many appreciative spectators who bought drinks which seems to have been the aim of the performers.

"Sometimes I was the bear and sometimes I was the leader," Mr. Johnstone said. "But it didn't matter as we all had a good time. We were young and were more interested in having a good time than anything else. Sometimes we got a little rough as in the case of the purported tarring and feathering of a young homesteader. We got a little hot tar on him but didn't really hurt him and afterward he became a great friend of the boys."

Mr. Johnstone has numerous friends who will remember him and the good old days when the Great Northern "rails" were having such a good time. It may be that there are men in the Thief River Falls neighborhood who remember him and there may even be a staid matron or two who recalls the good-natured young fireman who was known as "Coon" because of his popularity as a clown.

AVOIDS COLLISION BUT IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Worthington.—A freak accident, in which altho a collision was averted and ordinarily no one would have been hurt, occurred at the Lakefield corner on U. S. 16 recently. G. A. Benson was returning with N. J. Hanson from Mankato, where the two men had been attending a district meeting of morticians. At the intersection another car, approaching from the west, left-turned toward the Lakefield road squarely in front of the Hanson car. Hanson avoided a collision by checking his speed quickly and jumming to the left. The combination of the sudden stop and twist threw Hanson so hard against the right hand front door that it opened and he fell heavily to the highway. He was hurried to the hospital, where it was found he had several fractured ribs and head and shoulder injuries, and he was kept under observation for several days for possible internal injuries.

"Already this RED CROWN'S saved me more than I paid for it—and I've still got it" boasts Barclay B. Barnacle

Mr. Barnacle, known throughout the state for his prominence in Tall Stories Club circles, was glad to tell us how he solved the problem of gasoline costs . . . We pass it on for what it's worth, which doesn't seem to be much.

"I USE our car all day, and my son, Barclay B. Jr., uses it all night. That used to take a lot o' gas . . . until we switched to Red Crown, yesterday.

"Seems like right then our fortunes looked up. Why, only fifteen minutes after I'd bought the first tankful I stopped in the bank and found I had 89 cents more in my account. That's about five gallons saved.

"And this morning, after Junior had driven his girl 50 miles over to Lenoraville and 50 miles back to attend a lecture on Crop Rotation, there was still ten gallons left in the tank!

"'Course some would say Junior might just o' parked down the road a piece and never gone to Lenoraville . . . but anyhow, I'll be buying Red Crown if I ever have to buy any gas again."

Mr. Barnacle's imagination runs away with him at times, it seems. Certainly it did THIS time!

Of course, no motorist really has any such exaggerated belief as this, about gasoline mileage. But many do have inaccurate impressions. That's why Standard is conducting the most extensive road test ever attempted, this summer. Rather than make claims, Standard prefers to make it easy for motorists to find out the real facts about gasoline mileage for themselves.

Ganges Water Sacred

Benares, India, is the center of the real Hindu life and religion. Swarms of pilgrims travel miles to bathe in the sacred waters of the Ganges—to drink and lave their faces—thus, in their belief, washing away their sins and assuring the salvation of their souls. They stand by the hundreds waist deep in the murky water, lips moving in prayer, oblivious in their religious fervor to curious onlookers. The terraced slopes leading to the river are crowded with priests, sacred cattle and many of India's three million holy men.

Gregory, Name for Popes

100% Soft Water

Saves as much as 80% in soap. Eliminates "Breaking" chemicals. Eliminates soap curds. Doubles life of washable clothes. Great aid to beauty. Makes bathing exhilarating. Makes shaving smoother. Makes shampooing a satisfaction. Makes glassware sparkle. Makes all washing easier. Makes drinking water better. Makes coffee truly delightful. Materially lessens housework.

MARSHALL FAIR OPENS AT WARREN MONDAY MORNING

Exposition Will be in Progress for Three Days Next Week

When the gates open Monday morning for the 30th annual Marshall county fair at Warren, Northwestern Minnesota residents will witness some of the finest educational and entertainment features ever offered in this section next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, according to Wm. Forsberg, Warren, president of the fair association.

Elsewhere in this paper details of the fair programs are published in an advertisement from the Fair Association. The Lew Rosenthal Amusement Co. of Waterloo, Iowa will again supply the grandstand attractions. This company has furnished the grandstand attractions at the local fair for several years, much to the satisfaction of the people of the Northwest. This year is a greatly improved program has been arranged which will thrill and delight the visitors who attend the fair.

Although the fair is being held at an early date this year, interest in the various exhibit divisions has reached a new high peak and indications now point to record displays. Entry days for exhibits will be on Saturday from 1 to 6 p. m. and on Sunday from 1 to 6 p. m. Judging of exhibits will start at 8 a. m. Monday.

The Northwest's greatest farm machinery display will crowd machinery row at the fair grounds with implement dealers from several villages of the county reserving space. All of the new and modern types of farm machinery will be on display.

The new fair grounds park will be open for public use during the three day exposition. This beautiful wooded park will afford an ideal spot for picnics, and visitors are invited to make full use of the facilities offered while attending the fair next week. Fresh drinking water will be available at convenient taps located on the fair grounds, while concessions will have ample stocks of other good things to drink and eat.

We, too, are flattered when people refer to the old West Hotel. A famous landmark for half a century, now completely refurnished and redecorated — in fact, as modern as any hotel in Minneapolis. Comfort, convenience, hospitality and the best of service await you at The West Hotel. Popular prices for both Rooms and Meals. Write for descriptive folder and map.

Loan Applications Down 87 Per Cent in Last Two Year Period

Improved conditions for Minnesota farmers are reflected in the decline of their need of land bank and commissioner financing, the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul believes.

"We do not assert that the farmers are 'out of the woods' yet, and this institution is keenly alive to the fact that farm income in many sections must be substantially increased, but there are several hopeful signs indicating that they are on their way out," the statement says. It then compares the large falling off in applications for loans, and the relatively low percentage of farm bankruptcies as among the hopeful indications.

"In the first 4 months of 1936 there have been 1,261 applications for land bank and commissioner loans in Minnesota," the statement continues, "This is only 42 per cent of the number of applications made in the first 4 months of 1935 which totaled 2,967. The applications for 1935 were in turn only 32 per cent of those made for the corresponding 4 months of 1934.

"Heeding these applications from the peak downward they were: in the first 4 months of 1934, 9,155 applications; in 1935, 2,967 applications, and in 1936 only 1,261. That means something. We believe it means that the farmers are in a much improved financial condition compared to that of 1934 and even of 1935."

CONCRETE ROADS

It's big business—this vacation trade. Retail stores, restaurants, filling stations, hotels, garages, amusement places, farmers—all profit directly from it. And everybody profits indirectly.

Other communities are in competition with yours. That's why it pays to build concrete roads. For tourists like to follow the concrete—just as you do.

Your community will make money and save money if your roads are concrete. Concrete costs less to build than other pavements of equal load-strength, costs far less to maintain and less to drive on. Insist on concrete.

Tourists spend more money in Minnesota every year than is spent for highways. More concrete highways will bring more tourists. Your community will benefit in two ways: You will get the tourist trade and you will have the use of dependable all-weather highways the year 'round.

FARMERS UNION VOTES MERGER WITH 2D GROUP

Members at Convention Here Favor Combining Two Organizations

SEVERAL HUNDRED MEMBERS PRESENT

Directors Given Charge of Conducting Negotiations for Merger

A gathering of several hundred members of the Minnesota Farmers Union attended a state-wide meeting in the Auditorium Monday specially called to act on several proposed changes in the present setup of the organization.

Results of balloting during the afternoon, which were announced following an evening program, revealed that the vote was 197 to 10 in favor of changing the name of the organization to Cooperative Union Activities; 378 to 21 in favor of affiliating with the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union, Minnesota division; and voted 278 to 115 in favor of leaving merger negotiations in the hands of the board of directors.

Robert Miller, president of the Farmers Union, presided at the sessions, assisted by J. Edward Anderson, secretary. Mayor W. W. Prichard made a brief address of welcome, to which a response was made by Theodore Swenson of Fairmont, who had come the greatest distance to be present at the meeting. Alderman H. W. Kinghorn welcomed the visitors in behalf of the city council and also spoke for the Peoples Cooperative store, while R. M. Aalbu extended greetings in behalf of his newspaper.

Thomas C. Croll, representative of the Farmers National Grain corporation, was the principal speaker on the afternoon program. Speaking of drouth conditions in western North Dakota, where he said farmers are going on relief this year who never had received aid before, Mr. Croll stated that it takes depression times to put the cooperative message across. He also commented on the recent enactment by Congress of the commodities exchange bill as being of great importance. He stated in closing that the cooperative movement is of greater value to the farmer than are the various political parties.

Charles D. Egley, manager of the Farmers Union Livestock exchange, also spoke at the afternoon meeting. Much time was devoted to a discussion of the questions which were voted on at the close of the session, a variety of opinions for and against being expressed.

The evening program was made up of local and instrumental selections by junior members of Pennington county units of the Farmers Union.

NEW BASIS FOR WPA JOBS, SAYS HARRY HOPKINS

Eligibility Determined by Local Authorities, He Announces

WORK TO CONTINUE FOLLOWING JULY 1

National Director Tells of Program in Radio Address

With necessary legislation passed by both houses of Congress and signed by President Roosevelt, Harry L. Hopkins, national administrator of the Works Progress Administration, led a broadcast discussion last Saturday over sixty stations of the NBC network. The discussion, which was carried on by a number of prominent national people, had as its objective the outlining of the new program which becomes effective July 1.

In the broadcast discussion, Mr. Hopkins revealed that there will be no official break between June 30 and July 1. Except for minor changes, WPA projects now in operation, or already approved but not started, will continue without interruption.

Other facts revealed in the broadcast were that eligibility for WPA work will be determined by local authorities and will be on the basis of need; that prevailing wages, on an hourly basis, will be paid but the number of hours worked will be somewhat curtailed so that the net incomes of workers will not be much greater than at present; as in the past, no project worker or administrative employee will be asked to make a contribution to any political party, nor will political endorsement be required to obtain a job; that farm-to-market roads will be continued along with others, with the cooperation of the governmental subdivisions.

According to figures presented on the broadcast, there are more than 90,000 projects in operation throughout the nation, and the administrative cost over the whole nation has been approximately 4 per cent of the total money spent. Women have also had their share of employment, the number being 400,000 or 16 per cent of all the people at work.

Closing the broadcast, Mr. Hopkins expressed the belief that American citizens who are unemployed, some through no fault of their own, should and will have jobs. "We know that they will continue to do an honest day's work in return for wages," he stated. "We go forward into the next year with new determination to improve our work, and strive to keep faith with the American public."

The broadcast was heard all over Minnesota. Special gatherings were arranged for that purpose, under the direction of Victor Christgau, state administrator. In the seventh district, Director Kovarik placed the arrangements in charge of the area engineers and their assistants. According to reports received from some of the engineers, timekeepers and county supervisors, a large number of radio meetings were held to listen in on Mr. Hopkins' staff meeting.

Mrs. W. W. Prichard Attends Novel Reunion in Minneapolis

The story of a novel reunion of eight classmates who were graduated from the Alden, Minnesota, high school in 1906, and who have since maintained contact by means of circular letters, was told in the Minneapolis Journal last Thursday, together with pictures of the group thirty years ago and now. Mrs. W. W. Prichard of this city, one of the eight women, was present at the reunion.

The Journal's story follows:

For 30 years the letters went round and round, and yesterday the circle was completed.

It was a circle of friendship that bound together eight women from the day they were graduated from high school at Alden, Minn., and it grew stronger by the year, although they moved to homes often separated by the entire continent.

These eight women originated a "circular letter" all their own.

On their graduation day they pledged themselves to continue their friendship, no matter where chance might take them. They agreed that every six weeks one of the eight was to write a letter, send it on to another, and she in turn was to keep it on its way around the circle.

For 30 years they kept it up, and only once in that time was a letter lost.

Yesterday, for the first time since they parted 30 years ago, the women gathered at a reunion in the home of Mrs. Palma Matheson Berg in Minneapolis.

Red River Valley History

By Wm V. Wehking

Threshing Blue Grass

Recently the writer encountered a decidedly unusual story, which, although it does not deal directly with early-day history, still is allied to that subject. The writer has been in Benson much of the time lately supervising a special newspaper edition. A few days ago the proprietor of a Benson restaurant introduced the writer to a man from Missouri, Charles F. King, who turned out to be an interesting person. The restaurant proprietor, knowing that we write newspaper articles, explained that he thought the Missourian could give me a good story.

Well, it turned out that this man King is the foreman of a crew of men sent up here from Missouri to cut and thresh blue grass. Yes, that's just what they are doing. It seems that an attorney living at Albany, Mo., whose name is J. W. McKnight, found out three years ago about Minnesota's high-grade blue grass. How he found it out the foreman couldn't tell us, but this is the third year he has sent crews to Minnesota to harvest and thresh the grass.

What is more, the blue grass that grows in Minnesota is far better than that in Kentucky in spite of the fact that the "nick name" of that state was taken from the name of this grass, Kentucky being known as the "Blue Grass" state. The crew the writer saw had 21 machines with them, but now there are 50 men operating more machines and soon there will be 100 blue grass harvesting and threshing rigs in operation.

The Missouri attorney has leased 1,000 acres in Swift county between Benson and Clontarf and the foreman says a good harvest is assured this year. The crop probably will exceed that of last year when seven train carloads were shipped by McKnight's crews from Minnesota. So far, the blue grass seems to be most plentiful in Swift county, at least in that section of the state, but King said he understood his boss planned to work farther north this year. He did not know where or how far north, however.

The normal price of blue grass seed on the market is five cents a pound but the price now is down to three cents, according to the foreman. Only 11 pounds of blue grass seed are required to make a bushel. The seed is used for lawns and for other landscaping purposes and it must be a great deal better than other seeds used for this purpose or it would not be in such great demand. Of the fact that it grows wild may have something to do with it, but, anyway, it is quite an enterprise. After the writer had talked with the foreman for a while he (the foreman) began to show evidence of reluctance in answering questions. Finally he explained that he was afraid his boss might not wish to have him talk too much about the matter.

Naturally, he would not want to have a good thing broadcast from the housetops, although we do not know that he feels that way about it, to be sure. However, being a newspaperman, the writer could not very well ignore the story and he feels that his first duty is to his readers and so all the facts obtainable about this blue grass harvesting and threshing project in Minnesota are being set down.

We haven't had opportunity to consult botonists or authorities on seeds specifically either in person or in print and so we can not write authoritatively about blue grass seed. In truth, we do not know whether it is a native Minnesota grass or was transplanted in the state. It is barely possible that the Irish colonists who settled in the vicinity of Benson, Clontarf and Benson's neighboring town on the other side, De Graff, planted the blue grass, but no one seems to have any definite information about this.

But we wish to compare this move to capitalize on nature's bounty to the ginseng and seneca, or snake-root, and in North Dakota many earned money gathering and shipping buffalo bones which lay bleached white on the prairie in vast quantities. These practices seem more appropriate to the early years and this idea of the Missouri attorney's seems a bit out of order for these times. Not that we are criticising him. We realize that he has a perfect right to do as he is doing. But it seems strange that such a possibility should exist in a thickly settled territory in these times.

But that's where the unusual part of this story comes in and it is that fact that we wish to impress on readers. In other words, we wish to direct attention to the fact that opportunities still exist in a fairly numerous total although sometimes they are encountered only by chance. In the Missourian's case, it would appear that he heard opportunity's knock.

In Memoriam

In memory of our husband and father:

One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away;
God took him home—it was His will;
Within our hearts he liveth still,
We think of him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep;
But still within our aching hearts
His memory we keep.

Mrs. Andrew A. Haugen and family 26p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling mother who passed away one sad year ago June 29, 1935:

When a mother breathes her last farewell
The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.

The Torstveit family. 26p

Thank You

I want to thank the citizens and voters in the 65th Legislative District for their support and vote at the Primary election, and urge that they support the Progressive nominees, Marius Waldal and Geo. P. Jones, at the coming fall election.

MAKES OWN PLANE AND TAKES TO AIR

Slayton.— Goodwin Carlson, Lake Sarah township near Slayton, has manufactured an airpalne in which it is not unusual for him to drop in (literally) on relatives after a trip about the country. The machine, a light, one-seated monoplane, which took him several months to build, is operated by a small 20 horse power motor. In one trip of 280 miles the plane consumed only 13 gallons of gas in four hours of flying time. Carlson's best speed so far has been at the rate of 85 miles an hour, flying from Morris to Marshall, the trip being completed in an hour and five minutes. An interesting feature of the plane is that the wings can be folded, permitting storage in a shed 6 x 20 feet. Carlson became air minded about 10 years ago, making an extensive study of aviation since that time. The greater part of his studies have been about the machines themselves.

HAYING IS ON

Haying is now under way and hay is going to be worth good money before another crop comes, so we recommend putting up all the hay you can. If you need extra haying equipment we have all in stock ready for immediate delivery, complete line of McCormick-Deering hay machinery for horses or tractor outfits. We also have several used mowers and some hay rakes in stock.

SUMMER FALLOW

The new No. 6 McCormick-Deering Field Cultivator is of exceptional value for summer fallow work. It is far different in very many respects to anything ever offered before and far surpasses any other tool for field cultivation and especially to clean out quack grass.

HARVESTER-THRESHER

We have just unloaded one of the latest type McCormick-Deering Harvester Thresher, which has many new improvements and is far superior to any Harvester Thresher ever offered. We will have it assembled and set up in the near future and invite your inspection.

HARVEST WITH McCORMICK-DEERING

When you buy a McCormick-Deering grain binder you know you get the best and can get continued service. Last year we traded in several other binders that were less than two years old at less than one fourth of original cost, simply because the owners could not get repair service. Surely this is important with a grain binder of all machines. We have already delivered a great number of grain binders and now is the time to place your order. Last year we could not get binders when wanted, it may be the same this year.

OUR REPAIR DEPARTMENT

Our repair department has again been enlarged with a large section of extra bins added and our entire repair department in one place including the Minnesota machinery repairs. The last two years we handled the entire Minnesota line and repairs at our warehouse. This year all repairs in parts department in our new building. We hope to improve our service to every customer's satisfaction.

GRAIN THRESHERS

McCormick-Deering Thresher

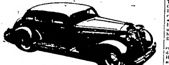
Always something sold and claimed "just as good" and that has often been the case with grain threshers and many are they who found out a mistake in buying a grain thresher just because of a few dollars less original cost. The McCormick-Deering thresher has for many years proven to be a quality machine and it is no chance proposition. When you buy a McCormick-Deering grain thresher you know you have the best and we aim to give every McCormick-Deering machine 100% attention and no delay in service. We have given 25 years of that kind of service and we are your servants. We brag not but we challenge.

OUR MISTAKE

The F20 McCormick-Deering Farmall tractor is right up on top in filling the bill on most every farm. It is not too large for a quarter section farm and it is large enough for greater acreage. It handles every farm power field and belt power job, is economical in operation and in short the ideal farm motor power. We have neglected promoting this tractor. It costs some more than some other tractors CLAIMED to do the same job. But we claim it is well worth your time to make a complete investigation-Nebraska test as well as material construction and its performance in the field. See this F20 on our sample floor, and if you want a demonstration let us know.

THE PLYMOUTH IS ON DISPLAY

The Pennington County fair Plymouth is on display in our showroom and we invite your inspection. If you get this car, and would rather have a good truck, we will exchange it for an International long wheelbase pickup truck. This unit costs a little more but we will let it go on this deal at the same figure. Don't forget to call for your Pennington County Fair tickets with every dollar purchase.



AUTOMOBILES

Besides our fine display of new automobiles in Chrysler Plymouth-Nash and LaFayette, we now have a very fine assortment of good value used automobiles.

TRUCKS

We have an International truck to fit every possible truck job and the International trucks are proving their value and winning the most satisfied customers.

We always have a good stock of used trucks in our International truck trades.

MAILS BACK WATCH STOLEN 8 YEARS AGO

Mountain Lake. - Eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yokiel of Wells left their home to spend the day with relatives. Upon returning that evening they found a porch climber had evidently gotten into their home but by no mistake. The house had been thoroughly ransacked and a few articles were taken. Among them and the most valuable was a 17 jewel Swiss watch belonging to Mrs. Yokiel. The other day Mrs. Yokiel received through the mail a package containing her watch. The sender failed to put his return address on the package. Evidently after eight years of service the watch needs cleaning, and the thief is returning it to Mrs. Yokiel for that purpose. Possibly the sender didn't need a return address as he probably isn't worried about getting the watch back. He might even have another by this time.

THANKS To the Voters

WE APPROACH THE FIRST STEP

A revised schedule of light and power rates will be submitted at the next meeting of the city council, which means that by fall we probably will be operating under a new set of rates. The new schedule will provide for a one meter system, which will correct one of the worst evils of the present arrangement. There will also be moderate rate reductions for residents who are now buying current on a one meter basis. Those who have been lighting their homes at the present cooking rate may have to pay more.

Those who look forward to drastic reductions under the new schedule will be disappointed. And justifiably so. The new rates will still be too high. But in revising rates the council must necessarily consider revenue and the new structure will be an experiment in the effect of moderate downward revision on current consumption. The new schedule, therefore, should not be considered as a permanent rate but rather as the first step toward a rate that eventually will enable local consumers to buy light and power at a reasonable price.

THE PICTURE IS CHANGING

A few months ago Roosevelt seemed to be a certainty for another four years in the White House. And while even opponents admit that he is still the favorite to win, recent shifts in the country's political affairs have brought much encouragement to those who are trying to "stop Roosevelt."

Entrance of the new Union Party to the field of national politics is evidently causing much concern to Democratic leaders. If William Lemke, presidential candidate of this party, gets the support of such factions as Father Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice, Long's share-the-wealth organization and Townsend's old-age pension advocates, he undoubtedly will become an important factor in the election. His support will come largely from a group that otherwise would support Roosevelt. Added to this possibility is the probability that many anti-New Deal Democrats will actively support Landon.

These factors, along with such shifts to the Republican party as was evident in the Minnesota primary a couple of weeks ago, have greatly changed the prospects for the coming campaign. Some of the more hopeful Republicans even talk of winning while all those who hope the result of the election will be sufficiently close to have a sobering affect on the President are greatly encouraged.

CROP PROSPECTS NOT SO GOOD

Crop prospects for the country as a whole are not so good. Hot, dry weather has boosted grain prices. The government is taking steps to provide drouth relief. Evidently the dry cycle of years is still with us.

In this community the dry years have been kind to us. Abnormal demands for feed from other territories have provided us with a good market for our surpluses. As a result of light harvests elsewhere, prices have strengthened and we have secured a better price for the products that we normally market. Up to the present time we have had no reason to complain about the "lean years".

What 1936 will bring us cannot be predicted at this time. It is fairly safe to say that we will have ample feed for our own needs no matter what develops from now on. Which is a comforting thought. With a little more rain we may harvest an average crop. And under proper conditions our crops may be better than average. Compared to other sections of the country we have little to complain of and much to be thankful for.

The next few weeks will decide our fate for another year. They will be anxious weeks. They will tell us whether we win or lose, and if we win, how much.

Opening of the gates at the outlet of Red Lakes should bring the level of the river above the dam back to a high mark again and freshen the source of the city's drinking water. Which reminds us that several people have suggested a lower rate on water during the dry summer months to encourage the proper care of lawns. Which is a good idea. And it is a thing that could be done without difficulty. By using water bills for the last quarter as a base, the city could sell all the excess over that amount for the present quarter at a greatly reduced rate. The city would then collect enough to cover the cost of additional pumping and bookkeeping and property owners would be encouraged to take better care of their yards.

Government debt in the United States, federal state and local, now totals the tidy sum of fifty-three billion dollars, as compared with a total of thirty-four billions in 1929. Of this increase of nearly twenty billions in the six year period, the federal government accounted for seventeen billions, state and local debt having increased less than three billions. And the end is not yet. By the end of the year several more billions will be added to the obligations of the federal government. Nearly twenty billion dollars was made available for spending by the 74th Congress alone, which adjourned last week. And anyone who raises a voice of protest to this program of spending is a public enemy. What a headache this country is going to have when it finally sobers up from its present drunk.

That the business of the Democratic national convention could easily be disposed of in one day is generally admitted. Nomination of Roosevelt and Garner to succeed themselves was never in question. And the platform probably was drafted several weeks ago. Why, then, should the convention be dragged out over five days? There are several reasons. Philadelphia laid two hundred thousand dollars on the barrel head to secure the convention and the visitors must be detained long enough to give Philadelphians a chance to get a fair return on their investment. And then, too, five days provide more opportunity for publicity than would be possible in a one day event. There will be more headlines in the newspapers and more radio speeches and all that sort of thing. And besides who would want to be a delegate to a gathering of that kind if it provided an excuse for only a one day celebration.

Warren Friday evening and Goodridge Sunday afternoon is the schedule of the Thief River Falls baseball team for this week. And they will be interesting games. Local fans are saying many nice things about the team, which indicates that the quality of entertainment provided is far above earlier expectations. And it takes a lot to satisfy the customers these days.

A CHAIN LETTER FUGITIVE
(Minneota Mascot)

A new idea in chain letters came to light in the state of Washington last week. It works on the same principle as the "dime-a-letter" chain, except that instead of sending a dime the correspondent who receives one of the chain postcards sends out six postcards all demanding the resignation of Congressman Zioncheck. Five of the postcards are to be mailed to friends and one to the erratic Congressman himself.

Cards being sent in Washington bear this text: "Keep this chain unbroken. Please mail one card to Congressman Zioncheck asking him to resign. Then mail five cards to five of your friends within the state asking them to do likewise. Do not fail."

Humorous though the intention of this chain may be, it is not without its serious aspect. It is a sad commentary on the whims of an electorate when a man such as Zioncheck should be sent to Congress. We in Minnesota, of course, can not very well point a finger of scorn at Washington. We sent Shoemaker to Congress—a fact which most Minnesotans would like to forget.

There are, however, more effective ways of disposing of undesirable public officials than worrying them with postal cards. It has not been determined whether Congressman Zioncheck is suffering from a serious hangover or a diseased mental condition. If it is the former, then the people of Washington have but to bide their time until the next election to be rid of the congressional playboy. If it is the latter, then his term of office automatically ends.

THE WORKER PAYS
(St. Cloud Sentinel)

If you think the so-called rich pay all the taxes, and the rest of us receive all the bounty of government for nothing, here are some facts that will disillusion you. They are taken from an editorial in the Charlestown News and Courier, entitled "Taxing the Worker."

Every dollar spent by the federal government in the last fiscal year was derived as follows:

Seven cents from personal income taxes; eight cents from corporation taxes; six cents from liquor taxes; six cents from tobacco taxes; seven cents from processing taxes; five cents from excise taxes; five cents from customs duties; three cents from estate and gift taxes; four cents from all other forms of taxes.

Practically every one of those taxes is in effect, a sales tax. Each represents a part of the cost of the things we buy. Each one, with a few and unimportant exceptions, must be and is passed on to the consumer.

And that isn't the worst of it. The total of the taxes listed above comes to just 51 cents, leaving 49 cents of each dollar unaccounted for. That 49 cents was obtained by borrowing—and when the day of reckoning comes, it will be the worker and the man of average means who will have to foot practically all of the gigantic bill.

GROWING OLD PROPERLY
(Murray County Herald)

The Chicago Tribune has checked up on 18 retired professors of Chicago University, eighteen of them over 70 years of age, and found every one of them busy at active work, studying, reading, writing books, delivering lectures, and making themselves useful to society. They were not satisfied to sit back and just live on their pensions, although they could have done so. They use their leisure time in making their years of accumulated wisdom a gift to the public. Thus they do not grow old. One of them is now 90 years of age, and another 82, and three others over eighty. This is the right way to grow old. It would be wonderful if all people could put in their closing years of life in some such way, contributing something to the public good. As a rule those who live earnestly while they are in their "working years," still are able to serve the world after they have retired from active work.

MORE GAME WARDENS
(International Falls Journal)

Each year, with the beginning of the fishing season, and again when the hunting season opens, the truth is brought home to northern Minnesotans that there are not enough game wardens in the northern part of the state to handle a situation which grows worse from year to year.

It is very probable that there are enough deputies scattered throughout the state, but they are grouped in the wrong places.

We have a plethora of game conservators where there is no game and no fish, and a scarcity of wardens where there is an abundance of fish and game. It has always been so and probably always will be that way. Up here we have three wardens to cover a territory larger than some states. We have fishing resorts by the dozens, separated by miles of space, and only to be reached by rough roads or open water.

During the hunting season the same condition exists. Hundreds of square miles of territory difficult to traverse and hundreds of hunters, many of them game hogs, scattered throughout the territory.

It is a physical impossibility, even though they worked 24 hours every day, for the limited force of wardens assigned to this territory to come even close to preventing law violations.

If the present force of game wardens are to be kept on the payroll they should be assigned to territory where their services are needed and where they can earn the salary the state pays them.

RUSSIA AND THE FAMILY
(Duluth Herald)

In spite of the glowing descriptions of the happiness in Russia as a result of laws which made divorce easy and family responsibility light the Russian government seems to be unconvinced. Perhaps the descriptions were intended for American consumption, perhaps the test took time to show that human nature has the same failings under Communism as under older forms of political economy. At any rate, a new law published at Moscow for public approval, whatever that means, in a dictator ruled country, will make divorce hard, and enforce heavier family responsibilities.

Apparently the family, an older institution than either Capitalism or Communism, has more than tradition to recommend it.

No Rides for Witches

Windmills in Portugal are often hung with pots to keep witches from taking free rides, when the mill turns, says Jan and Cora Gordon in "Portuguese Holiday."

Origin of Mute Unknown

Nobody seems to know when the mute, which is attached to the bridge of a violin to change its tone, was invented. One of the earliest printed scores to call for its use is that of Lully's "Armide."

FROM MISSOURI, BUT NEEDS NO "SHOWING"

Jackson.—E. H. Warren, manager of the Botsford Lumber Co., at Jackson, is one fellow who is skeptical about the saying "I'm from Missouri, You'll have to show me." A Missourian who visited the company's office recently didn't have to be shown the cash box, but got away with approximately $100. The stranger entered the office and stated he was interested in purchasing a quantity of building material. Warren quite naturally was alert to the possibility of making a sale. After giving the stranger figures on his wants, Warren was called to his private office a moment. Absent but a minute, he returned to find the stranger called to gone. Becoming suspicious, Warren examined the cash drawer, and found the $100 missing. The "bird" had flown and apparently did a pretty job of covering up his whereabouts, for police have found no trace of him. The man was driving a 1931 Chevrolet coupe with Missouri license plates.

RED LAKE FALLS HIJACKERS PLEAD GUILTY TO CHARGE

Confess to Taking $3,000 Liquor Cargo Near Mentor Mar. 30

Four confessed liquor hijackers pleaded guilty to kidnaping charges Monday before Judge M. M. Joyce in federal court, in St. Paul. They are Leonard Parish, Russell Arend and Bernard Martineau of St. Paul and Matthew Stiegbauer of Minneapolis.

They will be sentenced July 27 following investigation by the probation officer. The kidnap charges grew out of a hijacking last March 30 near Mentor, Minn., where a truck carrying $3,000 worth of liquor belonging to the municipal liquor store of Red Lake Falls, was halted by two automobiles.

The hijackers took the drivers, Felix Barrette and Fred Farrington, into one of the cars. Both cars and the truck were driven toward Crookston but the truck and one of the cars became stuck in the snow near there.

The hijackers drove the other car to Grand Forks, N. D., taking the two truck drivers with them. Later they extricated the truck and the other car and released the truck drivers.

In taking the drivers over the state line into North Dakota, they fell afoul of the federal law.

State Road Program Awaiting Action by Executive Council

The state highway department's department's proposed $7,400,000 federal aid road construction program for the fiscal year beginning July 1 cannot be launched until the state executive council authorizes the sale of bonds to meet the state's share of the program, according to N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

The legislature authorized a $1,000,000 issue of highway bonds to match a $3,100,000 federal aid allowance for this fiscal year. The executive council, however, must approve the bond issue before the highway department can obtain the money. Mr. Elsberg said he hopes for early action by the council so there will not be too much delay in getting the program under contract.

Shaw Horse Has Mishap in Race at Grand Forks

High Peter, horse entered by B. J. Shaw of this city in the second division of the 2:28 pace at the state fair races in Grand Forks Wednesday, placed fifth in the first heat. In the second, the horse made a dash after being reined suddenly, making it necessary for the driver, Phelps, to turn into the fence to avoid a collision with the entrant ahead, damaging the sulky and shaking the driver so severely that he had to retire from the event.

CONGRESS QUITS WITH PASSAGE OF RELIEF MEASURE

Adjourns After Voting Most Money in Peace Time History

Congress quit Washington Monday for the political wars—a four month's campaign in which major controversies of the 74th congress are expected to be principal issues.

Republicans said they would base their attack on the New Deal upon many of the major acts passed during the second congress of President Roosevelt's administration. Democrats indicated willingness to accept the challenge.

The second session of the 74th congress ended early Sunday after a week of hectic activity that saw passage of the new budget tax bill and the deficiency relief bill carrying $1,425,000,000 to continue work relief.

The 74th congress was the largest spender in peace time history. It added about $20,000,000,000 to the $15,000,000,000 appropriated by the first New Deal congress, the 73rd, for a record total of $35,233,000,000 in four years.

Major acts of the session beginning last January 3, were:

1. Enactment of the soil conservation act involving indirect control of farm production and benefit payments to replace the AAA.
2. Approval of immediate payment of the $2,000,000,000 soldiers' bonus over President Roosevelt's veto.
3. Appropriation of $1,425,000,000 to continue work relief under the WPA.
4. Extension of the neutrality act designed to keep the United States free from foreign conflicts.

World War Veteran Passes Away Thursday at Hospital in City

Rev. E. L. Tungseth conducted the funeral services for Sigurd J. Rafteseth at the Rindahl Lutheran church at Rosewood Monday, June 22, at 2:00 p. m. Burial was made in the Rindahl Cemetery. Mr. Rafteseth died Thursday, June 18, at a local hospital at the age of 47.

Left to mourn his passing are his mother, Mrs. Johanna Rafteseth of Rosewood and two sisters, Mrs. Millie Arlington of Medicine Hat, Alberta, Can., and Mrs. Jessie Nakken of Rosewood, and three brothers, Matt of Flint, Mich., Hjalmer of Thief River Falls, and Alfred of Rosewood. His father, one sister, and two brothers have preceded him in death.

The deceased was born and raised in Rosewood and lived there until July 16, 1918 when he enlisted in the World War entering service as a private in Co. B 64th pioneer infantry at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. He left for overseas August 29, 1918 and took part in the Battle of the Meuse-Argonne offensive. He returned to the U. S. June 26, 1919 and was honorably discharged at Camp Grant July 5, 1919 and returned to Rosewood where he lived until 1930 when he moved to Medicine Hat, Alberta, Can. and in 1932 he moved to San Francisco, Calif. In 1935 he returned to Rosewood where he has since made his home.

Mr. Rafteseth was a member of the Rindahl Lutheran church at Rosewood. He was also a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles of San Francisco, Calif. and the Elmer Eklund Post No. 117 American Legion of Thief River Falls.

CROPS AND SOILS DAY HELD JULY 13 AT N. W. SCHOOL

Farmers of Red River Valley Invited to Participate in Event

The annual Crops and Soils Day will be held Monday, July 13, at the Northwest School and Station. The program is under the auspices of the Red River Valley Crops and Soils association. Everyone interested in the newest developments in crops and soils work is invited. The campus makes an attractive place for a picnic dinner, and coffee and cream will be furnished free by the school. A program for women and children is being arranged in conjunction with the men's program.

Herman Skyberg, Fisher, president of the Crops and Soils association, has called a business meeting of that organization for one-thirty. Following this, the entire afternoon will be devoted to a tour of inspection and a discussion of the plots and the experimental trials under way. Horticultural work, including sugar beet and potato investigations, will be explained by T. M. McCall, station horticulturist. The plots relating to field crops and soils are supervised by R. S. Dunham, station agronomist, who will lead this phase of the program. Pure seed production of wheat, oats, barley, and flax is supervised by E. R. Clark, station seed specialist, who will discuss future distribution of the varieties now being grown.

In spite of the successful performance of Thatcher, new wheat varieties have been produced, some of which appear to have certain advantages over Thatcher and others that have attempted to fill its place. A new hull-less oats has so far proved immune to smut and has yielded exceptionally well. Interest in fiber flax has been revived and trials of heavy seedings of Bison in comparison with a true fiber variety have been started at the instigation of a paper manufacturer. Three corn hybrids are included in the trials this year, one from University Farm, one from Northrup King and Company, and one from Sioux City Seed Company of Iowa.

Potatoes Need Higher Quality and Grading, 'U' Farm Study Shows

That Minnesota potato growers can make more money by marketing potatoes of higher quality and more uniform size is sharply emphasized in a new bulletin published at University Farm, St. Paul, on "A Study of the Demand for Potatoes in the Twin Cities." The study was conducted by L. F. Garey, division of agricultural economics, among hotels, hospitals, restaurants and retail stores in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The study bristles with significant facts for Minnesota potato producers. For one thing, it shows that large cities have a great demand for the very best quality of potatoes, high in cooking quality and uniform in size. Since about 30 per cent of the potatoes used in the Twin Cities come from outside states, Mr. Garey asked what the objections were to Minnesota potatoes. The replies indicated that a large part of the shipped-in potatoes could be replaced by Minnesota potatoes through improvement in quality and more careful grading. Better control of diseases would greatly improve the quality of the Minnesota crop.

Another conclusion was that improvement of quality and better grading would also help the sale of Minnesota potatoes shipped out of the state.

The bulletin, which has the number 324, is published by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, and is available free from county agents, high school agriculture teachers, or from the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

LOSES FISH FROM HOOK LANDS IT WITH HANDS

Battle Lake—Speaking about fish and fishing, Harold Peterson of Fergus Falls has not much time for the fisherman who comes home and tells about the big fish that got away. Unless the fisherman made an earnest attempt by going into the lake to retrieve the fish after he got away, Peterson lists him among the "poor sport" fishermen. A few days ago Peterson was fishing in Battle Lake at the edge of the drop-off. A swish on the line told him he had a big one, and a wall-eyed pike was skillfully reeled in. But just as Peterson was to lift it into the boat, the pike made a mighty flop and was off the hook. Bewildered, the pike started for shore and into the shallower water, and Peterson leaped in after it. He was waist-deep when the fish discovered its mistake and started for deep water, but Peterson was in close pursuit. The pike swam between his legs and slipped thru Peterson's grip, but still bewildered, turned again for the shore. When the fish made a second attempt to swim to deeper water, Peterson grabbed it for keeps. The pike weighed 5½ pounds. Peterson has witnesses to his feat.

LIVELY ACTIVITY AMONG COUNTY 4-H CLUBS AT PRESENT

Members Making Preparations for County Fair Next Month

As part of the educational feature of the 4-H club programs in Pennington County the assistant county agent, Howard Grow, and Thelma Sollie, county club leader, have spent some time in drilling 4-H club members in parliamentary procedure and explaining Roberts Rules of Orders. Every club is devoting at least 15 minutes of three meetings to parliamentary law.

Mr. Grow is planning to visit the homes of the club members and check up their projects. Every project should be well on its way at this date. The county fair is only six weeks away. All record blanks and projects are due at that time.

Miss Sollie, has been visiting the girls enrolled in 4-H club projects and has met with several project meetings to help the girls with demonstrations and project material. Each girl enrolled in the bread, cake or meal planning and preparations projects is expected to give a demonstration. Several demonstrations are also being given in the clothing projects. If any questions come up in regard to demonstrations, Miss Sollie will be glad to help any of the girls with whatever information they may need.

Montgomery Ward Store Is Receiving Entries in Paint Slogan Event

Interest in the Montgomery Ward paint contest increased today as indicated by the receipt of a large number of entry blanks, A. W. Mickelson, manager of the local store, announced today.

A number of excellent slogans have been received. The decision will not be made, however, until all entries are in. The closing date is Tuesday, June 30th, and all entries must be at the Ward store by 6:00 P. M. on that day.

The winner will receive enough Super House Paint to cover the exterior of his house with two coats. If the paint is purchased during the contest a double award will be made.

The contest requires only the writing of a simple, twenty word slogan on the value of Ward's Super House Paint and the filling out of the regular entry blank with spaces for the estimate of the amount of paint necessary to paint the house. These blanks are available at the Ward store. No purchase is necessary to secure a blank.

The limit on the amount of paint to be supplied is 15 gallons. There is still time to enter. Details are available at Ward's store.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

ITASCA PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN NEXT SUNDAY, JUNE 28TH

First Churchmen of State to Furnish Theme of Offering

Paying tribute to the fortitude, trials, tribulations and eventual success of the first churchmen in the state, Minnesota state parks historical pageants will be given over to commemoration of the first missionaries to work among the Indians in a series of nine presentations to begin Sunday, June 28th in Itasca state park, midway between Bemidji and Park Rapids.

Staged by the Minnesota Department of Conservation in cooperation with the Northwestern Minnesota Historical association, the pageants will employ a cast of more than 200 persons including 50 Indians, who will live in a model Indian camp during the pageant series. In addition to the Itasca park dates, June 28, July 12 and 26, August 9 and 23 and September 6, the pageant will be offered for three days in Jay Cooke state park near Duluth on July 17, 18 and 19.

Amphitheaters with nature setting the stage will serve as backgrounds for the historical episodes, many of which took place on the actual spots where reenactments will be presented, on the shores of Lake Itasca, source of the Mississippi river, and on the historic banks of the St. Louis river in Jay Cooke park.

Divided into two parts, the five episodes will recount historical happenings in various parts of Minnesota, starting with an Indian village scene long before the advent of the white man. The coming of the Jesuit and Franciscan fathers to the Lake Superior region and Father Hennepin's discovery of St. Anthony Falls will be recounted as will the early mission days near Lac qui Parle with the experiences of the pioneer men and women being vividly described.

The memory of Joseph Nicollet will be honored with an episode set on the shore of Leech Lake where Rev. Boutwell saved the French explorer from a band of marauding Indians. A typical Indian celebration of a century ago will also be presented with Sioux and Chippewa tribe members participating in dance contests and competitive games. The story of George Catlin and his expedition to the Pipestone quarries in extreme southeastern Minnesota will likewise be reenacted. One of several novelties to be offered will be an Indian version of the white man's best known hymn, Onward Christian Soldiers, according to Harold Searles, pageant director.

RAISES TWO OWLS AS BACKYARD PETS

Isle.—A pair of young owls he is raising as pets is providing Neubert Swanson of Onamia a lot of fun. Captured in a couple of nests near Braham this spring. The birds are now housed in a wooden cage back of the store in which he is employed. They stand about 10 inches high and have a wing spread of nearly three feet. "I feed them sparrows and blackbirds, Neubert says. "If I put a swallow head-first in their mouths they will swallow him at one gulp. Other birds they tear up with their claws before eating. They seem to have the most trouble swallowing the wings. Sometimes they have to pick all the feathers off a wing before they can get it down." Swanson plans to use the owls as decoys in crow hunting this fall.

FARM PRODUCTS PRICES TO RISE, SAYS FORECAST

Federal Bureau Sees Higher Prices for Numerous Commodities

Steady to higher prices are in prospect for a number of farm products, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported today. These products include wheat, corn, hogs, the better grades of steers, butter, eggs, cheese, and wool. Seasonal price declines are in prospect for the lower grades of steers, lambs, potatoes, and poultry.

The bureau said in its June report on farm prices:

"Supplies of wheat for the 1936-37 season may be no larger than would be required to provide for the annual domestic consumption and to build up reserve stocks within the United States. This would result in prices above export levels.

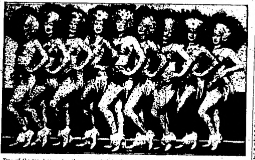
"Corn prices for the remainder of June and during July may be expected to continue at about present levels. Changes in prices of oats and barley will be determined largely by crop developments. Hog prices probably will rise seasonally in late summer.

"Prices of better grade steers usually advance in the last half of the year. Butter prices during the summer months are expected to continue considerably higher than a year ago. Egg prices will probably rise, by the end of the summer, to levels above those of a year ago."

BASS WOOD TREE RIVALS JACK'S BEANSTALK GROWTH

Granite Falls. You've all heard of the mammoth growth of Jack's bean stalk that the story books have told and retold since you were very young. Now listen to this: Over at the Paul Tesch home in East Granite there is a basswood tree that can snub its nose at Jack's bean stalk. This tree started by producing leaves that would measure about 9 or 10 inches in diameter. But the last couple of rains caused the basswood tree to quite outdo itself and this morning Mr. Tesch brought in a leaf that measured 14x12 inches.

"Around the Town" Revue at Pennington Fair July 28-31



Two of the top-steppers in the swift-moving musical revue, "Around the Town", scheduled for nightly appearances before the grandstand at the Pennington county fair, July 28 to 31.

The producers of "Around The Town" are making their first bid for success and popularity at fairs, their efforts in assembling musical shows in the past having been confined to the theatres.

Producing shows for the theatre, they believe, has equipped them with invaluable experience, as many of their shows were hits in the leading houses from coast to coast.

The chorus of "Around the Town" is an exceptionally good one, all the girls having studied in the best professional schools of Chicago and New York, a fact that has meant much to them in their quest of a stage career the past two years. In its midst are young women who can step out of the line and do a specialty of her own account. The merging of these soloists has resulted in one of the best drilled ensembles to be seen on any stage.

Another feature that strongly recommends "Around the Town" to this year's visitors to the fair, is the excellent band. This group of versatile entertainers not only play the show expertly, but take an active part in some of its best specialties.

Colorful scenery, attractive costumes and ample lighting effects, round out a performance that will give the most critical an evening of enjoyable entertainment.

MORE THAN HALF OF CARS ON ROAD HAVE BAD LIGHTS

Highway Patrol Check Shows Ten Per Cent With Faulty Brakes

More than half the automobiles on Minnesota highways have defective lights and 10 per cent have bad brakes, if results of an extensive check by the state highway patrol are indicative of average conditions.

In the past six weeks the patrol arrested nearly 1,500 drivers for faulty brakes, defective lights and failure to possess a driver's license, according to Chief John P. Arnoldy.

Of 24,674 cars checked for brake efficiency by the patrol in all parts of the state, 2,472 could not pass the inspection. Of 9,729 cars checked as to lights, 5,770 failed to get approval. In the matter of driver's licenses, 32,491 drivers were checked and 674 did not have licenses with them.

All who did not have a driver's license in their possession were taken into court. Among the motorists with defective brakes or lights, 888 were arrested and fined as being serious menaces to other traffic, while the remainder were given 48 hours in which to get their equipment in good condition.

LIGHTNING DISREGARDS ARRESTERS IN STORM

Fergus Falls—Although four lightning arresters are on the house and two grounds are in good working order at the Oscar Swanson home at Phelps, near Fergus Falls, lightning disregarded all opposition and did considerable damage when it struck there recently. The lightning apparently struck the rods, but also struck the roof in two places, entering the house, damaging the attic and knocking the plaster from the walls in five rooms before it found its way to the basement. Fortunately, the room in which the two children were sleeping was untouched. The lightning passed directly behind and within a few inches of Mr. Swanson, who was standing in one of the rooms which was damaged. The telephone was put out of order and the radio was completely ruined.

Enrollment at Summer Session at "U" Shows 11 Per Cent Increase

Evidencing a further gain in confidence and returning prosperity in the state, Summer Session enrollment at the University of Minnesota shows a gain of 11.3 per cent over the figures of a year ago, which, in their turn, were above the figures for the summer of 1931.

Initial registration was 3909, considerably the largest since college enrollments started to drop after 1931.

Minnesota teachers are again taking training for their professional advancement in increasing numbers, the university statistics indicate; 1515 men and women registered for summer study in the College of Education, as against 1253 a year ago.

In its first consolidated coaching course, in which all sports are taught intensively during the first week of the session, 120 coaches and athletic directors registered, coming from many parts of the country, although with a natural concentration from the Northwest. Football, as taught by Bernie Bierman and Dr. George Hauser, line coach, was a principal attraction, as was baseball, taught by Frank G. McCormick, director of athletics.

Hospital facilities were taxed to the limit at Duluth when three sets of twins, each requiring incubator treatment, all arrived the same day.

Schmeling Knocks Out Louis in 12th Round

Bruised, battered and bewildered for the first time in his professional career, his youthful face round in a wonderment that was reflected by the roar of the astounded crowd, 22 year old Joe Louis crumpled Friday night in New York and was knocked out by the veteran who didn't have a chance, Max Schmeling of Germany. There was dynamite and drama inside the roped arena under somber black skies, while a crowd officially placed at 40,000 looked on in alternate amazement and admiration, but Louis furnished neither as he toppled to the floor, a badly whipped young negro, and was counted out in the twelfth round of a 15 round match.

Man Killed by Hit-Run Motorist at Bemidji

A hit-run driver, in an automobile authorities said was stolen recently at Wahpeton, N. D., crashed into a six-horse circus wagon team early Friday at Bemidji killing one man and injuring one of the horses so severely it had to be shot.

Leslie Webster, 21, of Puposky, died in a hospital shortly after the accident. Authorities said they believed he was an innocent passenger in the car.

The driver of the automobile, which highway patrolmen said was stolen recently at Wahpeton, jumped out of the machine after the accident and fled on foot.

The Red River Valley Fire School at Crookston is one of a series of 25 schools being held all over the state of Minnesota this spring, summer and fall, and the Crookston School has promise of being one of the largest schools of the year. Deputy Fire Marshal Gehrke said, "The Crookston School which is being put on under the direction of Chief Ross Schmidt, is going to be a "Volunteer School" in every sense of the word. We expect to stress fire-manship from the standpoint of apparatus and equipment used by the smaller departments and the fire problems worked out will involve one and two story buildings. In short, the knowledge gained at the Crookston school will fit in exactly with the problems of every town represented."

"I had to rent a barn to store the Red Crown I saved"—
complains Miss Janet G. String

If Miss String, secretary of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Tall Story Club, has a fault it is that her club reports are always tinged with sadness. To wit:

"LAST fall somebody told me I'd save gasoline if I used Standard Red Crown all the time. So, without considering the consequences, I agreed to use nothing else for a year. And just look what it got me into!

"The very first day I saved a bowl full. That was fine—it wasn't in the way at all. But look—in the first week I'd saved a barrel full! By the end of the year I'd saved a tank car full!

"My, what a lot of gasoline to keep around the house!

"Father complained so bitterly that I had to rent a barn to store it in. And now I've got a barn full of Red Crown—and more piling up every day. I'm almost sorry I ever started."

Perhaps we should feel sorry for Miss String. But somehow we just can't bring ourselves to believe a word of her story.

We have reason to know that Standard Red Crown is an economical gasoline—but its use hardly saves that much.

Because it does have "more live power per gallon," Standard Red Crown operates a car with less waste power per gallon. What you save, in longer mileage, is well worth while over a year's time. But rather than [illegible], we Standard prefer to make it easy—and profitable—for motorists to find out the real facts about gasoline mileage for themselves. So this summer Standard is conducting the most extensive road test ever attempted. You are invited to participate.

ONLY ONE LASSIE IN SCHOOL CLASS OF 20

Springfield. The Springfield high school graduating class of 1947 is going to be predominantly male unless an influx of girls sets in before that time, for the first grade this year contained only one girl. Miss Marjorie Mueller was not only the most beautiful, but the most popular, most talented, and most everything of her class. Out of an enrollment of 20 pupils in the first grade, Miss Marjorie alone represented the female element, and altho she may not be so much interested at this tender age, some day she may find the situation highly desirable with a total lack of competition for "dates". This unusual situation has never before occurred in any Springfield class of that number, altho several smaller classes have had no boys. It is almost unique in any city the size of Springfield, which has almost 2,000 population.

Doc Eckener, skipper of transoceanic Zeps, gets more and more ovations. This is not surprising. He was popular over here even before he got in wrong with Hitler.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LUND & TUNBERG FORD AND FARM MACHINERY NEWS

Thief River Falls, Minnesota "WATCH THE FORDS GO BY" June 24, 1936

CASE COMPANY ANNOUNCES NEW THRESHER LINE

Is Most Revolutionary Advance Since Steel Machine Was Introduced

One of the most important and biggest pieces of news in the industry for a number of years is the announcement made by the J. I. Case Company of a new line of steel threshers. This company has always been a pioneer in agricultural advancement as it was Case who first applied steam to agriculture, who built the first gas tractor in 1892 and who built the first all steel thresher in 1904—thirty two years ago. The Case Company states that the improvement in design and construction of their new 1936 line of threshers is the greatest step in advancement since they introduced the steel machines thirty-two years ago.

Important new refinements and improvements in this new line of threshers are new wide mouth feeders, all steel cylinders and concaves, steel grid racks and air lift cleaning.

Probably the most advanced feature of the new thresher is the steel slatted "Grid" straw rack with slats electrically spot welded.

According to the Case engineers, the steel grid has 56 percent more open area for grain to drop through to the grain pan, as compared with wood slats used in previous construction by thresher manufacturers. However, this enlarged area of opening does not mean large holes; instead, one of the principal advantages of the new rack is its greater ability to keep short straw up on the rack, and out of the grain pan, sieves, and shoe where it would be no help to capacity or quality of cleaning.

Ford Credit Plan Has Reduced Finance Costs

Under the finance plan of the Universal Credit Company, an important part of the Ford organization, Lund & Tunberg are able to offer car buyers especially attractive terms. This company has pioneered in reducing car financing costs and now carries automobile paper at a 6% interest charge. The $25 a month payment plan offered by this company has simplified the car buying problem for many people.

THE HOME OF FORD AND CASE SERVICE IN THIEF RIVER FALLS

Perhaps it was a fortunate fire back in 1933 that destroyed the building on Atlantic Ave. that had been occupied by Lund & Tunberg only a few weeks. At any rate it did force the company to move into a better location. And now, on the busiest corner in Thief River Falls the company is doing business in its new buildings, a spacious and well equipped shop at the rear and a nicely arranged office and show room fronting Main Avenue and Third Street. In working out the building plan, one step at a time was taken as finances permitted. The shop was built first, of course, service being the most important consideration. And then, a year later, the office was enlarged, providing adequate room for the display of new models and comfortable sales quarters. And, while the buildings are designed primarily for utility, they are also decidedly attractive and have added much to the general appearance of the corner.

HAYBALER BARGAIN

We have a nearly new J. I. Case Haybaler which has been used for only 30 days. The original cost being $650.00 and we will close this out at $400.00. We will also accept some kind of a trade on same.

FRANK TUNBERG

spent the early days of his life in Minneapolis. Started work as a bank messenger, was employed one year in Canadian bank, and eleven years in state and national banks at Clearbrook before coming to Thief River Falls as office man in garage business.

Not a Single New Car Has Been Repossessed

Of the more than 700 new cars sold by Lund & Tunberg during the past six years, many have been sold on the monthly payment plan but not one single repossession of new cars sold in this way has been necessary. This is really a remarkable record and indicates not only that Ford buyers are satisfied customers but that the company has used good judgment in selling. In the nature of things it is often an easy matter to sell cars to irresponsible people. Such sales are never satisfactory, however, even when substantial down payments are received. In its dealings, the company encourages prospects to buy what they can reasonably expect to pay for, and many of their new car sales have been made to customers who have first bought used cars trading them in on better cars as the old ones have been paid for.

Remember that R & G used cars are fully Reconditioned and Guaranteed. Come in and look them over before you purchase elsewhere.

Six Years of Progress

The steady growth of our business during the less than six years of our life as a partnership is naturally very gratifying to us. In presenting the information contained on this page, however, it is not our purpose to boast of that progress. We have not reached that stage where we are content to sit back and dream of past accomplishments. For one thing, the record is not due entirely to our own efforts. In no small measure it is due to the fact that we are located in a good community, and it is only as we have succeeded in providing a satisfactory service to the people of this community that we can justify our existance.

We do feel that our record of six years of operation in the community entitles us to recognition as a dependable organization. During this period we have transacted business with many people. The fact that each year has brought us a steadily increasing number of customers indicates that those transactions have been reasonably satisfactory. In this respect, it is especially gratifying to us to know that old customers are satisfied customers.

Our principal purpose in presenting the information contained on this page is to inform the public that our organization is capable of handling more business efficiently. We have an excellent staff of ninteen employees, thoroughly trained to their respective duties, who are both able and willing to give responsible, courteous service. This competent staff has the best possible equipment with which to work.

In addition to a competent staff and adequate service equipment, we have a product that leads the field. Ford cars and trucks, and the great Ford organization that is behind them, are worthy of our very best effort. We have faith in Ford products. Into them is built an ideal of service. The same high standard of workmanship and materials that made a reputation for the old model T is being maintained in the Ford cars of today. We know this from our own experience with hundreds of satisfied users. In the farm machinery line, a field we have entered more recently, we represent the J. I. Case Company, an organization that has built quality farm machinery for nearly a hundred years.

When we "stepped out" for ourselves in the fall of 1930 our resolve was to build a business on a square deal basis. We have followed this rule of honest dealing as closely as it is humanely possible. It might have been possible for us to do a larger volume of business than we have done if at times we had deviated from this policy. But we have looked upon every prospective buyer as a permanent customer rather than as a one-time buyer. The result is that much of our present business comes from people with whom we have dealt many times in the past.

In conclusion we wish to express our appreciation for the confidence that has been reposed in us in the past. With our greatly improved facilities we look forward to greater progress in the future.

Yours truly,
LUND & TUNBERG

Twenty-One People Are Kept Busy at Lund & Tunberg's

Besides Harry and Frank, there are ninteen employees at the Lund & Tunberg garage, and these twenty-one people turn out a lot of work in the course of a day. Eight of this group are mechanics, some of them working odd shifts, four are salesmen, three handle lubrication and washing, two serve as station attendants and supervise the parts department, one superintends service and the reconditioning of used cars, and one takes care of the books.

All mechanics are factory trained men and are examined regularly by factory representatives. In its service program the factory conducts schools each year for all departments of an agency organization and attendance at these schools is required of all employees.

CEMENT BLOCKS CHEAP

We have about 250 Cement Blocks which we are offering for 15c each. This is far below the original cost and if you have any use for same it will pay to take advantage of this buy while they last.

MORE THAN 2,300 NEW AND USED CARS SOLD IN LESS THAN SIX YEARS

Service Department Open 24 Hours a Day

Twenty-four hour service is maintained every day at the Lund & Tunberg garage. A trained mechanic is on the job all the time. This service is especially helpful to commercial truck and car owners, the necessary care of equipment being provided without loss of operating time. It is also greatly appreciated by travelling men and tourists who are thus able to have their cars serviced without interferring with their regular travelling schedules.

Case Company Nearly A Hundred Years Old

Established in 1842, the J. I. Case Company of Racine, Wisconsin, approaches its hundredth anniversary as one of the youngest as well as one of the oldest farm machinery companies in the country. It is truly one of the old companies in point of years. But it is also young in ideas and is recognized today as one of the most progressive organizations of its kind. Case products are favorably known in every agricultural community.

Going into its third year as a Case agency, Lund & Tunberg is well equipped to service this machinery. The large number of units in operation in the territory makes possible a dependable service on replacement parts and experienced mechanics are well qualified to assist operators in the necessary care of the equipment.

HORSES FOR SALE

Team of 10 year old gray geldings, weight 3200.

1936 Promises to be Record Year With 342 Units Already Sold

With 342 new and used cars already sold, 1936 promises to be another record year for Lund & Tunberg. Of this total, 102 are new Fords, 240 being used cars and trucks. This brings the total sales of new and used cars for the less than six years the firm has been in business to 2,343, of which 701 were new Ford cars and trucks and 1,642 used units.

This remarkable volume of sales in a limited territory is consistent with the steady growth in the volume of business transacted by the company. Last year 186 new and 456 used models were sold, setting a high mark for the company to shoot at this year. The results of the first six months indicates that last year's mark will be passed in 1936.

The sales record, year by year, since the V-8 was introduced in 1932, is as follows:

Year	New Units	Used Units
1932	63	158
1933	112	263
1934	160	370

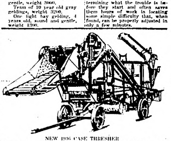
LABORATORY TEST SET REGISTERS TROUBLE

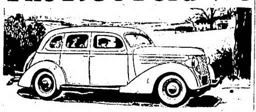
An automatic device that analyzes and registers motor troubles is one piece of mechanical equipment in the Lund & Tunberg garage that saves customers hundreds of dollars each year. This machine is of great assistance to the mechanics in determining what the trouble is before they start and often saves them hours of work in locating some simple difficulty that, when found, can be properly adjusted in only a few minutes.



NEW 1936 CASE THRESHER

We have one of these improved machines on hand and invite you to come in and inspect it.

The 1936 Ford V-8



STEEL MAKERS say—"Ford buys the best steel." Other suppliers of materials and parts will tell you—"Nobody checks up as closely on quality and price as Ford."

This means a great deal to you as a motorist. It is our way of safeguarding the interests of every purchaser and it leads to this—"The mechanical depreciation on a Ford is less than most cars, especially after the first year."

This is one sign of the extra value in the Ford V-8. Accuracy in manufacturing is another. (The Ford is made to unusually close precision limits.) And there is a long list of fine-car features that are exclusive with Ford in the popular field.

Have you a V-8 engine in your car? You pay $1645 for it in any other car but Ford.

Does your car have Center-Poise Riding? Ford gives you this modern feature—"a front-seat ride for back-seat passengers."

Does your car have fool-proof Super-Safety Mechanical Brakes? The Ford V-8 gives you this proved design, with 186 square inches of braking surface.

Does your car have a genuine steel body structure? Does it have Safety Glass all around? Ford is the only low-price car that gives you this extra protection without extra cost.

You get these fine-car features in the Ford V-8 because of Ford manufacturing methods and low-profit policy.

$25 A MONTH, after usual down-payment, buys any model of the new Ford V-8 car—from any Ford dealer—anywhere in the United States. Ask about the new UCC ½% per month Finance Plans.

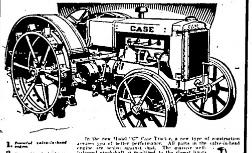
New Tractor Performance



1. Powerful valve-in-head engine.
2. Removable cylinder sleeves.
3. Heavy 3-bearing crankshaft drilled for pressure lubrication.
4. All parts sealed against dust.
5. Hand operated clutch, easily handled from the ground as well as from the tractor seat.
6. Final drive of strong steel roller chains, enclosed and operating in oil.
7. Three forward speeds, 2¼, 3⅓ and 4⅓ miles per hour.
8. Irreversible steering gear; short turning radius, 20 ft.

In the new Model "C" Case Tractor, a new type of construction assures you of better performance. All parts in the valve-in-head engine are sealed against dust. The massive well-balanced crankshaft is machined to the closest limits and drilled for pressure lubrication. Main bearings are of special babbitt alloy, bronze-backed. The cylinder sleeves are removable. The gears are of special steel and heat treated. The clutch is hand operated and can be manipulated from the ground as well as from the tractor seat. All controls are located most conveniently for the operator.

The new type of construction is also shown in the compactness and light weight. Although the tractor pulls 2-3 plows, a small to medium size thresher, or other machines of like capacity it weighs but a trifle more than two draft horses and it is only 45 inches high. Three forward speeds, 2¼, 3⅓ and 4⅓ miles an hour, put new speed into every farm job.

Never before have you known or seen a tractor like this. It's faster, better work and easy handling will aid you in securing greater profits from your farm. It won't obligate you to come in and look at it.

ROOSEVELT AND GARNER NAMED AS DEM TICKET

Philadelphia Convention Acclaims President and Vice President

PRESIDENT ACCEPTS IN SPEECH SATURDAY

Promises to Strive for Protection of Family and Home

Franklin Delano Roosevelt tonight accepted his re-nomination for President of the United States with a summons to special privilege to come out from behind the Constitution to fight, and a cheerful declaration that he is "enlisted for the duration of the war."

"I accept the commission you have tendered me," the President told enthusiastic gathering of delegates to the Democratic national convention at Philadelphia and an audience of thousands drawn from the farms and cities of the mid Atlantic states. "I join with you I am enlisted for the duration of the war."

Vice president John Nance Garner preceded Mr. Roosevelt to the platform to accept the renomination that was voted him Saturday. President and vice-president were renominated in the wind-up sessions of the Democratic national convention which adjourned at 2:20 p. m., having re-cast the party's principles and merged the political organization founded by Thomas Jefferson with the Roosevelt New Deal.

Garner, accepting the vicepresidential nomination said, "I gladly accept the nomination for the vicepresidency now tendered to me for the second time."

"I am a soldier and it is my duty to follow where the commander leads. I accept the rules as laid down in the platform."

Mr. Roosevelt likened the economic royalists of today to the political royalists against whom colonial patriots in 1776 led an infant nation.

Hammering at special privileges and defending "the common man," the President said economic royalty complained that the New Deal sought to overthrow the institutions of America.

"What they really complain of," he said, "is that we seek to take away their power. Our allegiance to American institutions requires the overthrow of this kind of power.

"In vain they seek to hide behind the flag and the Constitution. In their blindness they forget what the flag and Constitution stand for. Now, as always, the flag and Constitution stand for democracy, not tyranny; for freedom, not subjection; and against a dictatorship by mob rule and the over-privileged alike."

The President accepted and indorsed the party platform which was accepted last week without a dissenting vote. Then he pitched the campaign on a triple note of New Deal objectives:

1. Protection of family and home.
2. Establishment of a democracy of opportunity.
3. Aid for the man, woman or child overtaken by disaster.

"We do not see faith, hope and charity as unattainable ideals," he said. "But we use them as stout supporters of a nation fighting the fight for freedom in a modern civilization.

Horseshoe Pitching Event at County Fair

Champion to be Eligible to Compete at Minnesota State Fair

Hi, there, you horseshoe pitchers, get out the old shoes and brush up on your game. For the first time in its history the Pennington county fair is sponsoring a contest to determine the horseshoe pitching champion of the county. The event will be conducted during the fair July 28 to 31 under the direction of W. G. Claffy.

Thru an arrangement made with The Farmer, St. Paul farm publication, the winner of the county contest will be eligible to compete in a statewide event at the Minnesota state fair September 9 and 10, in which cash prizes aggregating $300 will be awarded.

"Everywhere we travel we see folks in the open country and the smaller towns pitching shoes for fun," said W. T. Foley, associate editor of The Farmer, who will have charge of the state tournament. "Now we are going to try to make a real sport of it, just as we did with the corn husking contest. Our idea is that rural and small town folks need more organized sport, and the State Fair tournament should appeal to them. Not only will those who win in their counties get a chance to pitch in the state tournament, but they will also be able to visit the great Minnesota state fair as county fairs likely will pay a county champion's expenses as a county prize."

Copies of the rules governing the county and state tournament are in the hands of Robert J. Lund, fair secretary, to whom application should be made by those wishing to try for the title as state fair pitching champion, plus $75 in cash. Full details may be secured also from The Farmer, St. Paul.

MAKES FATAL ERROR OF ROBBING JUDGE!

Grand Rapids—Hickory Morgan, Claiming Oregon as his home, made a serious blunder in his "profession" when he picked the shoe repair shop of Justice of the Peace James Dawson for a bit of plundering in Deer River last week. Mrs. George Thorson, who lives near the shop, heard the breaking of glass as Morgan entered, and called her husband, who caught the young man and held him until officers arrived. Brought before the bar of justice, Morgan found the man he had attempted to rob was presiding. Fortunately, however, for the culprit, a justice of peace has only the authority to bind the offender over to the district court in case of felonies, but you may be sure this was done by Justice Dawson with a good deal of enthusiasm.

BOY PEDALS 140 MILES FOR HOMECOMING DAY

Hanley Falls.—One hundred and forty miles may be a short distance in these days of modern transportation, but pedaling those miles on a bicycle over the highways and byways is still another feat. He was proud of making the trip to Hanley Falls homecoming all alone, but his legs were aching after the trip. His bicycle has all the modern conveniences, including a horn, tail light, sprocket guard basket, twin headlights, and fully streamlined. Young Vagle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Vagle of Minneapolis and the grandson of Mrs. John Vagle of Hanley Falls, whom he was visiting.

IT WAS ONLY A DECLARATION

Perhaps it is not strange that many of the issues involved in the controversy between the American colonies and the mother country a hundred and sixty years ago are still live issues at the present time. After all, the Declaration of Independence was only another declaration. The document itself did not give us independence. Tyrannies are not so easily overcome. It takes more than a few pages of noble declarations to unseat a tyrant. And in this case it required the sacrifice of a war to gain for the colonists the freedom demanded by them in their Declaration of Independence.

As Englishmen, the colonists claimed the liberties that had been guaranteed to them by several preceding declarations of independence. In 1689, for instance, a king of England had been forced to sign a Bill of Rights in which many of the liberties demanded in our Declaration of Independence and later secured by our Constitution, were guaranteed to the subjects of the crown. Several hundred years earlier, in 1215, much of this same ground was covered in the Magna Charta, reluctantly accepted by King John, restoring to Englishmen the privileges they had enjoyed under the customs that had become the common law under more liberal monarchs. Before and after those great documents had become established there were innumerable struggles between the people and those in whom authority was vested.

And this, certainly, is one of the important lessons we should learn from the records of the past. The liberties we enjoy, and too often take for granted, were secured only by the sacrifices of preceding generations. Time and again liberties have been lost, to be regained again by another struggle.

The records of history tell us effectively how, thruout the ages, liberties have been gained and regained. These records make interesting reading. They narate the actions of brave and determined people.

But of the corrupt and degenerate masses who time and again permit their liberties to be taken from them by the cunning subterfuge of ambitious rulers little is said. In this important field of human experience our historical records and our institutions of learning are deficient.

The technique of establishing a tyranny has changed little thruout the ages. Few of the tyrants of history gained their power by force. Most of them ascended to power on a great wave of popular support, capitalizing on fears, prejudices and promises. Invariably they have been great promisers. To buy favor by liberal distribution of public funds has not been unusual. It was a method quite common among the Romans. Once in authority and confronted by realities, sterner methods are required. Power, gained by corruption of the masses, is retained by force. Rival leaders are silenced by grants of power or are subdued by fear. Those who stand in their way are destroyed. And there are many ways, for those who have power, to destroy an opponent.

But not all losses of liberty are the result of usurpation of power by a tyrant. The powers of a government are sometimes broadened voluntarily by a people in order that a good leader may accomplish certain definite objectives. Popular leaders, enjoying the confidence of the masses, are given powers that would be denied to a leader who is not popular. And in the hands of some leaders, such broader powers may result in much public good.

Unfortunately such broader powers, while resulting in a greater good in the hands of a good ruler, result also in a greater evil in the hands of an evil or incompetent ruler. And in delegating powers to its government, a people should consider not only what good can be obtained by a proper use of those powers but also what evil might result from their abuse. There is no justification for the hope that we are going to be able to choose our leaders more wisely in the future than we have in the past.

These are questions that might properly be given serious consideration by Americans on this anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Today, as a hundred and sixty years ago, the world is governed by autocrats. Those great principles of liberty for which the founders of our country fought, and which, for a time, seemed destined to reform the world, have in late years received several serious setbacks. To ask whether or not those principles can survive in this country is not an unreasonable question. We will not retain them without an effort. And if history repeats itself, as it has time and again thruout the centuries, it may become necessary, in this or a succeeding generation, to band ourselves together in order to regain those rights which our forefathers secured for themselves by their struggle for independence.

WHERE THE BIRDS SPEND THEIR SUMMERS

A recent survey in Business Week on the nation's tourist business made interesting reading. An increase of twenty-five per cent for the present year was predicted. Estimates were included of what this business would amount to in various states, and what steps those states were taking to get their share of the profitable tourist trade.

Minnesota was not mentioned in the article. Which emphasized the fact that Minnesota has not attracted national attention as a tourist state. We have tourists, of course. Each year they spend millions of dollars with us. But evidently our visitors come mostly from the state's immediate neighborhood. Folks drop in from the Dakotas and from down in Iowa. They have heard, probably by word of mouth, of our outdoor wonderland.

Eventually the news of our many natural attractions may reach out farther. As it does we may expect our tourist business to grow. But it will be a slow development. And in the meantime we will lose millions of dollars to more aggressive states.

Wisconsin is spending $50,000 this year to invite visitors; Texas a half a million. In New Mexico the entertainment of travelers is the state's biggest business. Fifteen magazines and fifty-six newspapers in twelve states carry the story of New Mexico's attractions. And it isn't a labor of love. The tourist business is a cash business.

Some day Minnesota will come to life and put its state publicity department on a proper basis. National magazines will carry pictures of our lakes. People from the south will be invited by newspapers, direct mail and radio to come up and cool off in the country where the birds spend their summers. The spending of a small fraction of the income from the gas tax for state publicity would be a paying investment from the standpoint of gas tax revenue alone.

Of course it doesn't make any difference to us up in this corner of the state. This is a farming community, for which we are duly grateful. But if our scenery was all cluttered up with a lot of useless lakes we certainly would bestir ourselves and make the most of a bad situation.

WHAT WOULD THEY HAVE THOUGHT

Twenty seven reasons why the colonists would no longer tolerate the government of the King of England were set forth in the Declaration of Independence. Some of these reasons are rather interesting in the light of present day controversies. Among other things, they complained because:

The king had "made judges depend upon his will alone."

The king had "erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

The king had "combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws."

The king had imposed "taxes upon us without our consent."

The king had altered "fundamentally the forms of our government."

We wonder what those colonists would have thought of a President who openly advised Congress to ignore the Constitution in obeying his commands; who maligned the judges who insisted the Constitution was a higher law than his will, and who imposed heavy burdens of debt on his people for purposes prohibited by that Constitution.

We were assured the other day that the steadily increasing national debt is nothing to worry about. When it gets so big that it can't be paid the government can repudiate it, was this fellow's version of a satisfactory way out. Government bonds are all held by the rich, he argued. Therefore only the rich would pay the cost of recovery. The only thing wrong with this picture is the fact that the government bonds are not owned by the rich. Most of them are held by banks, trust companies and insurance companies as security for the funds of depositors and policy holders. The great rank and file of the American people are the creditors of the country. And the steadily increasing burden of public debt is something to worry about.

GAME COMMISSIONERS ASK CURB ON DUCKS

The Midwest Association of Game and Fish Commissioners, meeting at Madison, Wisconsin, last week asked the federal government to refrain from liberalizing the waterfowl seasons in 1936 and 1937. The action was taken after a split threatened to develop over a resolution advocating closing of the waterfowl season in 1936 and 1937. Representatives from Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota had favored this resolution.

FREAK WIND CARRIES HAY RACK 20 RODS

Albert Lea.—A freak in a storm took place in Nunda township near Albert Lea at the White Brothers farm recently. The hired man with a team and hay rack had just backed up to the hayload when a twisting wind struck. Just as the haystack was being lifted into the air, the hired man jumped. The rack was lifted high in the air, carried twenty rods over a fence, and set down without any damage done to it. The hired man suffered a badly injured shoulder when he struck the ground. The horses stood perfectly still during the whole proceedings.

PENNEY'S

Rides Galore on This Year's Fair Midway

This year's Pennington county fair midway, will present the greatest collection of riding devices ever to be seen in the past on the fairgrounds, as the Hennies Bros. Shows will bring to Thief River Falls some 12 brand new and thrilling rides; most of them never before having been on the road until this year.

Foremost among these is the 12 car "Rideeo", a speedy ride of many thrills, as is the gigantic double "Loop-O-Plane", the ride that created such a sensation during the San Diego Exposition last year.

For the kiddies is the new "Scooter" ride, with a dozen electrically propelled, and individually driven cars, that the children may race one another, bump the other fellow's car, and have a grand old time.

Of course the old standbys, such as the Merry-Go-Round, the twin Ferris wheels, the Whip, the Tilt-A-Whirl and the Merry Mix-up are included in the show's "Garden of Rides", along with two kiddie rides of toy automobiles, and miniature airplanes.

The fair opens Tuesday, July 28 for a period of four days and nights, ending Friday, July 31.

Caterpillar Horde Is Now Leaving the State, Forest Officials Say

Northern and northeastern Minnesota is beginning to recover from one of the worst caterpillar plagues of recent years.

Officials of the state division of forestry who returned last week from an inspection trip through the infested area said that the caterpillars were rapidly disappearing and would last only a few days longer.

The insects, known as the forest tentless caterpillars, covered a large portion of the extreme northern part of the state, extending roughly from the Itasca Park region eastward to Cook county and north into Canada.

The amount of damage done by the caterpillars is difficult to estimate because many trees will withstand two successive caterpillar invasions without apparent injury. However, some of the affected forest regions in Minnesota are experiencing their third successive caterpillar plague and may suffer considerable damage.

It is believed caterpillars appear in very large numbers about every ten years. Trees may be saved by spraying with arsenate of lead, but this method is impractical over large areas.

Puppet Shows Presented Thursday Afternoons

FARMER FINDS GOLD COINS IN GARDEN

Bayport—Hans Peterson, Hudson farmer who tills the soil near Prospect park in that city, has struck gold in his own backyard. The "strike", not at all typical of its kind, has been spread over the past three years. Occasional gold coins, all antedating the Civil war, have been turned up in the plot while plowing or gardening. The revelation of a $10 piece last week made a grand total of about $300 which has been found on the spot. The coins have been found at varying depths and over a widely scattered area. The scattering has been attributed to stump dynamiting operations. One story has it that an obscure resident of the city buried his wealth near a crooked tree, but desultory searching failed to reveal the hiding place. Peterson and his boys have gone over the ground with great care, but have attempted no serious mining operations. Several offers have been made to work over the ground on a 50-50 basis, but as yet Peterson has allowed no one to stake a claim in his backyard.

DUMP IS POOR HIDING PLACE FOR LAW-BREAKERS

Springfield—Nowadays a fella can't ever trust the dump grounds with a secret. Whatever caused Ray Neumann, game warden, to look for evidence in the city dump is a deep mystery, but Neumann found two pheasant heads in an old pail one day recently. Very carelessly, the owner of the pail had neglected to remove the tag, so Neumann, who was accompanied by another game warden from St. James, continued his investigations at the home of L. G. Bethwill, Springfield auto painter. There the garbage can revealed further evidence that pheasant has been gracing the table of late, and the result was a $25 fine imposed by a New Ulm Justice of the Peace.

FILLING STATION BLOWS UP, INJURES CUSTOMER

West St. Paul—It doesn't pay to stop to have a tire repaired in West St. Paul, Herbert J. Schaaf believes. It was while he was engaged in that rather peaceful pursuit when the filling station in which he was waiting exploded, apparently due to a gas leak and defective wiring in the building. Schaaf was hurled more than 15 feet out of the building to the ground. He was burned severely about the face, head, arms, chest, and abdomen, and suffered probable internal injuries. When the blast occurred, Luke Schaaf, a cousin of the injured man, and W. H. Davis, station proprietor, were standing along side of Herbert but only suffered skin burns. Doors were blown from their hinges and windows shattered. The noise was heard for more than a mile. Schaaf was returning from a picnic with his family when the accident occurred.

State Ore Shipments Show Sharp Increase

Evidence of business improvement is offered by the substantial increase in iron ore shipped from state-owned mines. Iron ore shipments from state-owned mines totalled 1,107,177 tons for the period from January 1 to June 13, 1936, according to F. A. Wildes, director of the division of lands and minerals. In the corresponding period of 1935 998,464 tons were shipped. During the 1936 period, shipments from all mines in Minnesota totalled 4,649,252 tons as compared with 2,535,744 tons for the same period in 1935.

SHOOTS SELF CRAWLING THRU BARBED WIRE FENCE

Clarkfield.—Amund Torseth, 60-year old Crookston man visiting at the home of his wife's sister, Mrs. Oscar Olson, in Tyro, was found dead a short distance from the Olson home recently with a bullet hole thru his forehead. He had apparently been dead for several hours, and was the victim of his own gun as he crawled thru a fence. Torseth had taken a 22 calibre rifle that belonged to the Olson's and gone out hunting gophers about four o'clock in the afternoon. When he did not return, a member of the family went out to look for him, and found the body in a small grove only a comparatively short distance from the house. One leg was caught in a barbed wire fence, through which he had apparently been trying to crawl when the trigger caught in the fence and discharged itself into Torseth's head.

DULUTH MAN GETS WOLF'S PLACE ON DEM COMMITTEE

John Erickson Elected at National Convention in Philadelphia

With a positive promise that he will labor earnestly for harmony and for the building of a real Democratic party in Minnesota, John P. Erickson of Duluth, Thursday, prepared to become Democratic national committeeman for Minnesota as a result of the victory of the Moonan-Ryan forces in the convention at Philadelphia.

Joseph Wolf goes into retirement after 12 years as national committeeman, and a new deal comes into being as a result of a battle which in four hours told the credentials committee the story of Minnesota's intricate politics.

Erickson had a long session with Emil Hurja, Farley's right-hand man, Thursday.

The Wolf group, not very happy, caucused and agreed to accept the verdict without a fight. They were told they could have a minority report if they wished, but decided to accept their fate. So approval by the convention was a formality.

FOREST FIRE DANGER IN STATE INCREASES

Moderate fire hazard throughout the northern portion of the state with greater danger in certain localized areas is reported by the division of forestry. The annual fire school, which was to have been held June 24, 25, and 26 has been indefinitely postponed in order to permit all forestry employees to remain at their posts during the danger period.

Ten Farm-Market Road Projects Are Awarded

Award of 12 highway construction jobs in 8 counties, totaling $171,461 has been announced by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. Ten miles of grading, 9 miles of graveling, 9 miles of grading and graveling, one bridge and 2 culverts are included in the group, ten of which are farm-market projects. Chippewa, Crow Wing, Freeborn, Itasca, Mille Lacs, St. Louis, Sibley and Stearns counties are represented in the letting.

HOME FOR VISIT, FINDS MOTHER DEAD IN BED

Red Wing—What had long been planned as a pleasant reunion turned out to be a tragedy for Mrs. A. C. Ruddy of Wessington, S. Dak, when she reached the home of her mother, Mrs. Christine Swanson, Red Wing pioneer woman. Following her arrival by train, Mrs. Ruddy went directly to her mother's home. No one answered the ring of the doorbell, and she finally gained entrance herself. Fearing something was wrong, she rushed to her mother's room and found the old lady dead in her bed. Death, it is believed, occurred during the night from a heart attack. There were indications about the home that Mrs. Swanson had made preparations for what she, too, had planned as a happy reunion. The home, where she lived alone, was in perfect order and preparations had been made for a family dinner.

KITTENS HAVE LEGS TAILS OF A RABBIT

Benson—Only a mother could love and cherish two of the kittens born to a cat owned by Bob Green of DeGraff, near Benson, the other day. For the pair are half kitten and half brush rabbit, according to surface indications. Part of a litter of five, three of which were normal, the two freaks have hind legs like a rabbit and no tails. In the place of a tail, they have a small bunch of hair. But to the mother, her five kittens are all the same.

INVASION OF DEER THREATENS ST. PAUL

Cokato.—Carl Johnson, farmer living a half mile southeast of Cokato and only 50 miles west of the Twin Cities, was peacefully jouncing along on the seat of a corn cultivator recently, thinking, perhaps, about the quality of his corn crop. He was surprised indeed to look up and see a full-grown deer standing within a few feet. Tail down the deer appeared to be unafraid. Johnson whistled several times, and each time the animal seemed to respond. Then the doe walked away toward highway 12, which bounds the field on the north, and disappeared. And the next thing we know, a deer or a bear will be walking into the state capitol in St. Paul!

QUALITY SINCE ....

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

It might be a bit embarrassing for the Republican propagandists to explain exactly how any man can take the credit for balancing the budget of the state of Kansas when the state laws themselves do the balancing.

Kansas statutes specifically provide that all monies necessary for the operation of the state government be paid out of current revenue and under no circumstances shall money be raised by a bond issue unless the same has been first approved by the voters in general plebiscite.

Because of this legal quirk, the Federal government was forced to literally dump money into Kansas to relieve the distress and poverty of the unemployed. This statute restriction also resulted in the closing of many public schools due to the lack of funds; the reduction of teachers' salaries from 25 to 40 per cent; the deterioration of the state's highway system, and an average old age pension of $9 a month.

While these rights of the people of Kansas were being destroyed, Governor Landon chose figuratively to assume the role of a Nero by playing a violin concerto while the real functions of a state government were going up in smoke.

It is unfortunate that Congress adjourned without passing the Benson resolution calling for a Congressional investigation of the Black Legion, Silver Shirt, and other similar subversive activities.

The joint resolution was voted out of the Senate Judiciary committee and, through an "oversight," failed to reach the Senate committee on audit and control in time for action.

And so the people of the United States will not know of the extent the insidious fascist organizations have gone in their plan to establish a fascist dictatorship in this country and will wait to be aroused again when some particularly outrageous piece of new terrorism has been perpetrated by these bigoted hoodlums.

We hope that R. W. Hitchcock, Republican publicity representative, sees fit to make amends for the following statement appearing in his weekly column: "A new administration payroll set-up under the board of control is that of 'old age assistance,' where Minnesota has already added 27 new taxeaters to its list of employees."

Surely Mr. Hitchcock does not mean to say that the old age assistance law should be a dead letter affair and should not be administered! No doubt, his party would like to see that, because they have always been opposed to social security legislation and passed this inadequate law only because they were virtually compelled to do so.

The idea seems to be quite prevalent that under the old age assistance act the homestead of a deceased recipient is subject to the claim of the county for all assistance paid. Attorney-General Peterson has given an opinion on this feature of the law. The opinion holds that the homestead of a deceased recipient is exempt from the claim of either the county or state agency for the amount of old age assistance paid. It is held that the homestead is free from such claims and descends to the surviving spouse or children of the deceased and is subject to the provisions of wills made by recipients.

Most liberals will feel that President Roosevelt has reason to be grateful for the enmity of such reactionaries as Al Smith and Bainbridge Colby. It is safe to assume that these men would not be so bitter in their opposition to Roosevelt's policies if they did not fear a further extension of liberalism. Fortunately for the Roosevelt administration Al Smith and his friends are much too close to Wall Street and the reactionaries of the Liberty League to have any appreciable influence on the voting public.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. [illegible]

Life in Norway

Although the persons dealt with in a recent biographical sketch read recently by the writer lived in a neighboring county, it was one of the most interesting and illuminative articles the writer has ever encountered. Because of the intriguing manner in which intimate details of the life in Norway at a time when many of the pioneers of the Thief River Falls community emigrated are presented we offer paragraphs of the account here. The facts revealed could well have been associated with some of our own pioneers. Certainly, the article is valuable contribution to local history.

First, we find that the husband, Ole Jakobsen, was born in the parish of Vestre Slidre in a district, or "bygd", called Valders in the diocese of Christiania, Norway, Nov. 8, 1837. Then we read:

"His birthplace was a farm, or "gaard", named Moe and he received a good education for his station in life and the times. He worked at farm labor and learned the painter's trade. The painter's trade at that time in Norway had an artistic as well as a commercial value because it involved decorating the wooden house furnishing of the more opulent farmers, or "bonder", such as dressers, tables, trunks, bowls, pitchers and like articles. Tableware in Norway then was largely wooden and it was considered good taste to embellish these with highly colored flowery decorations and sometimes with the name of the owner and the date when the article was made.

"Very often a little snatch of a well known song, a verse or proverb was placed on the drinking bowls and cups much as is now the custom to decorate steins. It was also customary to paint the inside of residences, most of the exterior of buildings on the farms or gaards being of hewed logs which required no painting. Many churches, however, were built of boards or were board covered and required painting, as did also their interior. Thus Ole Jakobsen's job took him to all parts of Norway, often far from home. His trade involved the thorough understanding of mixing of colors, as the stock of material included only the basic lead, oil and coloring matter.

"It included also the ability to write a meticulous hand which Ole acquired better than most. Ole, after his confirmation in the Lutheran church which occurred in his 16th year, worked on a gaard called Kvil, his emolument being as per contract for a twelve month the sum of one dollar and a vest made of the homespun material called 'vadmel', servants being usually paid in clothing (homemade) as well as in coin. Working this, he was at times afforded the opportunity of improving his knowledge of books by coming into contact with schoolmasters and thus acquired a far better knowledge of grammar, reading and writing than the average farm boy, or 'bondegut', of his time; so that at times he officiated as parochial school teacher. This was not a small accomplishment for a 'husmandgut' in those days when the social scale was more exacting than it is now in Norway."

We have placed quotation around the Norwegian words and we hope that those who have slipped somewhat in their knowledge of the Norse tongue will remember them. We wish to call readers' attention to the quaint customs then prevalent in Norway, and also to the soundness and thoroughness of the means of learning trades. We have long known that workmen trained in the old country were invariably more proficient in their respective trades than American-trained craftsmen, although, of course, their methods and ideas soon become old-fashioned in this country.

We next take up the story of the wife, Marit Jakobsen:

"Marit Jakobsen (Iversdatter) was born of the parents, Iver and Anne Bakken, on a place called Bakken, being attached to the gaard Semelings. It is from the latter that children of the couple derived the surname used in America. This name, like every gaard name, has a meaning. The author of this sketch wrote to the well known poet and anthropologist, Iver Aasen, for a definition of the name and was informed that it dates back to the time when the old Norse language (which is now the Icelandic) was in vogue; that it is formed of two words: 'semel', meaning doe, and 'enge' or 'eng', meaning a sheltered meadow, and that this name was attached to the place for the evident reason that the female deer mothered her young there."

We shall reserve the rest of Marit's story for next week, believing that readers will find the facts cited interesting, regardless of their respective nationalities. The activities and interests of her humble little world in Norway are refreshingly appealing.

W. C. T. U. AFFIRMS PROHIBITION STAND

Tulsa, Okla., June 18.—(AP)—The Women's Christian Temperance Union stood committed Thursday night to the federal constitution as it now stands, total abstinence from liquor and re-enactment of national prohibition, world peace and temperance education.

On the constitution the union had this to say:

"We believe in the constitution of the United States and in our representative form of government. We believe that neither the executive nor judicial branch should seek to change the constitution."

It was agreed that "repeal has strengthened our belief as to the soundness of national prohibition and the necessity for its re-enactment."

A resolution of advertising protested the "persistent and widespread advertising of alcoholic liquor . . ." Other resolutions pledged the union to continue temperance education for youth, a campaign for world peace and activity against gambling and the use of narcotics. The convention closed Thursday night with a dinner.

In re-affirming its stand for total abstinence, the convention declared alcohol was proved by science to be "a poisonous, habit-forming drug which affects first the highest faculties of the brain, self-control, judgment, will and moral sense."

MANY TOURISTS VISIT LINDBERGH STATE PARK

During the week of June 7, 2662 tourists visited Lindbergh state park at Little Falls, Harold W. Lathrop, director of the division of state parks, announced last week. The park, one of the most popular in the state, consists of the property on which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was born and about 100 acres of land in the immediate vicinity.

HIGHWAY EMPLOYE SELECTS WRONG TREE FOR HIDE-OUT

Tower.—Either because the tree was too small, or he was too wide, August Lindberg, an employee of the Phillip Co., is at the Soudan hospital nursing a compound fracture of the lower right arm, the injury also including the severing of the ligaments of the back side of his arm. The Phillip concern is engaged in the work of eliminating the railroad crossings about five miles south of town on highway 35, and Lindberg is employed by the concern to handle the material which removes all rock obstructions encountered in their progress. After preparing his charges for "firing" he hid himself behind a tree. As stated above, however, the tree was altogether too small and left Lindberg's right arm protruding out in the open. In the avalanche of rocks, flying in every direction following the setting-off, one directed its course for the tree behind which Gust was hiding, became particularly attached to him, and he is now carrying the good right flipper in a sling.

-----seems like Sweet Clover Started Something!

If we ever wanted proof that women are shrewd buyers, we got it when Sweet Clover Ready-to-Serve meats came on the market in fresher condition than competitive products and with a tastier, more tempting flavor. Here's what happened:

Our company didn't advertise it. But the women buyers quickly noticed the finer flavor and that it was always FRESHER than any other kind. So they asked for it.

Well, you know how that reacts on the meat dealer. When he discovers a product of better quality giving his customers greater satisfaction—in fact so much that they come back and want it again and again—then you've started something!

And that something is the very simple explanation of how Sweet Clover Ready-to-Serve meats became an important item in thousands and thousands of homes in the Northwest:—

(1) Its finer flavor, fresher condition MADE A HIT WITH THE WOMEN who serve it to their families;

(2) The Thorough satisfaction it gave to these women MADE A HIT WITH THE MEAT DEALER, who prefers to supply his customers with higher quality meat products.

We promise you a real treat with any sausage product that bears the name "Sweet Clover." Ask for it.

You'll love the "baked-in, roasted in the smokehouse" flavor of Sweet Clover Country Style Summer Sausage

Northern Packing Company Grand Forks, No. Dak.

PUBLIC FORUM—

WHY THIS DISCRIMINATION—

Editor Times

The rehabilitation department of our government have been doing some very good work in the financing of ambitious men and women and placing them on land where they are in position to earn an honest and worthwhile living, which in turn take them out of that hopeless and helpless mess under supervision of the WPA. We commend this work because it promote and initiate the pride of American citizens to earn their own way thru life, and not become national spend-drifts depending on the whims of a national and local political set-up, which sometimes are unworkable, slow and personal in application.

But we object to a program which distribute meat, beans, onions, apples and oranges, etc., to the aforesaid men and women, who have already been given preference by our government, in loans at a low rate of interest with which to purchase horses, cows, machinery, etc., with which to carry on. If our government is to keep up this kind of feeding and pampering men and women on the side lines, with regular standard farm products as well as articles of luxury, we object and demand that such practice be abolished forthwith.

If not, why this discrimination? If the man and woman who have been favored with a loan thru the rehabilitation department are given favors and special attention, what about the other men and women on the farms who have loans or mortgages on their farms be given the same consideration by our government? Because it may be a loan carried by the Federal Bank—State or a private loan or any other agency we can see no reason why they should not be given the same consideration. This practice is a damnable usurpation of power, dictated by autocrats and promoted by self-styled supreme controlled dictators.

If our government have more food stuffs on hand than they know what to do with, preserve and give it to men, women and children throut our land who are down and out of the earning class because of illness, old age or other causes which make it impossible for them to earn a living, and not to a class of people already favored - unless extended to all farmers who may have a loan on their home!

Such work carried out throut our nation appear to be buying political support in wholesale with the taxpayers hard earned dollars, on a scale never before seen or heard of in our nation—and the most remarkable part of it all is that Franklin Delano Roosevelt allow such conditions to exist and tolerate such execution. Congress gave this money to Roosevelt to relieve men, women and children in distress. The people as a whole in our land expect him to live up to these conditions, and not let politicians play politics for personal benefits at the expense of human misery.

It will take more than a circus pupped up convention at Philadelphia, under the leadership of misled politicians and staged oratorial declamations, attacking the Supreme Court with valid constitutional mutterings to induce the American people regardless of political affiliations to place more vote for the present set up. It is still fresh in the public mind what was done with the democratic platform in 1932. What guarantee have we that regardless of what kind of a platform is brought forth that it will not receive the same treatment at the best. A burnt child is seldom scorched twice in the same place and same manner and apply very aptly in this case.

The taxpayers in our land are today taking notes and will be heard from on election day next November.

CLOCK 130 YEARS OLD KEEPS ACCURATE TIME

Mountain Lake—A clock 101 years old, as reported in these columns recently, is just an infant, according to Henry J. Kliewer, Mountain Lake. He owns a clock which is 130 years old and still running. It was brought to the United States by Kliewer's great grandfather about 1875 from Russia. The clock has only one hand, pointing out the hours. The works are all made of brass and the wheels and cogs are of quarter inch material. The escapement went wrong many years ago, and Mr. Kliewer's father put the wheel in the stove, heated it red hot and shaped it with a hammer and file so that it was accurate. Now it keeps pretty accurate time. The mechanism contains no springs, the motive power being furnished by a weight suspended on a chain. An alarm bell, which undoubtedly used to arouse the ancestral Kliewers in the morning has been allowed to fall into disuse. The date of the manufacture is stamped on the works and proves that the instrument is actually 130 years old. The last painter put his mark on the job and painted in the date, 1857.

Tall Tales

As told to: FRANK E. HAGAN — ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Victims of Imagination

JOSEPH THOMPSON, of Nashville, Tenn., who gets around the country quite a bit in his work for a railroad, is seldom surprised by the queer things that folks do—like putting tacks in a dining car meal, eating them and threatening to sue the carrier.

The reason Joe preserves his calm is that once he operated a farm and most everybody knows that the queerest sort of things are forever happening there.

Joe's plantation featured fine hams and a herd of nervous goats but he still likes to talk about his trials and tribulations with a patch of popcorn.

"Never had any decent luck with the popcorn," Joe testifies. "Sun hot as blazes down at Nashville and first thing you'd know my field would begin to pop and I'd lose practically everything I'd put into it. Don't suppose I ever got to market more than half a crop.

"What I finally did was to plant the popcorn at a spot very close to the house. The noise of its popping kept the children amused.

"One time, though, the whole field began to pop at the same time. The white pellets flew into the air in a thick cloud and fell in the pasture with my nervous goats. Eighteen of the goats thought it was snowing and lay down and froze to death."

TEAM WINS BY 38-8 SCORE; BASKETBALL? NO, BASEBALL

Willmar. — A game for the books was the one between Northend and Southend kittenball teams at Willmar last week that resulted in the former team scoring 38 runs—yes sir, 38 runs on 32 hits. Included in the 32 blows were six home runs, three triples, and five doubles. Despite the fact that the game abounded in extra base hitting, there were fielding features that made both winners and losers look good. The losers scored 8 runs on 10 hits.

STATE CANVASSING BOARD COMPLETES PRIMARY CHECKUP

Republicans Lead in Voting for First Time in Six Years

The Republican vote at the Minnesota primary election June 15 exceeded the Farmer-Labor total by 13,983, official returns announced Thursday in St. Paul by the state canvassing board showed.

The Republican total was 209,510 and the Farmer-Labor 195,527. The total Democratic vote was 120,272.

It was the first time in six years that the Republican primary vote was greater than that of the Farmer-Laborites.

No changes in the results as indicated by the unofficial tabulations were revealed by the official figures.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson, Farmer-Labor nominee for United States senator, got 176,052 votes. His Republican opponent, Congressman Theodore Christianson, got 143,084, and the Democratic nominee, Patrick J. Delaney, 78,807.

Martin A. Nelson, Republican gubernatorial choice, received 171,586 votes. United States Senator Elmer Benson, Farmer-Laborite, who will oppose Nelson, received 126,088 votes, while Fred A. Curtis, Democratic nominee, received 60,221.

Benson's margin over Magnus Johnson was a few votes more than 75,000, Benson receiving 126,088 and Johnson 50,583.

Curtis, the Joe Wolf candidate, topped Dr. E. E. Novak, the Regan-Ryan-Noonan candidate, by more than 8,000 votes. Curtis got 60,221 and Novak 53,080 votes.

BOY TAKES 90-MILE JAUNT ON BICYCLE

Alexandria— Bob Westerberg, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Westerberg, Alexandria druggist, had made plans to "camp out" with a group of his playmates in Itasca State Park this summer, but was disappointed when they all backed down on their original plans. Bob, however, was not to be deprived of his trip, and set out to visit relatives at Detroit Lakes the other day. He started out on his bicycle at 4 o'clock in the morning and pedaled the ninety-odd miles in about 12 hours, arriving at his destination at 4 p. m. In a message received by his parents, he stated that he "hadn't had any trouble at all, hardly, except that he got a 'hot bearing'." He also made the auto trip back to Alexandria by the same means.

NEW LAND FOUND IN NOBLES COUNTY

Worthington. A 25-acre plot of ground in Nobles county that does not exist, according to government records, was surveyed last week by two men from the U. S. General Land office in Washington. The piece of land is on the shore of Lake Ocheda and for many years has been cultivated by Andrew Borden as a part of his farm which it adjoins. The survey resulted from a claim filed on the land by Frank Little and it was found the maps of the original survey did not show the land. The reason for this probably because the lake at that time was at a high level and water was backed up into the slough between the 25-acre plot and the shore, making it an island. The first surveyors neglected to put the island on the map.

FARM LOAN GROUP HOLDS MEETING IN WARREN JUNE 23D

Secretary Sands' Office Is Now Handling Nearly $3,000,000 Loans

Stockholders of the Wheat Belt and Valley National Farm Loan Associations met June 23 at the court house in Warren, to discuss problems before them at this time, and to elect officers for the ensuing year. Board members selected by the stockholders were, for the Wheat Belt organization, Albert Johnson, J. J. Pagnac, Geo. E. Copp, Anton Enge, and John Olberg, and for the Valley association, A. C. Knudson, Gustaff A. Johnson, Henry C. Cook, Hugo Monroe and Ole J. Westman. The meeting was presided over by Albert Johnson, president of the Wheat Belt association.

C. E. Brown, of the general agent's office of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, spoke at both the stockholders meeting and the joint session for all borrowers, held in the afternoon, and presented a short history of the Federal Land Banks, and discussed the present loaning policies in force.

The annual report of the secretary-treasurer, J. W. Sands, was presented to the stockholders at the meeting, and a report covering the activities of the associations within the group of associations in Marshall, Kittson and Pennington counties. The group report revealed that there are 1,167 loan units now serviced by the Warren office, representing a total consideration of $2,767,165.

HIGHWAY PATROL AIDS THOUSANDS, ARNOLDY REPORTS

Officers Serve Many Drivers in Trouble, Besides Enforcing Laws

Members of the Minnesota highway patrol travelled 1,416,714 miles during the first four months of this year, giving aid to 20,019 motorists, warning 30,785 traffic law violators, handing out 10,858 tags for illegal equipment, arresting 1,204 persons for violations of the traffic code, and attending 234 accidents.

These are only a few of the 95 items of public service included in a report to Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg by John P. Arnoldy, chief of the Patrol.

In aiding motorists, the patrolmen administered first aid in 118 injury cases gave road information 7,883 times, helped children across the road on 677 occasions, made 5,759 minor adjustments and repairs, pulled 1,472 cars out of ditches, delivered gasoline 477 times to cars out of fuel, called garages 1,015 times for stalled motorists and removed 2,618 traffic obstacles of various kinds from state highways.

Violators were warned for a score of different infractions, from passing through stop signs to jay walking. There were nearly as many items for which tags were given for illegal equipment, such as improper lights, bad brakes and other faulty equipment.

Estimated receipts resulting from license corrections totaled $91,623, occasioned by motorists having one plate only, no plates at all, wrong classes of plates and lack of Minnesota plates.

The patrol anticipates a much heavier record of activities for the second four-month period, as this is the heavy traffic season.

Keep Children in Bed to Cure Summer Illness, State Physicians Say

The dread infantile paralysis is especially a disease of late summer and fall and, since each summer sees at least a few cases in Minnesota, physicians warn parents this week to remember it whenever there is illness in summertime.

Today's bulletin from the Committee on Public Health Education of the Minnesota State Medical Association points out for their comfort, however, that not all cases of infantile paralysis, technically known as poliomyelitis, leave a crippling paralysis in their wake. With prompt attention and good after care many of those who do suffer a paralysis can be almost, if not entirely cured.

The extensive and important research now being carried on to find some means of preventing the disease has not yet resulted in any form of vaccination or immunization that can be safely used.

The probabilities are, according to physicians, that such a protection will eventually be discovered. In the meantime the usual rules of hygiene, that is, avoidance of people who are sick, careful washing of hands, particularly before eating; careful washing of vegetables and fruits, and care to see that milk and food supplies are all clean and uncontaminated, constitute the only reliable protection from "polio" and many other kinds of trouble-some late summer ailments.

In addition, parents are especially cautioned to put children to bed immediately in case of illness. Such treatment gives them the best chance to recover quickly, whatever the trouble may be. It is especially important if the illness should chance to be poliomyelitis.

Immunizing Necessary in Solving Diphtheria Menace, Say Physicians

The diphtheria problem will never be completely solved as long as immunization for children is put off until they enter school.

This truth is pointed out by members of the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association in a bulletin issued today.

In 1935 there were only 17 deaths from diphtheria in Minnesota, according to figures of the State Board of Health. This is the smallest number in the history of the state and it shows a dramatic drop from the tragic figure of 566 back in 1910.

But a large percentage of the 17 deaths in 1935 were among the children under five years of age. In the past 16 years, 47.6 per cent of the 1,848 deaths were among children under five. These small children form less than 10 per cent of the population but they die at the rate of 125 per every 1000 cases of diphtheria.

That is why physicians are trying to reach the babies with diphtheria immunization. The dread disease will not stop until every baby between six and twelve months of age is protected.

According to State Board of Health estimates, it costs parents and the state approximately $100 for every case of diphtheria and approximately $150 for every funeral. On this basis, the cost of the 3,341 cases recorded during the years from 1930 to 1934 was [illegible]. These were needless cases; if all the babies had actually been immunized, this wouldn't have happened. The expense was a needless expense.

RESETTLEMENT PROJECT HERE IS DEVELOPING

116 Tracts Are Optioned to Date; to Continue Purchases

HEADQUARTERS O. K.'S FIFTY TRACTS TO DATE

Hundreds of Applications Are Expected From Prospective Buyers

That the Thief River Falls federal resettlement project will be expanded beyond its original quota of 125 farms was indicated this week in the announcement by J. W. Taylor, project manager, that with 116 tracts optioned to date, buying of additional tracts will continue until further notice.

Washington headquarters to date have approved approximately fifty purchases, thirty to forty days being required for the process, Mr. Taylor said. The staff of the local office is now acquiring tracts in the Plummer, Oklee, Terrebonne and Red Lake Falls communities, while about 35 farms have been acquired in the vicinity of Argyle, Warren and Angus.

Hundreds of applications from prospective tenants of the farms are expected to be received during coming months, particularly from those residing in the drouth areas of the Dakotas. Already Mr. Taylor has interviewed a number of delegations from those regions who have called at the local office.

Applications are now being received for the farms, and a representative of the Milwaukee office of the resettlement administration will come to Thief River Falls shortly to conduct interviews. This agent will probably work in cooperation with a local committee, including a member of the county board, to represent the interests of the local community. An attorney will also be named within a few days to assist with the legal details of the project.

The tracts, with a maximum of 160 acres, will be leased to prospective purchasers for a three-year period under supervision before being sold. Plans call for the placing of ten to twelve milk cows on each farm, as well as approximately forty sheep when the operator has had experience in sheep rearing.

Entries, which are to be made with W. E. Dahlquist, chairman of the program committee, not later than July 18, may include singing, instrumental selections, yodeling or any other entertainment that the performer may care to present. Further details will be announced later, Mr. Lund said.

G. P. Hinton Enters Golfers Hall of Fame on Wisconsin Course

Not from the modest Guy P. Hinton, but from the latest issue of the New Lisbon, Wisc. Times, did his home paper learn that the local train dispatcher recently entered the golfers' Hall of Fame by virtue of having achieved the rare distinction of making a hole in one. The feat was accomplished on the golf course at Mauston, in which vicinity Mr. Hinton was enjoying a vacation trip with relatives and friends. The shot was made on the 160-yard seventh hole, the ball striking the green with a back spin near the hole and gently rolling in. The three others members of foursome in which he was playing attested to his exploit.

DISCUSS WATER SUPPLY TUESDAY AT CROOKSTON

Paul Lundgren, Head of Development Group, Calls Meeting

Action on water conservation plans involving the Red Lake river was deferred Tuesday by the Red Lake river Water Development association, pending outcome of the water conference in St. Paul on Wednesday.

The group met in Crookston on Tuesday night with officials from Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Crookston, Grand Forks and East Grand Forks attending. The meeting was called by Paul A. Lundgren, this city, president of the association and Mayor W. J. Kirkwood of Crookston presiden.

Continuous hot, dry weather is rapidly lowering the level of the Red Lake river to the extent where the water supply of towns along the river may be imperiled, officials said.

Morris Bye, a director of the development association, together with Supt. Ole Legvold of the water and light department and representatives of other Northwest communities, left for St. Paul Tuesday evening to be present at the planning board meeting Wednesday. The local men were to present the need of work in the Red Lake river basin as an emergency matter, in view of the present low stage of the water level in the river.

Marked Increase Is Noted in Figures on Personal Property

Completion this week by F. N. Shanahan and E. B. Bakke, local assessors, of the 1936 assessment figures for the city of Thief River Falls reveals a substantial increase in personal property valuations, with little change in moneys and credits and real estate valuations.

The value of taxable personal property in the city is fixed at $1,145,620 with an assessed valuation of $351,089, compared to $297,523 in 1934. The total value of real estate with improvements and attached machinery is given as $3,061,352, with an assessed valuation of $1,042,373, which compares with $1,070,317 in 1935 and $1,100,921 in 1934.

Moneys and credits this year are reported at $503,098, while in 1935 the figure was $532,058 and in 1934 $415,200.

While a considerable amount of new construction during the past two years, particularly of residences, tends to increase the amount of assessable real estate, the assessors pointed out that this gain is largely offset by reductions made during the period in the assessed valuations of some substantial local structures, together with a court ruling holding that St. Lukes hospital is tax exempt. They added that there also was an increase in homestead exemptions.

COUNTY FARMERS URGED TO CUT HAY ALONG ROADSIDES

Demand From Drouth Region Makes Hay Valuable Crop This Year

With large quantities of choice hay now available along roadsides in Pennington county, and with an acute feed shortage in prospect this winter in the drouth areas of the northwest, County Highway Engineer J. A. Erickson today urged farmers to cut the hay on roadsides along their property, and added that if they do not need it themselves they should offer it to neighbors who are short of feed in order that the crop may not be wasted. Mr. Erickson explained that as in recent past years the county highway department will not mow along the roadsides until in September, by which time the crop will be of no value for feed purposes.

Helquist pitched the locals to victory over Red Lake Falls and Argyle, while Sahl pitched the two games against East Grand Forks, striking out 16 men in the first game and allowing no hits in the second.

Following is the personnel of the team: Selmer Christofferson, catcher; Leonard Helquist, pitcher and outfielder; Helmer Sahl, pitcher and shortstop; Reuben Mickelson and Gordon Caldis, first base; Wallace Tunberg, second base, Selmer Dicken, shortstop; Roy Lee, third base; Perry Pederson, utility infield; and Alvin Dicken, Robert Quale, Roy Breiteson, Lynn Booren and Kenneth Holmgren, outfielders.

Also contributing to the afternoon programs the last three days of the fair will be a series of horse races to be run off under the supervision of Harry Lund.

Postal Receipts for Year Reach New Peak

Attain High Mark of $34,357 for Past Fiscal Year, Anderson Says

Reflecting a continued improvement of business conditions in the Thief River Falls community, postal receipts at the local postoffice for the fiscal year ending June 30 reached a new record high mark, aggregating $34,357.09, compared to $33,040.60 in 1935, it was revealed in figures announced by Postmaster Andrew Anderson.

The gradual but consistent rise in receipts is revealed in a tabulation showing a total of $28,735.46 for the 1934 fiscal year; $27,117.54 for 1930; $26,865.55 for 1925; $25,257.24 for 1920; and $20,250.64 for 1915.

Following are the receipts by quarters for the past two fiscal years:

	1936	1935
September	$7,681.95	$6,874.30
December	10,781.55	10,464.71
March	7,817.81	7,625.34
June	8,075.78	8,076.25
	$34,357.09	$33,040.60

It was explained that some allowance for the increase since 1932 must be made for the fact that three-cent postage on first-class mail went into effect July 1 of that year.

LOCALS HOLD TIE WITH ST. HILAIRE FOR LEAGUE LEAD

Defeat Plummer 5 to 2 in a Pitchers' Battle Sunday Afternoon

Scoring a 5 to 2 victory against Plummer last Sunday, the Thief River Falls baseball team maintained its perfect record in the league standings, the locals and St. Hilaire being tied for first place with six wins each and no defeats.

Robinson, on the mound for Thief River Falls, pitched a fine brand of ball, while the locals had trouble connecting with the slants of Fremling, Plummer left-hander, until the ninth frame when a walk and three hits produced three runs.

In a non-league game played July Fourth at Red Lake Falls the locals were defeated 6 to 5, errors behind Orvalls in the pitcher's box accounting for the poor showing. With four errors in the fourth inning the Red Lake Falls men bunched five hits and scored five runs, accounting for only two other hits during the game. This

LOCAL CREAMERY SETS NEW RECORD FOR JUNE OUTPUT

Churns 88,068 Pounds of Butter; Big Gain Over Last Year

The Thief River Falls cooperative creamery in June established an all-time record by manufacturing 88,068 pounds of butter, an increase of nearly fifty per cent over June, 1935, the peak month of last year, when 61,000 pounds were churned, G. S. Bergland, manager, announced today.

During the first six months of the current year 348,460 pounds of butter were made, more than half again as much as in the corresponding period of 1935 when churnings aggregated 227,189 pounds. The increase in volume was accompanied by a reduction in operating costs per pound of butter from 3.8 cents in 1935 to 2.0 cents this year.

The flourishing institution now has more than 600 patrons, Mr. Bergland reported, and the outlook is that nearly 700,000 pounds of butter will be manufactured during the current year.

TORRID SPELL CONTINUES IN THE N. W. AREA

Mercury Reaches High Mark of 103 Three Days This Week

HEAT UNFAVORABLY AFFECTS CROPS HERE

Ideal Weather Prevailed Over July Fourth Holiday

While the government forecast for today was "Cool with possible showers", there was little prospect this morning of relief from the extreme heat wave which has held the northwest in its grip since Sunday, causing acute discomfort and inflicting material damage on grain crops which are getting into the filling stage.

With no official readings available in Thief River Falls, street thermometers in the dowtown district registered 105 on three successive days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, establishing what is believed to be an all-time record for duration of extreme temperatures. That these readings are not out of line with official records is revealed by the fact that during the week weather stations in Grand Forks and Crookston registered as high as 105 also.

In western North Dakota the mercury reached a peak of 110 at Fort Yates and 118 at Napoleon and McClusky. The heat wave has broken all records dating back to one day in July, 1917, when slightly higher readings were recorded.

In less than five months temperatures in this city have varied more than 150 degrees from the record low mark of February 15, when a reading of close to 50 below zero was recorded.

For the Fourth of July holiday ideal weather prevailed locally, with clear skies and moderate temperatures. A large number of residents deserted the city for the occasion, journeying to lake resorts or participating in celebrations in nearby communities, Red Lake Falls and Plummer attracting the largest attendances. While more than the usual amount of fireworks were in evidence here, no accidents occurred locally to mar the occasion, and no traffic mishaps were reported in this locality.

RED CROSS WATER SAFETY PROGRAM WILL END FRIDAY

GEORGE SPENCER was the last man in the world Ted Harris had ever dreamed of meeting when he walked up to the refreshment stand at Anita park. Yet there stood George as big as life, dressed in the customary attire of a soda dispenser, dishing out peanuts, popcorn and soft drinks. As he recognized Ted he forgot all else going on about him and approached him as if here were a ghost. And then—

"Ted, old boy, you of all the fellas turnin' up here. Why, Ted—gee, kid, I'm glad to see ya."

"Hello, George, you old son-of-a-gun. Never expected to find you here," and they were busy for the next few seconds exchanging handshakes and complimenting each other on their appearance.

Yes, it had been four years since Ted and George had been riding for the Fiddler Syndicate back in the east working together for Old Man Fiddler for two and a half years. There had always been a question as to who was the better man, but never between Ted and George. George would always say they never saw a better rider on the track than Ted Harris and Ted would always say the same about George.

When the the old man died and T. V. Aldridge took the stable over, the boys quit. They could never accustom themselves to his methods or his cronies, and when Ted announced his intention of quitting, George went with him. Great friends these two, but like all friends, sooner or later the time came when they drifted apart.

Ted remembered reading somewhere about George getting married and had picked up a little information about him around the tracks. He guessed George would make out O. K. He was never a victim of wanderlust as Ted was. Ted couldn't stay in one place any length of time; always wanted to keep rambling.

Well, if you ever met an old pal after four years, you can imagine how Ted and George felt.

In the ensuing two hours the boys lived over the entire time that they rode together.

"But," Ted was saying, "you seem to be doing all right by yourself, George. Tell me, how's the Missus and the kid. Or is it kids now?"

"Yeah, there's three kids now, Ted. Two girls an' a boy. They're great, Ted. Just what a fella needs to keep him hustlin'."

"Guess you might be right there, George, but you know me; never was much of a home man. Couldn't get the old rambling fever out of my system."

"Well, you don't seem to be lookin' the worse for it, Ted. Heard ya made quite a killin' in Chicago. Last time I asked about ya, Whitey Davis told me he seen ya in Hialeah knockin' them over for a chunk a dough. Well, more power to ya, Ted. You always was the gambler of the combination. Not me, though. I been workin' pretty hard for my end in the last four years. I own this joint, ya know. Ain't much, but I knock out a swell piece of change while it lasts and when it's over, I get me a job in the city till next season. Been doin' O. K. but ain't never had the urge to lay a dime on any a' the nags. Yes, you always were the gambler of the outfit. Guess that's why you'll always be in the money while I keep on strugglin'."

Well, there was nothing more to talk about and Ted said something in a voice that he didn't recognize as his own, about having some kind of an appointment in the city and he guessed he'd have to be running along.

"Gee, Ted," said George, "ya come all the way out here to see the races, an' here I take up all your time and' ya don't get to see a thing."

"Aw, forget it George. A horse race isn't anything new to me. Besides, I'll have lots of time to see them again."

"Say, that's right, Ted. Gee, but I'm a fool. All this time an' I never even ask ya to come out to the house. Let's make a date for dinner tonight at the house. I'll call up Mildred and . . . Why she'll be tickled to death to see ya, Ted."

"Not so sure about tonight, George, I . . ."

"I know you're busy, Ted, but here, suppose ya call me at the house. Here, I'll write the number down. There y'are. Now don't forget, I'll look for ya to call."

With a dual handclasp and cheery good-by, the two friends parted. George went back to selling his peanuts, popcorn and soft drinks and Ted went on his way out of the park.

As he went through the gate he took a paper from his pocket and before throwing it away took one last look at it. It read:

"Man wanted: to sell peanuts, pop corn and soda.

"Apply manager of stand at Santa Anita Race Track."

Here's a Fine Red Fruit

A SUPREME COURT judge in Virginia has just ruled that the tomato is a fruit. He based his ruling on the dictionary definition which describes it as a "South American herb widely cultivated, usually as an annual, for its fruit," and excused a man from jury duty on the ground that he was busy picking tomatoes. A Virginia statute exempts from jury duty "any fruit grower while actively engaged in harvesting his crops."

They evidently take pride in their farm products in the Old Dominion, and they're right. For what could taste better than almost any dish in which the tomato plays a dominant part? Tomatoes play prominent parts in many dishes with which everyone is familiar, but how about their role in the following recipes?

Tomatoes the Stars

Tomato Timbales with Cheese Sauce: Combine the contents of a No. 2 can tomatoes, one slice onion, one-half bay leaf, three whole cloves, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and a few grains of pepper and cook gently for a few minutes, then press through a sieve. Add one-half cup soft bread crumbs and two slightly-beaten eggs, and turn into buttered timbale cases or custard cups and set in a pan of hot water. Bake from thirty to forty minutes in a 375 degree oven, or until a knife comes out clean. Turn out and pour over them a very rich cheese sauce. Serves four.

Oriental Onion and Tomatoes: Peel twelve large white onions, cut in halves crosswise, and lay in baking dish. Melt four tablespoons butter, add one-fourth cup sieved canned tomatoes, one-fourth cup strained honey, salt, pepper and a few grains of paprika, and heat to boiling. Pour over onions and bake until tender—about an hour to an hour and a half—in a slow, or 350 degree, oven. Serves six.

"Better Mouse Trap" Slogan

Elbert Hubbard said: "If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." The Roycrofters said Mr. Hubbard had in mind the following lines from Emerson at hand at the time he quoted as above: "If a man has good corn, or wood, or boards, or pigs to sell, or can make better chairs or knives, or crucibles, or church organs than anybody else, you will find a broad, hard-beaten road to this house, though it be in the woods."

Growing With Your Child

Too Great Expectations

It seemed to George Hunter that his wife looked unusually excited as she stepped quickly about the porch, setting the table. He didn't have to wait long, for when she saw him coming, she burst out gaily, "I only beat you home by about a minute. We had such an exciting discussion this afternoon that I stayed later than I meant to."

"And what were you gabbing about that was so important it's going to make supper late?" he mocked, as he kissed her.

"Gabbing, nothing! We were having a very serious argument. You know we were playing bridge at Lulu's today, and Jamie came in while we were having tea. He behaved like such a little angel that Mina commented on it, and said it seemed to her 'unnatural' to have a four year old child act so grown up. Lulu contended that his behavior wasn't out of the ordinary at all, that any child of that age should be self-controlled enough to sit still, and speak politely to guests, and eat daintily, and so on."

"How did Mina like that?" asked her husband, with a grin reminiscent of the occasions on which Mina's children had shown that whatever behavior might reasonably be expected of other children of their ages, they were governed by few laws but their own desires.

"Oh, you know how easy-going she is," returned Elizabeth. "It didn't bother her much, because she's so confident that her children will get along all right. She was feeling sorry for little Jamie, that was all. Of course Lulu wouldn't stand for that. She wanted to know what made Mina think she was too hard on him, or her training too strenuous."

"That's where our discussion became a sort of free-for-all. It's true Jamie doesn't show any signs of being nervous', but I don't feel that that makes it certain he's not. I really think Lulu expects altogether too much of him. She's had no acquaintances with young children before, and the standards she sets for him are based only on what looks well for a child to do, not on any real tests of what children can do at various ages."

"Well, I suppose you could put them straight on what a child of that age can be expected to do," joked George. "After all the reading you've done, you're pretty nearly an expert, aren't you?"

"At least I know enough to know that I don't know!" replied Elizabeth with spirit. "It's ridiculous, in this day and age, when there's constant investigation going on as to what children can safely be expected to do, to assume that one knows, just automatically, when one becomes a mother, at what age this or that can be taught. Why, there's Helen, for instance. It just so happened that her first baby was especially easy to train—by the age of a year she wasn't wetting her bed at night. And so when Junior came along, she was worrying and fretting and even punishing him because at a year and a half he was still far from being trained.

"You just can't act as tho children were automatons, and could be expected to do your bidding. Of course you can exert pressure on them, and force them to do things that are a strain for them. But as long as there is so much known nowadays about what we can expect, I'm not going to run the risk of making my children nervous and irritable by pushing and prodding them into behavior that's beyond their years.—"Oh goodness, I believe that spaghetti is boiling over!"

THE GIANT IS COMING TO LIFE

Railroad passenger business is staging a remarkable recovery. In 1926, now considered a normal year for the railroads, more than eight hundred and fifty million passengers paid more than a billion dollars for transportation. From then on receipts dropped year after year until in 1933 when they reached a low of less than one-third of the 1926 total. In 1934 and 1935 slight gains were made. 1936 is showing a big increase and according to the figures for the first six months it is expected that nearly six hundred million passengers will pay more than a half a billion dollars to the railroads.

Several reasons are ascribed for this recovery. One of them, of course, is that business in general is better. Most of the credit, however, goes to the railroads themselves. By improved service they have attracted customers. Reduced rates have been a big factor in increased business. It is significant that lower rates have meant increased revenue.

A few years ago the railroads seemed headed for bankruptcy. Today, while many roads are still in serious financial difficulties, the prospects for the future are a great deal brighter. The attitude of the industry has changed. The old attitude of indifference has given way to a healthy competitive spirit. Instead of seeking for survival by retarding the progress of its competitors, it is meeting the competition of speed and low cost through improvements in its own service.

If the present tendency toward recovery continues, railroading will again attract many young men. Most of the men now in active service on the railroads are well advanced in years. In the nature of things, during the next ten years there will be many vacancies to be filled. And as the business of the railroads improves additional jobs will be created. While the prospects for immediate employment in this field are not good, it is a field that still offers possibilities and should not be overlooked by those who are not placed in permanent positions and who are young enough to wait a few years for a regular pay check.

At the close of its fiscal year June 30, the debt of the federal government totaled nearly thirty-four billion dollars, an increase of more than five billion dollars over the figures of a year ago. This is offset by assets in the form of loans totaling a little more than four billions, but these assets in turn are offset by contingent liabilities in the form of guarantees as to principal and interest on various financing projects. Hence the difference of opinion as to how deep in the hole the government really is. Administration defenders forget the contingent liabilities and subtract the assets. Critics, on the other hand, says the government will realize little on the assets and will be stuck for a tidy sum on the paper it has guaranteed. But whichever way you look at it, the sum involved is a lot of money. The future of the taxpayer is not so bright.

Organization of farm clubs thruout the country has done much to encourage and develop home talent entertainers. Attend a program in any community and you will find young people contributing with vocal and instrumental harmony. And in most cases it is good harmony. In order to give these young people an opportunity to perform before a larger audience, using an electrical amplifying system, the Pennington County fair management is offering prizes to be awarded at an amateur hour program which will precede the regular evening entertainment. It is an experiment that not only should prove interesting but that should be encouraged. Many of the youngsters will be timid about entering and for this reason each farm club should enter its best talent.

It is encouraging to see the way youngsters around town are taking to baseball. For a while the old national game had become obsolete in the community. The outdoor version of the indoor variety of the game, that had become popular, had corrupted the youth in the mind of many an old timer. Those who worried about it need worry no more however. The kids around town now handle a hard ball with an easy grace that should assure any observer that the race is not degenerating. Baseball and hockey are taking their proper place with football and basketball as major sports in the community.

We complained several months ago too when it was a hundred and fifty degrees cooler.

Now that the Fourth has come and gone, about all there is to look forward to before ordering coal is the fair.

Whatever else may be said about it, we will have to admit that the drouth has greatly reduced the expense of harvesting in the northwest.

The best manner of avenging ourselves is by not resembling him who has injured us.—Jane Porter.

All we have to do to preserve the heroic in men is to set them fighting their real enemies; and the real enemies of mankind are ignorance, disease, superstition and war.—Frederick K. Stamm.

SPLIT-SECOND PERSPECTIVE
(Christian Science Monitor)

Experience has shown that many accidents are traceable to the great paradox of the road—motorists thinking in terms of miles per hour while being called upon every day to act within split seconds. A safety clue to be drawn from this paradox is that motorists should be taught, in a way they will not forget, to consider the feet per second they cover when the speedometer hovers around 40, 50 and 60 miles an hour.

But 50 m. p. h. (miles per hour) is 73 f. p. s. (feet per second). It is easy to understand why motorists cannot conceive of a car covering 292 feet within the four seconds it takes a driver to turn and speak to a rear-seat passenger. At the same speed, how many realize when they pass the familiar sign "Railroad crossing 200 feet ahead," they will reach the tracks in less than three seconds? One way to drive home this lesson is to reface the speedometer to translate miles per hour into feet per second.

Manufacturers probably would welcome the f. p. s. idea if drivers were to obtain a better understanding of car performance. An f. p. s. speedometer might induce motorists to maintain proper margins of safety and drive at more reasonable speeds within districts where every second counts in avoiding accidents. Restating speeds in feet per second should encourage the sanity so much in demand.

WHAT'S THE HURRY?
(Worthington Globe)

The truth is that it is entirely possible for the people of the United States to make over their government under their present constitution. The constitution can be changed and changed radically by the people themselves, but precautions have been taken so as to make that process slow and deliberate, based upon the proved needs and wishes of the American people, rather than upon the temporary influence of soapbox orators and propaganda sheets, rubber stamp legislatures and dictatorial administrators.

Practically all agitators for quick and radical change must base their campaign on the battle cry of emergency and draw their support from discontent and confusion. They are impatient of any restraining force which may delay the fruition of their efforts until the fever of emergency is past and the reaction sets in.

Some of the reforms which are advanced may be perfectly sound. If so, the American people are very likely to get around to accepting them in democratic fashion sooner or later.

The thing that irks us most about the radical reformer is that he expects us to get down on our knees and worship him and his ideas right away. And he gets mad if we don't. He refuses to recognize the fact that under democratic process the burden of proof is on him. We cannot take his word that his particular reform will revolutionize society. Let him get busy and prove his point and eventually his way will be recognized and accepted.

In the meantime why shouldn't the people institute the changes they want thru orderly constitutional methods?

SKILLED TRADESMEN AND WHITE COLLAR MAN
(Milwaukee Sentinel)

Economists are now pointing out that the career of the skilled artisan must be made more attractive and greater emphasis placed on the cultivation of technical perfection than in the past. The skilled trade ought to offer as alluring a prospect to the boy as the more uncertain life of the white collar man, who, in times of prosperity proverbially has a harder time to hold his job than the man who has a good trade and works efficiently at it.

The vocational schools can do, and we believe are doing, an excellent work in turning the thoughts of boys and young men toward the trades. Boys who are coming up may profitably reflect that jobs are seeking for skilled artisans in many lines, while unskilled workers and white collar men are looking vainly for work to do.

LIVING COSTS AND BIG TAXES
(Milwaukee Sentinel)

The national industrial conference board reports that the cost of living has increased since April, 1935. For every $100 paid then by the consumer, says the report, he now pays $102.10. Wage earners live more cheaply now than they did in 1929—a boom year—but they pay $118.30 for what cost $100 in 1933, the bottom of the depression.

The increase doesn't look very bad. If it were offset by more employment and better wages it would mean but little. But to the wage earner or small salaried worker, who finds his living costs increased by $200 a year or more, it spells the difference between fairly easy living and close economy.

The increase in living costs of course reflects the high taxes and, as time goes on and the inevitable tax increases, necessitated by the orgy of New Deal spending, have to be paid, it will hit the wage earner's pay envelope considerably harder than now. That is one reason why every citizen should interest himself in the subject of government economy, which is the only road to tax reform.

A HEAVY FOG PREVAILS
(Montevideo News)

A nation that is capable, in times of peace, of great emotional indignation about the loss of life in war continues to make peace-time battlefields of its highways. More Americans lose their lives on the roads of the country each year than were killed during this country's participation in the World War. More Americans are maimed, disfigured, disabled, made physical wrecks in one year on the highways, in pursuits of peace, than entered the ranks of the disabled as a result of war service.

Is there any gain in continued talk about it? The note of discouragement enters when, after warnings without number, the death toll mounts.

In reporting an accident unusually tragic The Morris Tribune has a poignant paragraph. Three men, Stevens county farmers, died after collision of a truck and an automobile near Morris. By the death of one of them eight children become orphans, their mother having died two years ago. Another man leaves a wife and four children, the third leaves a wife and six children.

At the time of the collision, The Morris Tribune reports, "a heavy fog prevailed." It is a telling phrase. If people saw this traffic thing clearly, in all its realistic detail, there would be fewer untimely obituaries in the papers. But a heavy fog prevails.

MUST PAY THE FIDDLER
(Minnesota Mascot)

The need for tax reduction supersedes the need for tax reform. Reduction of taxes thru reduction of expenditures of government can be brought about only by lessening the demands on the various governmental units. Political promises, pork barrel tactics and sectional demands on government treasuries have gone a long way toward bringing taxes to their present high levels. The public must be made to realize that for every new demand it makes on the government an increase in taxes is necessary. Those who insist that the fiddler play should not object to paying their fair share when he presents his bill.

It is a great dishonor to religion to imagine that it is an enemy to mirth and cheerfulness, and a severe extractor of pensive looks and solemn faces.—Walter Scott.

The man who threatens the world is always ridiculous; for the world can easily go on without him, and, in a short time, will cease to miss him.—Johnson.

News and Comment
By R. W. Hitchcock

Primary election returns as to nominees for the lower house of the legislature indicate that the complexion of the next House may not be materially different from that of the last, when the top strength of the independent-progressive group was 82 and of the farmer-labor group 49. State and local conditions both indicate that some gains may be made by the independent-progressive group.

All independent-progressives who stood for reelection were named again with the exception of three. In each of these three cases the top vote was won by another conservatively-minded candidate. One of these three cases was the nomination of Louis W. Hill, Jr., of Ramsey, grandson of James J. Hill, by a vote which totals more than the combined vote of his three opponents.

Independent-progressives, following the primary vote, expressed confidence that they would poll at least 90 votes in the election for speaker in the 1937 House.

The candidacy of women for the legislature in Minnesota has fallen far short of what was expected when the suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution was adopted by Minnesota in 1919. The high for the representation of women in the state legislature came several years ago when the House (1923) had four women members and the Senate (1927-33) had one. The low came in 1935 with two women members of the House and none in the Senate.

At the primary election this year eight women were candidates for House places—four in Hennepin and four in the country—and six women were nominated.

Mrs. Helen F. Warren in Cottonwood county was nominated in the tenth district without a primary contest, but will have opposition in November.

Mabeth Hurd Paige, who has served continuously in the lower House since 1923 and thus becomes the Dean of Women in the Minnesota legislature, was renominated in the thirtieth legislative district, topping all other candidates with her vote.

In the same district Shirley Helen Edelston was also nominated on June 15th as one of the four candidates from which two are to be elected.

In the thirty-third district Mrs. P. C. Hitchcock was the only woman to file in a list of 12 candidates. She beat out nine of the men to win a place on the ticket.

Mrs. P. J. Meighen won fourth place on the representative ticket in the thirty-fourth district.

In Otter Tail county, the fiftieth district, where four representatives are elected at large and where eight candidates are nominated, Mrs. Hannah J. Kempfer won second place, polling more votes than all other candidates except Roy Dunn who led by a wide margin. Mrs. Kempfer, a farm woman, was first elected to the House in 1923 and has served continuously except for the 1931 session.

Two women were defeated in the primaries. In Cass county, fifty-second district, Mary T. Mason failed to gain a place on the ticket, and in Chisago county, fifty-sixth district, Mrs. Rosanna Payne, a former representative from Itasca county, failed in an attempt to come back.

Mrs. Laura Naplin, the only woman senator in Minnesota history, was first elected to the Senate in 1927 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of her husband, Senator Oscar A. Naplin of Thief River Falls. Mrs. Naplin was re-elected in 1928 for a full four year term. She retired in 1932 when she became a candidate for clerk of the supreme court.

Republicans throughout Minnesota feel very cheerful over the results of the primary election. While the total vote fell off, the republican vote increased, and the G. O. P. again takes its place as the leading party of the state.

The farmer-labor vote fell off 81,625 from 1934 and the republican vote increased 43,258. Martin Nelson, republican candidate for governor, shows gains in every one of the 70 counties in the state carried against him in 1934.

The democrats suffered severely in comparison with 1934, their total vote falling off 137,976.

The total farmer-labor vote cast for United States Senator this year was 189,601 while the total republican vote for the same office was 203,708.

The total farmer-labor vote cast for governor this year was 190,648 while the total republican vote was 202,011.

Highly significant in the primary returns is the vote of the people of the state for justices of the supreme court. The two sitting judges ran about 70,000 votes ahead of their nearest competitors, Holt polling 195,331 votes and Stone 193,404. Still more significant was the total failure of the farmer-labor effort to put partisan judges upon the bench. The farmer-labor endorsed candidates trailed far behind all other candidates and the first partisan attempt in many years, if not in the history of the state, to control the court for political purposes, was sternly rebuked by the voters of the state.

One of the most significant features of the primary election this year was the consistent gain made by Martin Nelson, republican candidate for governor, in every quarter of the state. Mr. Nelson not only showed gains in territory friendly to him in 1934 but made remarkable advances in the enemy territory. Without a single exception he showed gains in the state which went against him in 1934.

In such counties as Clearwater, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen and Lake, where the vote in 1934 was 10 to 1 against him in 1934, his gains this year were 500 per cent.

Martin Nelson carried Hennepin county against Benson this year by 42,808 to 34,326 and the vote for all candidates on governor in Hennepin was republican 49,455, and farmer-labor 45,911.

In the three big counties the republican primary vote showed remarkable gains this year as against the primary vote of 1934 and the farmer-labor vote showed heavy losses. The total farmer-labor vote on governor in the three counties in 1934 was 98,000; it fell this year to 90,000, a loss of 8,000. The total republican vote on governor in the three counties in 1934 was 51,000; this year it rose to 80,000, a gain of 29,000.

The Flying Squid

The flying squid, a ten-armed marine animal about a foot long and closely related to the octopus and the cuttlefish, is the only known creature whose mode of travel, strictly speaking, is a series of leaps on the surface of the sea. In fact, writes David M. Whipp, Glendale, Calif., in Collier's Weekly, these leaps are so long and high that the animals frequently land on the decks of ships.

Colors of Honey

The various colors of honey result from the nectar extracted from various flowers. For instance, that from the yellow star thistle is a yellowish green, while the honey from the white buckwheat is a very dark color. Tulip trees produce a rich wine red, and from purple blossoms comes a light honey.

Kaolin is a variety of clay, formed by the weathering of granite and certain other rocks. It burns to a pure white, and is used for the manufacture of pottery, such as porcelain and white earthenware. It is also employed in making some kinds of paper and in filling fabrics. Kaolin is found in a good many places in the United States, and though this country still imports a good deal of it, the domestic production is steadily rising. Explosibility of Dusts

One of the principal factors in the explosibility of dusts seems to be the degree of fineness of the dusts, says a writer in the Washington Star. The explosion appears to be the propagation of flame through a very finely and uniformly divided dust cloud. This flame travels at a very rapid speed, building up considerable pressure, thereby producing what we ordinarily call the explosion. It has, therefore, been extremely difficult in certain instances to determine definitely when the fire ended and the explosion started. It would appear that any fire might result in an explosion if combustible dust clouds were present.

First to See Grand Canyon

The first white man to behold the Grand canyon was Garcia Lopez de Cardenas, who had been sent from Zion, New Mexico, to find a river far to the west of which natives had spoken.

Tints Name Crater

Sunset crater, which gives its name of a national monument in Arizona, is so called because no matter what the angle of light, it always presents the colors of the setting sun. Dark at the base, it grows red, fading in turn to yellow at the crater.

Slaves Freed

Public Christian feeling, at a very early date, held that the freeing of one's slaves was a good method of expiating one's sins, and many so distinguished themselves, particularly in the Fourth and Fifth centuries. As late as the Thirteenth century, when slavery in France had practically ceased, on certain festivals a number of pigeons would be solemnly freed from captivity in commemoration of this ancient religious act of enfranchisement.

Elephants Carry Lumber

Elephants are regularly employed in the great lumber yards of Burma. One of the most thrilling sights there is to see a jungle patriarch kneel down to a heavy log, twist his trunk around it, place it on top of a pile, and then calculate its position, and push and pull until it is square in its place.

FARMER AND TWO BOYS DROWN NEAR OSLO ON MONDAY

Drown in Red River North of Village Before Aid Arrives

Three persons, a farmer, his son, and his nephew, lost their lives in the Red river near Oslo early Monday evening, the father dying in an attempt to rescue the two boys from the river.

The drowning victims are: Clarence Kallock, 36, Tommy Kallock, 10, and Eugene Kallock, 9 his nephew.

The two boys were swimming near the Kallock farm home three miles north of Oslo while the father watched as he worked nearby. Noticing the boys disappear, the father plunged into the river to rescue them. He was seized with cramps.

Other members of the family, including the wife and daughter of Kallock, were summoned and aid was obtained from nearby farmhouses, but all three drowned before divers could reach them. The two boys were found in 16 feet of water, and the father in 20 feet.

SEE CHANCE OF CHAIN GANG AT GRANITE FALLS

Granite Falls.—Some day a prisoner will escape to write a book about being a fugitive from a chain gang in Granite Falls, as a result of an ordinance in that city providing that jail prisoners must work during their sentence—and possibly wear chains. The ordinance has been under consideration for some time, but finally passed the council as a result of the need for labor on odd jobs about the city. No NRA working hours for the prisoners were supplied, and a 10 hour working day maximum is listed in the ordinance. Teeth in the law are seen in a section which makes it possible for the officers in charge to "use all reasonable means necessary to prevent escape or enforce obedience." Chief of Police August Anderberg interprets this to mean a "chain gang" if necessary, altho it is likely that an alternative of "bread and water in solitary confinement" will be given for those who renig on the work. Furthermore, time so spent will not be counted as a part of the sentence. For each day of labor the prisoner will be credited $1.50 on any judgment for fine or costs, and may be discharged whenever the fine has been worked out. To avoid any "ribbing" by the boys around town, a penalty for such insults has been provided of five days at the same task!

POOR MAN'S COURT HAS 6,000 CASES SINCE 1924

Rochester—More than 6,000 law cases, involving $111,000 dollars have been settled in the "Poor Man's Court" at Rochester during the last 14 years without aid of lawyers. The idea of the court was taken from those founded in Norway and Denmark more than a century ago. Only a judge, a clerk of court, the parties involved and their witnesses are present. Court is held every Monday morning for any claim under $50, with a 50 cent filing fee. Clerk of Court J. W. Anderson has previously talked to the complainant and instructed them as to filling out an affidavit, and mailed out papers. Judge of Municipal Court Burt E. Eaton asks for the stories of each party, and asks all questions, with practically no formality of regulations of any kind. He makes all decisions, and there have been only 18 appeals since 1926 when Judge Eaton took office. Court records reveal the average claim is for $18, consisting of grocery bills, rent bills, minor traffic accidents, and employment disputes.

BABY FEW DAYS OLD HAS SET OF TEETH

Red Wing. In a Red Wing hospital there's a robust baby girl less than two weeks old, and strange as it seems, the youngster has a full set of upper teeth. But why not? Nothing unusual at all, explains the proud father, who is J. V. McCoy. Dental science had a lot to do with it. When Dr. Kenneth Smith of Minneapolis learned of the new arrival in his friend's family he immediately locked himself in his laboratory and patiently turned out an upper set of pearly white teeth, just the right size for the tiny baby, placed them in an attractive box about the size of a ring box and mailed them with a congratulatory note.

District 4-H Club Agent Confers With Leaders of County Monday Evening

H. A. Pflughoeft, district club agent, of Crookston attended the 4-H leaders' council meeting held on Monday evening in the Auditorium. Twenty-one leaders represented eleven of the county clubs at the meeting to take part in the discussion of future events. Mr. Pflughoeft introduced a new contest which is known as the "Meat Identification Contest." The contest is offered in order to encourage a broader knowledge of meats. All 4-H club members who are enrolled in cake baking, bread baking, canning, meal planning and preparation and all livestock projects may compete. In order to complete the project one must be able to identify thirty cuts of meat and write a story one of the chosen subjects. Any 4-H member wishing to take part in this contest should notify Miss Solie, temporary club leader, of their wish to enter.

Bennes, Thief River Falls representative of The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, has received notice from his home office that he is one of the winners in a nation-wide sales contest held during the month of May. Each year, the company makes a special drive during May in honor of Arthur F. Hall, president; and rivalry is keen for a special silver trophy and other prizes awarded to men with outstanding records. Mr. Bennes was given special credit as an honor man for the month for helping his company achieve an outstanding production record.

FISH TAKES ROD, BEATS MAN IN SWIM CONTEST

Lake City.—A combination fishing, diving and swimming trip was enjoyed by Fay Sprague, Lake City resident, the other day when only the first sport was intended. While lighting his pipe, Sprague laid his fly rod down on the boat and that instant a large fish struck, yanked the rod, reel and all into the water. Stopping only to spit out his pipe, Sprague dove into the water, swimming after the disappearing rod which he was not quite able to reach because the fish decided to go places at the same time. Sprague got within a foot or two or reaching it a couple of times, but finally was outdistanced. Next day he returned with a clammer's bar and hooks and a few drags of the bay brought up the rod. The line was broken as was the tip of the rod, indicating that the fish was no child, but a real he-man affair. The rod was worth the wetting, being a gift of a friend and valued at $75.

Bids on 10 highway construction jobs in 9 counties, estimated to cost approximately $215,000, have been called for July 17 by the Minnesota highway department. Twelve miles of grading and graveling, 7 miles of graveling, ½ mile of grading, one bridge and one culvert are proposed among the following counties: Aitkin, Cass, Houston, Kandiyohi, Kittson, Nobles, Redwood, St. Louis and Wilkin.

Award of contracts for 19 highway construction and improvement jobs in 12 counties, including installation of 15 automatic electric railroad crossing signals, has been announced by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. The contracts total $163,362. Counties in which the work will be done are Anoka, Becker, Chippewa, Meeker, Ramsey, Rice, St. Louis, Scott, Sherburne, Stearns, Wilkin and Morrison.

OIL HEATING RIG FIRE THREATENS WHOLE TOWN

Cokato. The Village of Cokato was the scene of an unusual fire the other morning when an oil heating rig used by street workmen caught fire, throwing black smoke and flames high overhead. The fire reached oil that lay on the street and caught into building material that lay nearby where men were working. Water from the booster tank of the first truck, chemicals and shovelsful of sand were thrown on the flames, but the fire was not put out completely until firemen had it under control sufficiently to thrust a fire extinguisher into the oil pot. The fire started as the oil boiled and ignited.

WPA TO CONTINUE WORKS PROJECTS; NEW REGULATIONS

Maximum Earnings to Remain at Approximately $44 a Month

WPA projects in the seventh district continued in operation this week under the new program, which in most essentials is unchanged from the procedure followed prior to June 30. Adoption of prevailing rates of wages and the new method of certification for WPA work were announced this week by Victor Christgau in official communications received by Mearle Webb, WPA area engineer for Pennington County, through the Detroit Lakes office of J. H. Kovarik, district director.

Details of the new WPA program were made public on July 1 when Mr. Christgau issued statements to the newspapers and spoke twice over the radio. Emphasized in the administrator's announcements was the fact that the new law providing for the continuation of the work program at prevailing wages, does not change the maximum monthly earnings. In the towns, villages and rural sections of this county, this remains at approximately $44 per month. Inasmuch as new regulations retain the same maximum monthly wages, the only effect of the new pay schedule is to reduce slightly the total time that workers will put in each month.

Jim Farley Will Leave Cabinet for Campaign

James A. Farley, under an arrangement announced Tuesday by President Roosevelt, will take a payless leave of absence and relinquish active command of the postoffice department August 1 to devote his entire time until after the election to an effort to keep the New Deal in power. Thus was answered, for the time being at least, the months-old question raised by critics who objected to Farley being postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee at the same time.

Robert Taylor, Loretta Young at Avalon Sunday

Two popular stars, Robert Taylor and Loretta Young, are featured in "Private Number", which will be the offering at the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday. Also included in the cast of the comedy-drama are Patsy Kelly, Basil Rathbone and Marjorie Gateson. Thursday and Friday evenings the Avalon will present the official motion picture record of the twelve-round fight in New York city June 19 when Max Schmeling scored an upset victory over Joe Louis.

A man seldom reaches heights above his habitual thoughts. It is he who aspires to high things that achieves high things.

Monkey Business at Pennington County Fair

Along with the many shows, attractions and rides to be brought to the Pennington county fair, which opens, July 28, is a mammoth dog, pony and monkey hippodrome or circus, under the direction of Don Carlos, one of the greatest and best known domestic animal trainers in this part of the world, which will appeal to the little folks, or children.

Something like 19 monkeys, 15 trained dogs, 6 shetland ponies and high school horses are used in this pleasing performance that also furnishes clean and wholesome entertainment and diversion for the grownups; especially the Monkey Hotel presentation put on entirely by the monkeys and dogs, without a single human being on the stage to give cues or to direct the animals in their acting of this pantomime skit.

The Hennies brothers have not forgotten the children or women folks when contracting for shows and attractions, and several other besides the money hippodrome are especially presented for the fair sex and the children, and from press notices that this show company received during their dates this spring in many northern cities, the midway of the county fair this year will be really worth while.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. Working

Pioneer Norwegian Woman

We offer here today a study of a pioneer immigrant woman, not only for the human interest in which it is so rich, but also for the reason that we believe her story to be typical at least of the best and most valuable immigrant women of the settlement period in the northwest.

No matter where in the northwest, or in what part of Minnesota or North Dakota she might have lived, her experiences in America would have been just the same. But we desire most to present her background on which was predicated her service to society in the land of her adoption. The sketch was written by a son of the immigrant wife and mother and we present parts of it:

"Marit Iversdatter was born the daughter of a blacksmith, who died when she was a very young girl. She was early accustomed to do a man's work on the farm and for a time before her marriage worked as a dairy maid or "budeje" on some of the largest gaards or farms in Vestre Slidre (in which district of Norway she was born), such as Fossem and Fare. There she received higher wages than most men, being paid 18 and even as high as 20 dollars (specie daler), together with certain working clothes, for 12 months' labor."

Now this information proves that this girl was capable above the average and that she was energetic. Certainly she was a prize as a wife, especially for a young and ambitious immigrant who sought to make his way in the new world. When we take into consideration the difference in customs and social values that existed when she was a girl in Norway, we realize that such achievements as are credited to her there are truly remarkable. Her record proves, too, that the best of the peasant stock came to this country, since the same ambition and competence that caused them to get ahead in their home land prompted them to come to America. Invariably, the less capable ones preferred to remain at home, not wishing to risk the possibility of being forced to depend solely on their own efforts with no relatives or friends on whom they might rely. So far as we know, however, there were few of this kind in Norway. We read further about Marit's life in Norway.

"She had many girls working under her as "undebudeje", who, however were not treated so lavishly in the matter of compensation as Marit, some working for as little as their keep. She received only enough schooling to pass her for the conventional confirmation in the church, which did not include the 'more genteel art of writing', that being thought at the time superfluous for girls."

But Marit was well endowed and equipped in other ways, as we learn from the sketch. Her qualifications were ideal for her mission in life which was to help lay the foundations for community life in the great, new northwest. The son tells us:

"She was a woman of strong body as well as mind, schooled in the greatest frugality and taught to look upon work as the open sesame that would unlock the door to the wealth of the world."

While society ladies might not consider these qualifications as the most desirable, still, we know that health and strength and sound, wholesome thoughts as well as bodies are essential to the preservation of the human race and the maintenance of civilization.

But Marit Iversdatter was born a long time ago—back in 1824 and she was a middle-aged woman, married 15 years and the mother of seven children when she set sail with her husband and the children for America in 1867. In the 15 years of their married life in Norway the couple lived on the "plad" (hillside) named Bakken. We may assume that their life there was not especially desirable, although it is probable that they could have attended to a comfortable competence if they had remained there. However, they elected to come to America. They undoubtedly had heard a great deal about the new country, particularly the great northwest. Already many Scandinavians had come to Minnesota, although North Dakota still was unsettled.

It was on a bright June day in 1867 that the bewildered family arrived at Rushford in Fillmore county, Minnesota, after their long tiresome journey across the rough Atlantic on a sailing vessel. But they soon became oriented and were at work laying the foundations for their fortune in America. But they were to meet with many trials and disappointments and were to approach despair many times before their efforts were rewarded in a modest degree. We may be able to tell the rest of the story sometime later.

Tall Tales

As told to: FRANK E. HAGAN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Unfinished Story

CHARLES M. WALKER tells tall tales because of silent hours with feeding sheep in the Big Horn mountains of Wyoming. But, strangely enough, his favorite yarn concerns the heart of Chicago instead of the great open spaces.

"In 1928," Charlie tells, "downtown Chicago had numerous banks and many bank vice presidents. Despite their numbers, however, some of the latter were obsessed of self-importance. One of these I recall.

"He lived fashionably on the north shore, commuting daily to the loop. One crisp morning he discovered the family cat dead at his back door. It was only 18 paces to a small garden but the banker revolted at being seen burying a cat. He wrapped the carcass in oiled paper, intending to cast it into the Chicago river which he always crossed downtown.

"Two friends joined him at the river's edge, which meant that the parcel was cached in an empty safe deposit box at the bank.

"Homeward bound, the banker retrieved his demised animal, planning quick interment on recrossing the river. Once again, however, friends accompanied him. He boarded a crowded train, placed his ghastly parcel in a luggage rack.

"At his station, the banker seized a brown-paper parcel and bolted. Swallowing pride, he decided on burial in the garden. But when he opened the parcel there was revealed a T-bone steak which an unknown but soon-to-be-shocked commuter had selected."

BIG EGG IS 8 INCHES LONG

Sauk Rapids.—An ostrich just might possibly have snuck onto the Charles Schafer farm east of Sauk Rapids the other day and laid that huge egg that Mrs. Schafer found. But no ostrich feathers nor ostrich tracks were found, so the Schafers are crediting it to one of their White Rock hens. The big egg, 7 inches around and 8 inches long, was on display in Sauk Rapids for a time and given a grand opening on a Saturday night.

2 MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

SECOND HISTORY PAGEANT AT STATE PARK ON SUNDAY

28 Boy Scouts From Oslo, Norway, to be Guests of Honor

Packed with drama—strange, potent and fantastic—the second Minnesota Historical pageant will be shown next Sunday, July 12, at Itasca State Park before an anticipated audience of 2,500, with 28 Boy Scouts from Oslo, Norway, guests of honor.

Early Indian rituals, rich with the lore of spirits and the magic of the medicine man, will enthrall the boys from the land of the Vikings who have heretofore known about redskins only thru their history books. Norway's part in the settlement and development of Minnesota will be aptly illustrated in five dramatic episodes tracing the early history of the North Star state.

According to H. Z. Mitchell, publisher of the Bemidji Pioneer, and pageant publicity director, the boys from Oslo will get "a history lesson in capsule form" when they witness the pageant cast in scenes relating to the coming of the Jesuit and Franciscan fathers to the Lake Superior region, Father Hennepin's journey, and encounters with the Sioux. Early mission days near Lac qui Parle, the Fond du Lac post, the romantic and famous Boutwell-Crooks wedding, the scene at Leech lake where Reverend Boutwell saved Nicollet from a band of marauding Indians—all will be enacted in detail faithful to history for the boys who have traveled 4,500 miles from the Land of the Midnight Sun to the Land of 10,000 Lakes.

In a check-up of automobiles at the pageant grounds for the season's first presentation, June 28, 70 cars representing 18 different states were present, Earle A. Barker, president, Northwestern Minnesota Historical association, which in cooperation with the Minnesota Conservation department is staging the pageants, reported to the Minnesota Tourist bureau.

Minnesota Farmers to Save $590,000 Interest During the Coming Year

Minnesota farmers will save more than $590,000 during the next year in interest on land bank loans now outstanding through the continuance of the 3½ per cent rate by act of congress which was approved June 25, it was learned this week from the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul.

This same rate will also affect new as well as old land bank loans made through national farm loan associations and apply to all interest payments coming due before July 1, 1937. The 3½ per cent rate which was enacted more than a year ago as a benefit to offset some of the adversities under which agriculture had been operating, was to have expired on June 30 this year.

Under the law as amended the special reduced rate is extended one year, after which time all loans will be returned to the interest rate at which they were written, as the law does not change the contract rate, but operates only as a temporary reduction.

Farm Bureau Membership Reaches New High Point

With the Minnesota Farm Bureau membership at the highest point it has ever held at mid-year, 20,008 paid-up farm families, the membership campaign continues with the goal of at least a 20 per cent sign-up in sight in a majority of counties. Lake of the Woods county, on the Canadian border, holds the highest percentage record, with more than 40 percent signed up. Faribault county, on the Iowa line, has the largest numerical strength, with 971, or one out of 3 farm families signed.

LIGHTNING BURN MATTRESS SLEEPERS ARE UNINJURED

St. James.—Although lightning struck their bed and set fire to the mattress on which they were sleeping, Oscar Sorenson and his small daughter escaped uninjured. The occurrence happened early on a Sunday morning at their home near St. James. Lightning struck a tree near their bedroom window, was shunted through the window and played around the bedstead and through the mattress on which they were lying. They were awakened by the crash of thunder which followed. Although somewhat shocked and stunned by the event, Mr. Sorenson carried his daughter to safety, called the St. James fire department and then carried water up from the basement and had the blaze extinguished before the firemen arrived.

CROPS AND SOILS DAY NEXT MONDAY AT N. W. SCHOOL

Potato Experimental Plots Will be Featured at Demonstration

Potato experimental projects will be featured on Crops and Soils Day Monday, July 13, at the Northwest School and Station, Crookston. Potato growers from the Red River Valley counties will see the new varieties produced by the Minnesota station, such as Warba, Red Warba, and Selection 35-26, also increase fields of Chippewa and Katahdin, new varieties from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Plots showing whole versus cut seed planted at different spacings, treated versus untreated seed planted at different depths, dust versus wet sprays for insect and disease control, commercial fertilizing trials and disease transmission and control will be on display during the day.

Horticultural work, including potato and sugar beet investigations, will be explained by T. M. McCall, station horticulturist. The plots relating to field crops and soils will be explained by R. S. Dunham, station agronomist, while pure seed plots of wheat, oats, barley and flax will be discussed by E. R. Clark, pure seed specialist.

A number of new wheat varieties have been produced, some of which appear to have certain advantages over Thatcher. A new hull-less oats has so far proved immune to smut and has yielded exceptionally well. Other crops will be shown under actual field conditions.

Pure seed growers, farmers and community clubs are invited to visit the Station on Crops and Soils Day. A special program will be arranged for the women and for the boys and girls.

The Crops and Soils Day program will be held under the auspices of the Red River Valley Crops and Soils association of which Herman Skyberg, Fisher is president; Melvin Flaskerud, Foston, vice president; R. S. Dunham, secretary; and S. M. Sivertson, treasurer.

Regents Will Inspect Northwest School at Crookston This Week

Minneapolis, July—Part of the proof that the University of Minnesota reaches and serves every district of the state is found in the outlying schools and experiment stations of agriculture, which the Board of Regents view as important and valuable items in the institution's program of education and research.

To better acquaint themselves with these schools the members of the board make periodical visits to them. Although in the past these visits have usually been made in the winter, when the schools were in session, a visit this year will be made in mid-summer when agricultural activities on the experiment stations are at their height.

Leaving Minneapolis today, the regents and university administrative officers will spend three days visiting and inspecting the schools and stations, their route going first to the West Central School and Station at Morris, thence to the Northwest School and Station at Crookston, and via Itasca Park Forestry station to the North Central School and Station in Grand Rapids. From there the tour will go to Duluth, where there is the Northeast Experiment Station, and back to the twin cities by way of the Forest Experiment Station at Cloquet.

Poultry Diseases May be Checked if Chicks Are Put on New Ranges

Many common poultry diseases and parasites may be controlled or held in check by moving the growing chicks on to new ranges each year. According to A. M. Pilkey, Northwest School and Station poultryman, infested soil should be plowed and cropped for at least three years before it is again used as a poultry range. The colony houses should be thoroughly cleaned before moved on to the cleaned range. The latter should be well drained and seeded to some appropriate green crop, such as alfalfa.

Mr. Pilkey emphasizes the importance of providing ample floor space in the brooder to prevent overcrowding. For young chicks, one square foot of floor space for three chicks will be sufficient, and not over 300 chicks should be kept under one brooder. At four weeks of age, the cockerel should be removed and roosting space doubled for the pullets by the time they are six weeks old. At ten weeks of age, the space should again be doubled. Pullets will do better if divided into flocks of from one to three hundred birds each than if allowed to range in large numbers. One acre will supply sufficient forage for about 300 pullets.

CHICK HAS ONE LEG ON ONE SIDE, 3 ON OTHER

Ivanhoe.—A four-legged chicken made its appearance at the Fritz Hatchery at Ivanhoe a few days ago and is now a healthy and thriving young chick. The bird, which is of the Black Giant variety, had three legs sprouting from its body on the left side with a perfectly normal leg on the right side. The three legs on the left are not all fully developed, but are perfectly formed. Most of the work of standing, running, and hopping is left to the right leg but the young chick is none the worse for this handicap.

Ruton's Dogs to be Feature of County Fair July 28 to 31

Originality is the keynote in show business, and it extends to the outdoor stage as well as the theatre. Without it, there's little chance these days to win public favor.

Not only has the public accepted Ruton's Dogs, coming to the Pennington county fair July 28 to 31, as an unusual act, but the most original novelty to come from this field of show business in some time. Eddie Ruton spends months, even years, to perfect a difficult feature trick. His little star, "Fuzzy" does one that amazes all who see it when he performs a perfect "hand stand" with just one of his paws resting on Ruton's thumb. Another good trick now accomplished, one that Ruton himself doubted he ever would perfect, has two dogs walking the wire from opposite directions. In order to pass each other on the wire, one of the dogs must climb over the other without losing his footing.

As a sensational feature of the act, Ruton presents his high-diving dog; a leap from a 40 foot high pedestal to a blanket held for him to land in.

One of the best all around performers in the act was rescued from a dog pound in Ft. Worth when Ruton paid 75c for his release. Mongrels often show more intelligence in learning tricks than do the thoroughbreds, according to Ruton.

Comedy is interspersed in the Ruton act, and the children especially will laugh loud and long at some of the funny stunts.

PLUMMER

On July 1st, Hilaire's fast base ball team defeated the Plummer nine by a score of 7-2. The Plummer lads were unable to solve the masterful pitching of Almquist, St. Hilaire's rookie pitcher, inning after inning the Plummer team went down before the offering of this pitcher while St. Hilaire roped three Plummer hurlers for 14 hits.

With the score tied at 2 all in the first of the 9th Thief River combined a walk, an error, and three hits to score three runs and annex their sixth consecutive league victory. Thief River took a 1-0 lead in the second and made it two to nothing in the third. Plummer tied in the 4th on two hits and an infield out. Cryptography Is Old

Cryptography is of the greatest antiquity. Plutarch and Gellius tell of a method employed in Sparta for communicating with their generals abroad. The earliest system was the winding of a strip of parchment spirally upon a staff with the edges meeting. The message was then written along the line of jointure. The broken lines could only be read afterward by rolling the parchment upon a duplicate staff in the possession of one who knew the precise size. There are a great many other cryptograms. The Jews made one of them. See Jeremiah 25. Julius Caesar and Augustus made frequent use of them.

Women of Nigeria

The work of missionaries among the women and girls of Nigeria is more difficult than among the men and boys. This is probably due to the fact that the boys are more ambitious. The women seem satisfied to follow their husbands, which is not to be wondered at when for generations they have been the property of the men.

Tall Tales

The Duel That Failed

O. S. CLARK of Attica, Ind., went to the Texas Panhandle when it was wild and woolly. There he met Clay Allison, a famous gunfighter who told him about the strangest duel he'd ever seen. It was between two frontiersmen who didn't like the color of each other's hair. So they agreed to fight it out with long rifles—stand back to back, then each take ten long steps, turn and fire.

The duel began. Each with his right eye drew a bead on the other's left eye—it wasn't sportsmanlike to shoot out the other man's right eye and thus spoil his aim. They fired at the same instant but neither bullet took effect.

They shot a second time—a third—a fourth—and a fifth. Still nothing happened. In fact they kept shooting until each man had used up 20 cartridges. "There's something spooky about this," said one. "Shore is!" said the other. "Maybe we ain't supposed to kill each other."

"Reckon we'd better call it off and shake hands," suggested the first. "Suits me!" said the second.

They started toward each other each one taking ten long steps so they would meet face to face where they had parted back to back. As they met and clasped hands one exclaimed "Ouch! Something's burnin' through my boot!"

They looked down. There on the ground was a pile of melted lead. The mystery of the bullets that failed to kill was solved. So accurate had been their aim that their bullets had met midway with such terrific force that they melted each other and dropped to the ground. Clay said he knew it was true because he saw the place on the ground where the melted lead had been and there wasn't a speck of grass growing there.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

Governor Olson, in addressing the Swedish Mid-Summer celebration held at Minnehaha park, Minneapolis, was not afraid to say that the people of Sweden have done a better economic job than have the people of the United States, and that the living standard of the masses, despite the limited resources of the country, is higher than in this country.

To say a thing like this, even though it may be the truth, is nothing short of sacrilege to the so-called 100 per cent patrioteer. Failure on our part, however, to recognize these facts is one of the barriers to social and economic progress.

Here is something from the Governor's speech which is food for thought: "We may call what they have done in Sweden socialism, or co-operation, or anything else, but they are not so doctrinaire about it. They merely go about solving public problems in the most practicable and thorough way, and as long as it does the job effectively and benefits the people, they care very little what name or ism you apply to it."

Harry Hopkins, National WPA Director, in his interview with the press in St. Paul declared that the government owes an obligation to the farmers to aid them in their present distress, as it owed an obligation to all citizens to aid them in time of need. "We are not giving them a gift," he said, "nor are we doing anything for the people that is outside the sphere of ordinary governmental activity. The people are entitled to the aid of the government, as the government is entitled to the aid of the people."

He added that the Federal government was ready to take all steps needed not only to furnish work to people in the drouth-stricken districts, but to aid in the feeding and marketing of livestock, to furnish direct relief to those unable to work, and to rehabilitate families within this territory.

One of the most encouraging features of Mr. Hopkins' plan is that the work projects are to be of permanent benefit to the communities effected.

We might contrast this policy with the philosophy of Hooverism and the public pronouncements of Landon and Knox that local communities should take care of their own needy.

Teachers throughout the state are complaining that school boards in many counties are refusing to renew contracts of teachers who have joined unions within the last year or are suspected of union activity. Such action is particularly un-American and in striking contrast to the cooperation existing between school boards and teachers in days past.

The farmer got only 20 cents out of the consumer's meat dollar in 1934 as compared to 58 cents in 1926, according to an investigation made by Farm Research, Inc.

There has been a general drop in the farmers income all along the line. What holds true in the case of meats is substantially true of vegetables and other agricultural products.

The greatest loss sustained by the farmer on meat products was in the case of mutton and lamb. In 1934 the farmers got 34 cents out of each consumer's dollar while in 1926 he received 65 cents. This represents a decline of nearly 50 per cent.

The farmer is still on the toboggan downward notwithstanding the efforts made by the Roosevelt administration to bolster up the agricultural industry.

Development of alternate routes to relieve congested trunk highways of some of the traffic is one of the things gradually being accomplished by Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg.

As an example, the narrow dangerous old pavement between Minneapolis, Elk River and St. Cloud will soon be supplemented by an excellent route on the west side of the Mississippi river. Only the stretch between Champlin and Dayton now remains to be finished before this "safety valve" can be turned over to the public. By going a short distance farther west motorists now can escape the Elk River-Minneapolis congestion and still have a dustless drive by following Trunk Highways 101 and 152. Similar alternate route plans for other congested trunks are being developed but it is a process which requires time to complete.

WOMAN USES 48 YEAR OLD PRESCRIPTION

Anoka.—Following the report of a bottle in use 81 years, inquiries were set on foot in Anoka to discover whether anyone had a prescription still in use that was over 50 years old. Wallace Gow brought to light a prescription 48 years old that has been refilled several times, once quite recently. It was written by Dr. A. E. Giddings, pioneer Anoka physician, July 21, 1888, for Mrs. Paul Paulson. The age of the prescription is especially remarkable because many medicines in use 50 years ago are obsolete today.

Gods Invited Out

In early Roman days when a Roman general sat down before a city to besiege it, the priests used to invite the guardian gods of the enemy city to leave it and come over to the Roman side, assuring the gods that they would get better treatment and much more respect by the Romans if they did so.

Rain, Rain, Rain seems to be the request on every tongue, but from reports coming elsewhere this particular territory has had more than its just share. Over half an inch fell last Sunday, and the following Tuesday for about three quarters of an hour a full inch of moisture moistened the ground. Some hail fell and north east of town some little damage was done, the the needed moisture coming therewith well repaid itself. At present writing the weather is extremely hot, rain is very welcome with crops in excellent shape. The tame hay is fine but not much wild hay is looked for.

The Fourth of July for this year has come and gone but as for this little village not much of a stir was created. The picnic at the Holbrook Farm given under the auspices of the St. Petri Congregation was well patronized and the church realized a neat sum for its treasury. A number of people drove to Gatzke where the local baseball team played ball, we should have said played at it. The score to the Gatzke fans was very satisfactory but from a Grygla standpoint very disappointing. However the hospitality accorded by our good neighbors well compensated for the trip over. In the evening a number of barn dances were given around the country with a good attendance at all.

H. E. Farmer arrived from Brooklyn, New York on Thursday evening to spend his annual 6 months vacation looking after his many interests here.

Many School Districts Plan to Continue Economy Coming Year

Annual school meetings in Minnesota will be held July 21, the third Tuesday of the month, when all common and independent districts will hold the voting at 7 P. M. unless the time has been changed at a previous meeting of the school board. At these meetings, officers of districts are to be elected for the ensuing term, and school levies for the school year will be made.

Preceding the elections, an interesting statement has been prepared by the Minnesota Taxpayers Association pointing out to school boards the importance of providing equal educational opportunities for every child and at the same time keeping an ever watchful eye on education costs.

The statement shows that total public school expenditures, including both state and local units, for the previous year approximate $40,000,000. This is a decrease of approximately $3,000,000 from school expenditures in a year's time.

It is interesting to note that the state is now contributing an increasing share toward local school costs. The state's annual contribution was recently placed at $12,300,000, or 30.6 per cent of the total. This compares with 24.7 per cent in 1933; 22.2 per cent in 1932; and 19.8 per cent in 1931.

While the local school levies made at the coming annual meetings is assessed entirely against general property, the state's share of the school burden comes largely from three state funds: (1) Permanent school trust fund; (2) state one mill tax; (3) special state aid appropriations from the general revenue fund secured thru property taxation and from other sources. In addition to the above, the revenue from the state income tax is allocated to school districts for the purpose of alleviating, to a certain degree, the local school levy on general property.

Andrew Boss, Pioneer at University Farm, Retires

DR. ANDREW BOSS

Concluding more than 45 years of continuous service to the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment from the post of vice director of the experiment station, which he has held since 1917. With his daughter, Mabel, he will sail July 29 for Scotland to become acquainted with the homeland of his forefathers, and to attend the International Conference of Agricultural Economists at Dunblane. It was Professor Boss who established the first school and college courses in methods of killing, cutting, and curing meats, Minnesota having the first college meat laboratory in America. As a direct outgrowth of Dr. Boss' work, courses in meats are now offered at all agricultural colleges. Some of the country's leading experts in this line were students of Dr. Boss, who wrote the first bulletin on this subject, published by the United States Department of Agriculture as Farmer's Bulletin No. 183.

Professor Boss is also credited with developing the first courses in farm implements and in the handling of grain crops, now standard courses in the curricula of agricultural colleges everywhere.

Dr. Christian G. Hohn, Church Leader, Dies in Crookston Hospital

Dr. Christian G. Hohn of this city, superintendent of the Fergus Falls district of the Methodist Episcopal church, died in a Crookston hospital Thursday after a short illness. He was 58 years old.

A pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Crookston for five years until 1935, Dr. Hohn had served the pulpits of several churches in the Northwest in the past 30 years.

Born in Wurtemberg, Germany, March 28, 1878, Dr. Hohn came to the United States as a child. He was a graduate of Central Wesleyan college in Nebraska and had served as a Methodist pastor in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Charles City, Iowa. He came to Crookston in 1930 as pastor of the church here and served until 1935, when he was appointed to the district superintendency.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Winfred Hohn of Crookston and Rev. Roland Hohn of Minneapolis; a daughter, Kathryn Ellen Beth of Crookston, four brothers, and four sisters.

Funeral services were held Sunday in the Methodist church at Crookston with Rev. Paul Snyder of Crookston and Rev. J. A. Rinkel of St. Paul officiating.

BIG IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM AT STATE FAIR THIS SEASON

Annual Minnesota Exposition Scheduled for Sept. 5-12

The largest physical improvement program in years is under way at the Minnesota State Fair in preparation for the opening of the 1936 Exposition, to be held from September 5 to 12.

New buildings are under construction, auto parking facilities are being greatly enlarged, capacity of grandstand and bleachers is being increased and streets and grounds widened and improved.

Funds with which to carry on the program have been provided by the WPA, by state appropriations made by the State Fair management.

Major improvement is the largest modern Swine and Sheep barn in the world being erected west of the cattle pavilion. It will be completed in time to house the sheep and swine entries for this year's Fair. It is 307 feet by 270 feet of brick, steel and concrete construction and will include hundreds of pens as well as two judging arenas.

The new auto-parking lot will more than double the parking capacity during the 1936 Exposition. Construction of two new steel and concrete bleacher units east and west of the grandstand will improve visibility for spectators who attend races and the night show production.

An exact replica of a Minnesota logging camp is being built on machinery hill by the division of Forestry of the Department of Conservation to be used as a museum for one of the state's former major industries—lumbering. Other changes include a paddock, straightening and widening of several streets, and extensive planting of lawns and flower beds.

Marshall Co. Historical Society Picnic Sunday

The third annual picnic of the Marshall County Historical Society will be held Sunday, July 12th at Thief Lake. This point holds much historic value and also affords a fine place for picnicking. Thief Lake is at present the location of a Civilian Conservation Camp where some 200 recruits are in camp and are at present building a road around the lake.

FOX IN BACK SEAT OF CAR IS BAD PASSENGER

Plainview. —A live fox in the back seat of the car is a highly undesirable passenger two young men from Plainview found recently. Kenneth Johnson, driver of the car, had hit a half grown red fox on the road. Thinking it dead, he picked it up and threw it onto the back seat. The fox was only stunned and bruised, and on arriving in town it was discovered the animal was recovering sufficiently to be quite active. The boys didn't want to turn the animal loose on the streets of Plainview, and were a little doubtful of the results if they attempted to occupy the car with it. The situation was finally solved by maneuvering around to get the fox into a cage, and the animal was taken home by Jess Herron. Removing the animal there it escaped, but a crippled leg prevented it from going far, and it was captured again. Some use for the animal will be found if it recovers, and if not its pelt will be worth something.

Kensington Rune Stone

A decidedly unusual development in anthropological study has developed in Minnesota recently. It pertains to the Kensington rune stone and the immediate activity to which we refer may be traced, we believe, to two influences. One is the work done in recent years by Dr. A. E. Jenks, head of archeological department of the University of Minnesota and his student crews in northern Minnesota counties and the other is revived interest in early history and earlier periods that may be traced to the PWA historical projects.

Specifically, the most recent stimulation with relation to the Kensington rune stone probably is attributable to an article in the current issue of Minnesota History, the quarterly published by the Minnesota Historical society. The article we refer to is a sort of rebuttal paper submitted by Hjalmar R. Holand of Ephraim, Wis. In an earlier article Mr. Holand had marshalled many facts and deductions in support of his claim that the rune stone is genuine and the last article replies to criticisms of his claims presented in a paper in the March issue of Minnesota History.

Now an outstanding fact brought out by Mr. Holand and one known perhaps to very few readers of this column is that collateral finds tends to strengthen the claims as to the genuineness of the Kensington rune stone. In view of the remote possibility that there may be one or two readers who do not know the story of the Kensington rune stone, we shall explain that a sort of stone tablet was found on a farm near Kensington, Minn., in 1898, the stone bearing an inscription in ancient Norse script which indicated that a party of Viking adventurers had left the stone there in 1362, having entered the region by way of Hudson bay. Since then controversies have raged about the authenticity of claims for it. Learned scholars have analysed the inscription in detail and have branded it as a hoax. But they never have been able to offer conclusive proof of their assertions and other equally learned scientists say the stone is genuine.

This brings us up to date and to the most recent summations relative to the famed rune stone. Mr. Holand in the current article quotes a letter received from Ole Jevning, a pioneer of the Climax, Minn., community. Although the letter was written in 1914, we are sure that relatively few people know of its existence. Here is the letter:

"I have your letter concerning the fire steel which I found. I settled here in June, 1971, and we were the first to take land around here. A short time after I settled here, I was boring holes with a six inch post-hole auger. When I got down about two feet I heard something scrape against the auger and I pulled it up thinking I had struck a stone. The first clung to the auger and I examined it looking for the stone and found the little fire steel.

"It was much rusted and there were also some charcoal and ashes. It must have been there a long time because the place where this hole was bored was on a dry elevation. The fire steel is just the same size and form as the fire steels my grandmother used 65 or 68 years ago."

A fire steel was a small piece of steel used to strike sparks in making a fire, just as flint was used. Although they were used much later than the date on the rune stone, a report from the University Museum at Oslo, Norway, says that the fire steel found by Mr. Jevning is identical to those found in graves of the Viking age in Norway, which is a significant fact in itself.

Then Mr. Holand cites the findings of a battle ax and spears in the state, which have been also classed as products of the Viking age in further support of his contention. The writer is inclined to accept the rune stone as genuine on Mr. Holand's findings and to reject the claims as to its spuriousness on the ground that they are not well founded and are unconvincing.

But what we are most interested in is the possibility of further discoveries which shall clinch the claims as to the genuineness of the Kensington rune stone and perhaps furnish evidence of other very early exploration trips into the state. We learn with keen interest that Dr. Jenks has launched a summer exploration program which will cause his workers to spend some time in Kittson county. Perhaps they may visit this section in search of tangible evidence of the presence of Europeans here centuries ago.

The subject certainly is fascinating and should interest all students, regardless of age or status. We hope to be able to present accounts of further discoveries in this column a few months from now.

WPA DIRECTOR IN STATE GUEST HERE THURSDAY

Victor Christgau and Party Present at C. and C. Meeting

BYE GIVES REPORT ON WATER MEETING

Committee to Make Plans for Tour to Advertise County Fair

Victor Christgau, state director of the Works Progress administration, and a group of WPA officials were guests of the Civic and Commerce association following its luncheon last Thursday noon. Included in the party were L. C. Glotzbach, field representative in the St. Paul office; J. H. Kovarik, director of the district office at Detroit Lakes; Frank Plut, district engineer; Nils Jahren, district information agent; and R. J. Moody, supervisor of dams with the state department of conservation.

Mr. Christgau briefly addressed the meeting, telling of the huge additional burden that had been placed on his organization as a result of the drouth emergency in the northwest. He also cited the accomplishments of the WPA in Minnesota during the past year, including the improvement of 6,000 miles of farm-market roads and 134 projects for additions to school buildings. He said that $30,000,000 had been spent in the state during the fiscal year to provide work for 65,000 persons.

While here the WPA officials confirmed the announcement by Mayor W. W. Prichard of the approval of an additional allotment of WPA funds for the construction of a second floor over the front portion of the enclosed skating rink in this city.

The meeting was presided over by Morris Bye, vice president of the association in the absence of President W. L. Carlisle, and guests included members of the county board, city council, American Legion and Junior Civic and Commerce association.

Mr. Bye, president of the Red Lake River Water Conservation association, submitted a comprehensive report on a meeting of planning boards of northwest states in St. Paul the preceding day, at which proposals were drawn up for submission to President Roosevelt, together with accompanying resolutions calling attention to the existence of a water supply emergency in this and other regions of the northwest. Mr. Bye emphasized that much work will have to be done if the projects are to be brought to realization.

Following a discussion of plans for a tour to neighboring towns to advertise the Pennington county fair, President Carlisle was authorized to appoint a committee of five to arrange for a one-day tour to communities to the north and east of this city. Another committee of three was to be named to arrange a program to be broadcast over Radio Station WDAY shortly to spread the fame of the fair.

Following the meeting Mr. Christgau witnessed the installation of a bronze plaque on the front of the enclosed rink structure calling attention to the fact that it was erected by the city with the cooperation of the Works Progress administration. He also took occasion to praise the excellent construction of the building.

Ind[illegible] Pageant at Smiley Hall Sunday

Director of Pageant

MRS. H. HOLTE
Of Crookston, who will direct the pageant "Indian Life" at the Smiley hall Sunday, is shown wearing tribal regalia.

Powwow in Afternoon Will Precede Performance in Evening

Preceded in the afternoon by an Indian powwow with dances, singing and band music, "Indian Life," a colorful pageant in six acts, written and directed by Mrs. H. Holte of Crookston, will be presented at the Smiley hall next Sunday evening, July 19, at 8 o'clock. A dance will follow the evening performance.

A large group of Indians from the Red Lake and White Earth reservations will participate in the production, assisted by members of the Smiley Community club. Mrs. Holte, state director of Indian welfare, will direct the production.

Depicting the period before the arrival of the white man, the pageant reveals that, while life differed among the various tribes, they were alike in their conception of natural laws, music, arts, ceremonials and dances. It shows the Indian's racial type as one of nature's aristocrats who was called a savage, altho centuries ago the story of his culture was written on pottery and stone and would class him among the civilized people.

The warriors, courageous and efficient, will be seen dancing the war dance and going to battle while the women sing their death song. The pageant will show the chief, as the leader of his tribe, presiding at ceremonials and council fires, while the medicine men in weird attire will depict his position and rites.

The Chippewa and Sioux, traditional enemies and the only tribes now claiming Minnesota as their home, are shown terminating their feud with the burying of the tomahawk and war club and the smoking of the peace pipe. Also shown are the marriages of Winona and Owatonna Indian girls.

The pageant will begin with the call of the tomtoms, and will be interspersed with songs and dances by the group of Indians among whom are some widely known dancers.

SCHOOL BOARD ACCEPTS TWO RESIGNATIONS

Lyle Lanning and Miss Ellen Brooks Accept New Positions

BOARD MONDAY BUYS WINTER COAL SUPPLY

District Kept Well Within Its Budget During Past Year

The board of education of the local school district at its July session Monday evening approved the school calendar for the coming year as submitted by Supt. Morris Bye; opened bids on school furniture and the winter's supply of coal; and accepted the resignations of two faculty members.

The calendar calls for the registration in the office of Principal W. G. Claffy of high school students not registered in May between the period from August 17 to September 5. School sessions will be resumed Monday, September 14, one week later than in past years, while commencement exercises will be held June 11, 1937.

The board accepted the resignation of Lyle R. Lanning, commercial instructor in Lincoln high school for the past eight years. He had asked to be released from his contract in order to accept a similar position in the Owatonna high school at a substantial increase in salary. Also accepted was the resignation of Miss M. Ellen Brooks, second grade teacher in the Knox school, who will teach the coming year in the Austin public schools.

The contract to provide 225 tons of screenings for the coming winter was awarded to the O'Hara Fuel & Ice company on its bid of $7.75 a ton, while the Central Lumber company was awarded the contract to supply 200 tons of Youghiogheny dock run at $8.05 and fifty tons of Pocahontas dock run at $9.55 a ton.

The bid of the Northern School Supply company, thru the agency of Arthur Hamilton, was accepted to furnish 26 typewriter tables at $6.30 each, two teachers' desks at $25, thirty steel chairs at $3.40, twelve rear desks at $3.40 and one school scale at $28.15.

Mr. Bye reported that the school district had kept within the budget adopted at the beginning of the past school year. The amount set up for current expense in the budget was $95,881 of which $93,853.32 was spent, leaving a balance of $2,027.68. The budget for capital outlay was set at $1,900 and the amount spent was $1,665.48, leaving a balance of $234.52. The sum of $28,2[illegible] set aside for debt service was the exact amount spent for that purpose.

Mr. Bye stated that owing largely to the unprecedentedly cold weather last winter the district spent $651.31 more for fuel than had been anticipated. This, however, was offset by credit balances in a majority of the other individual items in the budget.

Fast Battery Enables Old-Timers to Defeat City Team Last Friday

Old timers, plus the services of battery Orvalla and Lee, defeated the regular city team, minus Orvalla-Lee, by a score of 11 to 3 at the fair grounds Friday evening. Fifteen strike outs for Orvalla in the seven innings played accounts for the low scoring of the regulars. Two infield hits that were converted into home runs indicated what might have been had the regulars been up against a less resourceful pitcher. At the bat more credit is due the old timers, most of the eleven runs what they pounded in being earned.

To Check on Payments to Aged Persons Here

County Board This Week Appoints Cass Co. Man as Investigator

In an effort to check the mounting cost of old-age assistance payments in Pennington county, the county board at its July session this week engaged John Lynsky of Walker to serve as investigator of payments to present and future beneficiaries. Mr. Lynsky, who has been doing similar work in Cass county, is expected to assume his duties here Monday. The county's share of old-age assistance payments now aggregates approximately $1,500 a month, a steady rise having taken place since the system was inaugurated last spring.

Largely because of the addition of these payments to county expenditures, the board found it necessary to raise the county budget for the coming year from $101,000 this year to $114,662.50 in 1937. The increase would have been still greater had not the board taken $7,000 from the road and bridge fund and made other minor reductions in an attempt to hold the increase in the total budget to a reasonable figure. A detailed statement of the budget figures had not been completed by County Auditor A. M. Senstad in time to be included in this issue.

Other business transacted by the board included action on a number of applications for tax abatements, and the appropriation of the sum of $400 to the county fair.

LOCAL TAXI MAN 'TAKEN FOR RIDE' TUESDAY NIGHT

Henry Bornholt Forced to Transport Pair to Grand Rapids

Being "taken for a ride" in his own vehicle was the experience late Tuesday night of Henry Bornholt, local taxicab operator stationed at the Soo cafe. He picked up two strangers on LaBree av. near Second st. shortly after midnight when the pair had engaged him to drive them to Greenbush, paying the fare in advance.

However, when Bornholt had taken them as far as the Soo Line junction north of the city, the two passengers, flourishing guns, ordered him to turn south and head for Grand Rapids at high speed. The driver obeyed orders and made the trip without incident except that near Red Lake Falls the pair took the money they had paid him and used it to buy gasoline.

Running out of gasoline when within eight miles of Grand Rapids, the passengers pushed the vehicle across the road and, with the threat of their guns, commandeered another car in which two men were riding, and rode toward Grand Rapids with them.

Bornholt made his way into Grand Rapids and notified authorities there before returning to this city Wednesday morning. No word of the capture of the desperadoes had been received up to last night.

COUNCIL GETS NEW ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE

Proposed Ordinance Fixing Lower Rates Is Given First Reading

$15,000 IN BUILDING PERMITS APPROVED

Third Ward Residents Urge Action to End Sewage Odor Nuisance

A definite step toward putting into effect a lower scale of rates for electric current in Thief River Falls was taken by the city council Tuesday evening when a proposed rate ordinance was given its first reading. Other business transacted at the lengthy session included the approval of approximately $15,000 in building permits, mostly for residence construction and remodeling, and the purchase of 42 light standards and cable to extend the white way in the business district of the city.

Another important matter was brought before the council when a large delegation of residents in the third ward insisted that immediate action be taken to end the sewage odor nuisance in the south portion of the city, the stench having been particularly noticeable during the recent hot weather.

Harry Roberts, a spokesman for the group, stated that the matter had been hanging fire for six years, and that recently resolutions protesting the situation were sent in to the state board of health. Council President Emil Griebstein informed the delegation that E. L. Lium, consulting engineer of Grand Forks, would be in this city Friday to confer with the council as to the possibility of securing a PWA grant to aid in financing a sewage treatment plant, and further action was delayed until that time.

The electricity rate ordinance, which was given its first reading, provides for the establishment of a one-meter system with considerably lower rates in most brackets and a continuation of the present discount. Proposed rates for domestic current are eight cents for the first 25 kilowatts, seven cents for the next 25, and 2½ cents for all in excess of this amount.

The rate for commercial purposes is proposed as eight cents for the first 100 kilowatts, seven cents for the next 200 and six cents for additional current. The power rate calls for five cents for the first 300 kilowatts, four cents for the next 900, three cents for the next 1,500, and 2½ cents for additional current. The commercial heating rate would be retained at 3½ cents as at present. It was indicated that minor changes might be made in the schedule at the time of the second reading of the ordinance.

The fifteen building permits that were approved include T. C. Orme, residence, $3,000; N. A. Holen, residence, $3,000; Herbert J. Meyers, residence, $1,400; O. F. Halldin, residence, $2,500; H. O. Tommerdahl, residence, $1,800; Henry W. Hoard, garage and porch, $200; B. E. Dalquist, store addition, $1,200; Oscar Vignes, garage, $60; Harold F. Harrison, garage, $150; Fred Hanson, remodeling, $150; Carl Anderson, remodeling, $150; L. H. Larson, garage, $750; Judge M. A. Brattland, roof repairs, $150; Roy R. Growing With Your Child

Running Away

By the Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Very little children have of course no idea why they should not run away! Our first problem, then, is to try to remember just how limited the comprehension of the child is. Because he cannot have any conception of the dangers that we realize so well, and because we distinctly do not want to breed in him fear of doing things that will gradually make him self-reliant, we must go about training him to be reliable very carefully.

First of all, let's keep in mind that his powers of inhibiting his behavior are small; his impulses and desires impel him to do what he does, whether he is grabbing a doll from his playmate, or running down the street when he sees an unusual and interesting sight. Until he attains some power of disciplining himself, then, it is unfair to leave him where he will be tempted to go. He belongs within a pen or fence unless he can understand the limits beyond which we cannot let him go.

But even after he knows what we mean when we say, "Stay in the yard," his reliability will be greatly affected by other conditions. If the other neighborhood children are allowed to roam as they please, he will unthinkingly run with them when they desert the sandpile for the ice-wagon from which they hope to beg ice to suck. If a child has older brothers and sisters it is hard for him to see them going off and leaving him confined.

But perhaps the most urgent reason why children "run away" is because they are bored with the sameness and monotony of their toys, and of their own company. The most attractive and suitable toys lose interest if they must be played with all alone; the chances are that the so called runaway will be found in the company of other children, if any are available.

Sometimes, of course, it is love of movement and freedom, a spirit of adventure and exploration that sends the three year old toddling off on his own initiative. Some children have a much bigger dose of belief in their own ability than others and we'd hate to cripple it by too much supervision.

What's a constructive plan? First let's be sure we are not making a child too dependent, unable to carry on without our attention. Some mothers still hold their children by the hand when they go out for a walk at the age of four, some insist on taking much humiliated children to and from kindergarten when they are five. We can instill the ground work for caution and self-sufficiency by letting the child, when we are out walking, decide for us when it is time to cross the busy street. He will love the responsibility and feeling of importance. We can give him practise in looking out for himself by giving him errands to do, in the immediate neighborhood. Being trusted to go to the end of the block with a message gives a child a sense of being so "grown up."

If we keep in mind that the habit of staying in the yard must be learned, like any other habit; that we must give a child practise in being self-reliant and careful, if we want to instill those traits, if we watch ourselves to be sure that we are giving opportunities for real progress in ability to manage their own affairs, we are at least avoiding making them feel so resentful of our care and supervision that they will deliberately run away.

Beware of Swimming if Afflicted with Sinus Trouble, Doctors Say

There are people who may hang most of their clothes on a hickory limb but, like the girl in the song, must not go near the water. Members of the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association put people who suffer from sinus trouble or ear infections first on this list.

Even healthy nasal passages are likely to be irritated when water from the lake or swimming pool is forced into them violently as it often is in diving or under water swimming. When the sinuses or passages leading to the ears are already inflamed or diseased, serious damage occurs. Many grave ear and mastoid infections are traced each year to unwise swimming and particularly to swimming under water.

People with head colds are particularly warned to stay out of the water until the trouble clears up.

Swimming is a healthful sport according to the physicians, if it is indulged in intelligently and with sensible recognition of the risks involved.

Even expert swimmers should not make long distance swims alone and without knowledge of anyone who could come to their assistance in case of accident. Neither should they dive into unknown waters where unsuspected rocks or timbers might be in their way. In case of illness of any kind all swimmers should be certain, first, that the trouble will not be aggravated by swimming before they go near the water.

FORMER POSTMASTER IS SERIOUSLY ILL AT HOME

T. P. Anderson, former county auditor and former Thief River Falls postmaster, was reported last night to be in a serious condition, partly as a result of having been overcome by the heat Wednesday.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

The Ninth North W. C. T. U. district convention held June 16 and 17 in the Methodist church at Bemidji, with Mrs. Alice Mae Stuart of Tenstrike, district president, presiding, was a well attended and most enjoyable and harmonious event.

The welcome given by the hostess union of which Mrs. J. R. Veloske is president, and by Mayor Troppman, the Civic and Commerce association, the ministerial group, and by the toastmistress, Miss Telulah Robinson of the state teachers college, was so genuine, and the five point centenary plan so well presented by guest speakers that all delegates and visitors were more than repaid by their attendance. The pleasure of hearing again our beloved Mrs. Harriet G. Northfield, state vice president, was expressed by all and her presence there was an inspiration.

Two state directors were present during the convention, namely Mrs. Ann E. Head of Bemidji, director of institutes, and Mrs. Alma Levins of Crookston, director of international relations for peace. Mrs. Olive Elliot, state director of scientific temperance instruction, was present for the banquet. The pearl medal winner Tuesday evening was Miss Elizabeth Jorde of Thief River Falls.

All officers of the district were reelected and appointments of district directors made. Resolutions were adopted offering assistance in the spiritual awakening of our churches, to the end that their influences for good be more potent; pledging support to all efforts to awaken our citizens to the need of legislation which will guard our communities against forces which will lure our children into paths of vice and delinquency; working to arouse the people against the danger of open drinking places; supporting efforts to enforce laws against gambling; and pledging the group to work unceasingly for peace and to continue to urge the entry of the United States into the World Court, and to support a world league, thru which nations may settle their problems by pacific means.

Greatest Mass Fist Fight

The greatest mass fist fight in history took place in Queretaro, Mexico, in 1531, when the Indians persuaded the invading Spaniards to lay down their arms and knives and fight like men. So the next day at dawn, writes Mrs. C. S. Aiken, New Orleans, La., in Collier's Weekly, thousands lined up on each side and the battle began—and raged for 12 hours before a Spaniard knocked out the last Indian and took over the city in the name of Charles V of Spain.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Anna Augusta Carlson who passed away one year ago today, July 16th, 1935.

A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
Our loss was great, we try not to complain
But trust in God to meet again.
God knows the way,
He holds the key
Some time with fearless eyes we'll see,
And then we'll understand.

Alfred Henry Sandry was born of English parents at Shellsburg, Wis., May 1st, 1848. His father died when Alfred was nine years old and his mother when he was about twenty-three. His brothers and sisters have all preceded him in death except one sister, Mrs. Emily Stout of Nashville, Tenn., who remains to greave his passing along with his family.

A. of Williston, N. Dak., Alfred Raymond of Clear Lake, Iowa, David Dealto of Thief River Falls. His wife Betsy Jane died Aug. 21, 1926.

He lived on his farm in Iowa until the spring of 1902 when he moved to Winfred, S. Dak. In 1906 he moved to Wheelock, N. Dak. and in 1907 he removed to Iowa where he remained until his wife died. Then he went to live with his children and passed away July 9th at the D. D. Sandry home.

GETS THREE DOLLAR WAGER DUE HIM FOR 21 YEARS

Blooming Prairie.—A wager more than a quarter of a century ago while he was a student at the University of Minnesota was collected by a much surprised Ormante Peterson recently at Blooming Prairie. One of the other two men who made the wager with him as to which of their group would be married first, drove up in front of Peterson's car while he was traveling near Blooming Prairie, ordered him to stop, and tossed the money into his lap. Puzzled, Peterson asked the motorist for an explanation, and found it was Edwin Luehr, Spring Grove farmer, who jokingly had made the wager more than 26 years ago. The conscientious farmer had driven 100 miles to clear the small debt. By a strange coincidence, Luehr had picked the 23rd wedding anniversary of Peterson on which to make good his wager. The third student in the wager, Lyle Sloan, Ellendale contractor, paid his three dollar bet at the time of Peterson's marriage 23 years ago. The meeting of Ormanto and Luehr, was the first since they had been in college together, and they settled down to some long reminiscing.

Cites Need of Ridding Minnesota of Wild Mice

A need for a "pied piper" to rid Minnesota of crop consuming and destroying field mice was stressed by Ralph T. King, instructor of entomology and economic Zoology, University Farm, St. Paul, in a recent radio address.

Natural "pied pipers", stated Mr. King, are hawks and owls which for years had been hunted and killed to reduce poultry losses. And while the enemies of the mice were being destroyed, there was no ffort expended to kill the mice by other means.

In stressing his appeal to retain hawks and owls as natural enemies, Mr. King stated that the occasional game bird or chicken taken by predatory birds might be regarded as services rendered in destroying mice.

Protecting these birds is most important when it is considered that the wild mouse population in this region has increased so that they are more abundant than they have been for many years, explained Mr. King, and are doing a serious amount of damage to orchards, shade trees, field crops, hay meadows and forest plantings.

How serious a nuisance wild mice are was illustrated by Mr. King in explaining how 186 of the rodents were taken from a quarter acre of land surrounded by an especially constructed fence which prevented mice from leaving or entering the measured area. On one acre this would give a mouse population of 744.

Priming the pump with the bonus billions did not have as stimulating an effect on business as was expected. Most of the money, apparently, was either used to pay debts or went down into the savings sock. Only a slight merchandise sales acceleration was noted. In other words, needy veterans had little left over when old bills were paid. Those who were not in need did not spend—not as much, anyway, as was expected.

Maintaining diplomatic relations with each other is not an easy matter for governments at the present time. Appointment of a new ambassador to Italy involves a delicate question as to whether or not Victor Emanuel should be recognized as Emperor of Ethiopia. It is situations of this kind that make it advisable to have diplomats in the diplomatic service.

A couple of years ago Postmaster General Farley created a sensation by cancelling a group of air mail contracts, alleging fraud, and promising that prosecutions would follow. Ten army fliers were killed trying to fly the mail in army ships before another set of air mail contracts were approved. But the public has waited in vain for the prosecutions that were to follow. Now it is revealed that the government has secretly paid huge sums of money to companies that Farley denounced and that further payments may be necessary to settle the damages caused by Farley's blunder. And yet there are people who wonder why Farleyism has become an issue in the campaign.

Presentation of an Indian Pageant by the Smiley Community Club is an ambitious project but the Smiley folks have gotten a lot of experience in community entertainment and probably will do their usual good job in staging this program Sunday afternoon. Assure yourself and the family a pleasant outing Sunday by being among those present at this interesting performance.

Next Tuesday is annual school election day and on that day the voters will select the individuals who will manage the most important department of our local government. And this department ranks first in importance in many respects. It is important, of course, because education is important. It is important, too, because it represents the largest single item of public expense. These considerations should mean a large school election vote. But they don't. Most voters seem to take for granted that the affairs of a school district will be well managed no matter who does the managing. When it comes to selecting the individuals who will administer other municipal or county affairs the voters are interested and a large portion of them express their preferences. But school elections are lightly attended. And occasionally, because of an extremely light vote, election results do not properly reflect community opinion. Next Tuesday's elections will not be exciting affairs. They will consist largely of the reading of hum-drum reports. In most cases the reports will be accepted without comment. No fine oratory. No hair raising arguments. No flowery nominating speeches. No interesting discussions of future policies. All of the preliminaries will be conducted with funeral-like precision, following which, those present will form in a view-the-remains column and mournfully mark their ballots. They are ghastly, these school elections, and it perhaps is not strange that they are poorly attended. But they are important, nevertheless. So do your duty. Attend the meeting of your district or for one full year utter not one word of criticism on how your district is being managed.

As had been predicted, the rate revision schedule now being acted upon by the council means only a slight reduction in the cost of electricity. For most of those who have used the cooking rate under the two meter system, the new rate will mean an increase in the cost of current. And from this group of consumers the new rate will bring many complaints. The council either is not aware of the fact that gas is proving increasingly popular for cooking or it must have concluded that the use of electricity should not be encouraged in the city. Well, the new rate is at least a first step. It does eliminate the unfair two meter system and all consumers will now be on the same basis. Perhaps after a month or two of experience with the new rate it will be possible to get a schedule that will compare favorably with other cities of this size. There may come a time when we will have become sufficiently progressive to look upon our light plant as something that should serve the community rather than as a sacred shrine that should be served by the community. Some less backward communities, and even the railroads, have already discovered that lower rates and increased revenues go hand in hand.

The large delegation of southsiders who Tuesday night demanded that the council take immediate action toward providing a more sanitary disposition of city sewage are not making an unreasonable plea. For several years the need for this improvement has been generally recognized. The fact that the bad condition has not already been corrected probably is due to the fact that residents of the south end of town have been too patient. Hope of a return to a normal flow of water in the river and the possibilities of the much discussed government water control project have been the excuses for the delays. But now, apparently, the patience of the residents of that section of the city is exhausted. They want action. And they are entitled to it. It is to be hoped, therefore, that in the interests of the city as a whole, they will continue the drive they have now started, and kick up such a fuss that the problem will get the attention it deserves. If there are any who question the need for this improvement let them drive thru the south end of town any of these warm summer evenings.

ON THE WAY OUT

(Minnesota Mascot)

Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, recently said that the United States was in a process of recovery and gave six reasons why we are emerging from the depression. He says that "as a Republican, I am quite as elated over this fact as if I were an ardent Rooseveltian Democrat."

Stressing the fact that he is interested in keeping clear just why we are in this process of recovery, he gives the following reasons for the fact that we are on the upgrade:

"1. The depression had run its cycle by the summer of 1932.

"2. Mr. Roosevelt performed a miracle of spirit in stirring a dejected and frightened people to new courage by his dynamic inaugural and the sense of action he contrived to give in the first weeks of his administration.

"3. The United States is uniquely rich in resources, the resources of Nature and of human nature.

"4. The swarming majority of Americans whose spirits have not been corroded by satisfaction with subsidy, are hard working folk.

"5. The American system of government is conducive to the release and stimulation of the genius of the people living under it.

"6. The Supreme Court, even if it has left a swarm of valid question marks trailing its decisions, has forced into the discard policies that would tend to twist the American system of government into the superficially attractive but fundamentally suicidal avenues of excessively centralized power which has always ended in tyranny by the state."

While scores of other valid reasons might be brought forth to account for the measure of recovery we have enjoyed so far, these include the most important ones. No single reason or group of reasons, however, can be given for the rise out of the depression. The recovery is due to a combination of all these reasons just as the depression was caused not by a single factor but by the combination of a number of circumstances.

What most people are now interested in is in being able to keep the ground that already has been gained. The people have not been able to build up any appreciable reserve strength during the past few years and are not as able to withstand a setback as they were in the palmy days of 1929. For that reason people are desirous of seeing a recovery that is permanent no matter how slow it may be in arriving.

WORDS MEAN LITTLE

(Mandan Pioneer)

Haile Selassie shouldn't mistake a few friendly, consoling words by European diplomats for promises to fight to put him back on the Ethiopian throne. If he were a good politician, he would know that words are cheap. The promises one relies on have a habit of fading away on election day.

CRIPPLING INDUSTRY

(Sioux Falls Argus-Leader)

The dangerous feature of the growing tax levies is the fashion in which they cripple private expenditures. If the individual paid less to the government, he would have more to spend in the regular channels of trade. A man, for instance, might want to build a concrete driveway. But the government takes so much of his income that he cannot afford to do so. As a consequence, workmen are unemployed and must depend upon relief. So the government spends this money to provide boondoggling jobs. If the individual were allowed to retain it, he would create jobs and in return receive improvements of value to him.

THE COURT ISSUE

(Renville Star Farmer)

The big issue in the presidential election seems to be whether we are to have a dictatorship or a constitutional form of government as we now have. At least, the party in power takes every opportunity to blame all the ills that beset us on the broad shoulders of the nine justices who make up the Supreme Court. One would gather from the arguments of the administration spokesmen that, if we did not have any court of last resort, or in case the majority of the court was composed of administration rubber stamp "yes men," the millenium would be here.

LOTS OF TAXES

(New York Times)

Sixteen per cent, or almost one-sixth of the nation's income, was taken for taxes in the year 1934. That is the national industrial conference board's report. But the reader must not think that it went off as cheerfully as all that. Taxes and expenditures are not the same thing. They may have been once upon a time, but not any more. The taxes collected from American people for 1934 were only something more than half of the government expenditure. The money spent, federal, state and local, was about $17,500,000,000. Taxes collected were less than $9,000,000,000. The remainder was borrowed.

This makes the story all the more exciting. Actually the government expenditure for 1934 was about 26 per cent of the nation's income for that year. Not one dollar in every six earned by the nation, but one in every four was spent by government. Of that government dollar, we the people of the United States now on the scene, had to contribute 60 cents. The other 40 cents will presumably be paid by our children, if they can raise the cash. Mr. Hoover the other night said it would take two generations to pay off our debt.

MISUSED POWER

(Valley City, N. D., Times-Record)

The power of congress to investigate and to compel witnesses to answer may be [illegible] and is probably allowable under the constitution, but it is a power to be sparingly and carefully used. In the hands of men who are immersed every day in partisan politics this power easily becomes a vicious thing, because it tends to become an instrument by which to secure personal advantage in a wholly unfair way. And there are members of congress who seem willing to use it in just that way.

HE UNDERSTANDS IT

That best veteran who gave his bonus bonds to his two small sons because "they'll be the ones who will have to pay them" had a clear understanding of the matter. A lot of Americans today are enjoying money lavishly that will have to be eventually paid by folks yet unborn.

INDIAN "RELICS" PROVE TO BE HOAX OF JOKSTER

Virginia.—Residents of Biwabik and nearby towns are smarting under one of the biggest hoaxes ever pulled on the Range. The mysterious, ancient Indian culture, supposedly representing a life of savages 20,000 years ago, has turned out to be a joke. And red faces are the style where citizens offered big prices for some of the most impressive relics and workers refused to part with their "find" for any amount of money. Superintendent C. E. Hagie from Aurora, who took the lead in tracing back the arrowheads to their "ancient origin," and Professor Jenks of the University who was sufficiently convinced to bring his students back to the site for further study, will come in for some good ribbing. The Indian "relics" were "planted" in the strata by Mike Brennan, formerly of Biwabik, as a practical joke. Leaving Biwabik to live on the Coast, Brennan decided it would be less [illegible] the arrowheads and [illegible] he had bought in Oregon some time back. So he hit upon the [illegible] planting them at [illegible] some fun with some of the boys.

Appear With WLS Barn Dance at Fair July 28

Tom Owens, nationally known caller from Radio Station WLS, Chicago, is bringing one of danceland's most popular bands to the Pennington county fair Tuesday evening, July 28, when the WLS barn dance entertainers make a one night appearance in Thief River Falls.

Featured in the band are Curtis Berits, wizard of the piano accordion; Harold Goodwick and Hiram Wooler, singers; and Al Erickson, the Swedish hill billy, who tickles the ivories in convincing fashion.

The Tom Owens entertainers, in addition to providing the background for the entire WLS road show, put over several specialties that will send fair patrons on their way home with a song in their hearts.

News and Comment

By R. W. Hitchcock

The Minnesota Misleader, in its issue of July 4th, in a box at the top of page 5, reveals the fact that Martin Nelson polled 3,407 votes in his home county, Mower, at the primary election this year, while in 1934 Mr. Nelson polled [illegible] votes. "Strangely," says the Misleader, "no mention of this fact has appeared in any of the republican papers."

On the face of it this looks a lot bad for Martin Nelson, as the Misleader intended it should, but as a matter of fact the Misleader has done Martin Nelson and the republican party in Minnesota a good turn by bringing the matter up. A single vote, such as that quoted by the Misleader, may seem to indicate one thing, but an examination of all the vote often indicates the exact opposite. That is exactly the situation here.

There was a falling off in the primary vote in Mower county from 1934 to 1936. Martin Nelson's vote fell off 22 per cent but Elmer Benson's fell off 66 per cent. Strangely no mention of this fact appeared in the Misleader. The total republican vote for governor fell off this year in Mower county 20 per cent, but the total farmer-labor vote for governor fell off 66 per cent. Strangely no mention of this fact appeared in the Misleader.

Since the Misleader has brought this matter up, let us examine not only the vote of Martin Nelson's home county but the vote, also, of Elmer Benson's home county of Swift, which has been strong farmer-labor territory.

In Swift, Elmer Benson this year, as compared with the vote for Floyd Olson for governor in 1934, lost 37.5 per cent. Martin Nelson, on the other hand, gained [illegible] per cent. Strangely, no mention of this has appeared in farmer-labor papers. In Swift county the total farmer-labor vote for governor this year fell off 27.2 per cent, but the total republican vote for governor increased 12 per cent. Strangely, no mention of this has appeared in farmer-labor papers.

If there is anything else about the primary vote this year that the Misleader would like to have the republicans mention the G. O. P. will be happy to accommodate. There is practically nothing about the June 15, 1936 primary that does not cause the republican to chuckle.

This attempt of the Misleader to create political capital by using a single vote and suppressing all the rest recalls another [illegible] the Misleader dug and then fell into following the 1934 campaign. In big, black type the Misleader exulted that Governor Olson had carried not only Martin Nelson's home town of Austin by 211 votes but also Nelson's own precinct by [illegible] votes. Some pesky republican looked up the vote in Governor Olson's ward and precinct in Minneapolis and found that Martin Nelson had carried the governor's ward by [illegible] and the governor's precinct by [illegible].

Changes that portend no good to the farmer-labor ticket seem to be taking place in Minnesota. While Governor Olson got a few more votes in Austin than did Martin Nelson in 1934, Martin Nelson this year had more than 2 to 1 over Elmer Benson in the City of Austin.

checked ambitious plans of farmer-labor politicians who have promptly rushed into print with blasts against the court and outraged cries of "usurpation of authority." When decisions are handed down favorable to labor and against "entrenched capital" however, these same farmer-labor politicians sing small about them. One such decision this year did get some praise in labor circles. The decision was hailed in labor papers as a local victory for Sigmond J. Slonim, a prominent farmer-labor leader of Duluth. Mr. Slonim himself said that the decision will be of great benefit to injured workmen. The decision was written by Justice Royal A. Stone and declares that companies cannot relieve themselves of liability by keeping an employee at work after injury and filing a "non-disabling accident report." It is expected that the ruling will have a wide effect in thousands of similar compensation cases.

The highway department has almost $1,000,000 more in cash receipts today from motor vehicle licenses than it had at this time last year. The total receipts from motor vehicle licenses for the first six months of 1936 are [illegible], which is more than the receipts of the entire 12 months of 1935.

The total registration of automobiles, trucks, etc., for the first six months of 1936 is [illegible], almost [illegible] the registration of [illegible] for the whole of 1935. It is expected that the registration will this year again reach a new record high in Minnesota.

New cars sold [illegible] in Minnesota this year. New passenger cars and trucks for the first six months of 1936 were [illegible] as against 37,591 for the first six months of 1935, an increase of nearly 12,000, according to a report issued by Mike Holm, secretary of state and registrar of motor vehicles.

Youth Drowns in Red Lake River at Fisher

Harvey Nelson, 21 years old, drowned in the Red Lake river near Fisher late Tuesday. Efforts of a Grand Forks fire department pulmotor squad, which worked from shortly after 10 p. m. until early Wednesday, failed to revive him.

Nelson, a strong swimmer, had been swimming with a group of young people. He was suddenly missed and Ray Landon and Farnham Dudgeon of Grand Forks, found his body in two feet of water.

He is a son of Richard Nelson of [illegible] and a sister, Mrs. Jack Hardy lives in Grand Forks.

By A. I. Harris

Mr. Edwin L. Lindell, Secretary of the Minnesota Law and Order League, in the latest edition of his Law and Order News, asks why everybody should not be fingerprinted. And he implies that there can be only one reasonable answer—that fingerprinting on a wholesale scale would solve all crimes.

It seems strange that Mr. Lundell does not know that the chief beneficiaries of nation-wide fingerprinting would be the fingerprint experts of gentlemen of the law and order leagues who might thereby get on the federal payroll.

In practice, fingerprints catch only the small fry. Smart criminals do not leave their trade marks behind. Whoever heard of a fraudulent stock salesman being convicted by finger prints; or a salesman of muskrat shares; or a man smart enough to rob a bank from the inside.

No, No, Edwin, the real criminals cannot be caught by such simple measures as you suggest. The public is in greatest danger from men who use their wealth and power to prey upon the people in order that they may swell their money bags. Finger prints is no aid in their apprehension.

Word comes from Washington that the original Lindbergh homestead at Melrose is to be included in the National Park Service's nation-wide survey of historic sites to determine which are worthy of national recognition and preservation.

Minnesota is justly proud of its famous flyer, but liberals of this state are also proud of the aviator's famous father, Charles A. Lindbergh, who displayed the same fine courage in the face of howling reactionary mobs as his son did against the elements when he flew the Atlantic. However, we don't expect to see the government preserve the yellow paint pot with which the reactionaries smeared the Little Falls Lindbergh home during the war, nor the rails on which they threatened to ride him out of town.

The government will be asked to approve of drouth relief and water conservation projects in the Red River Valley basin costing approximately $10,000,000, as the result of the conference held at the Capitol last week between the planning boards of Minnesota, and North and South Dakota, Charles W. Eliot, executive officer of the National resources committee, and W. W. Horner, federal water consultant.

Plans for the projects have been drawn up. They include certain works to take care of a situation which now threatens the domestic water supply for communities in this district as well as long time program to deal with the subject in a permanent way. The federal government will do well to solve the drouth problem in this region for all time. This is the only sensible way of doing with it.

R. W. Hitchcock, Republican publicist par-excellence, takes Harry H. Peterson, Attorney General for the State of Minnesota, over the coals and when Hitchcock takes them, they're pretty hot.

Mr. Peterson has served the people as faithfully and competently as Mr. Hitchcock has served the reactionaries—and to a better purpose.

The fact that Mr. Hitchcock does not agree with the rulings of Mr. Peterson is very good evidence that these rulings were in the interests of the public. The fact that the Supreme Court has decided against Mr. Petersoon on certain issues is—in view of the decisions of the courts on all questions affecting human welfare—to his credit. The voters of Minnesota will become suspicious of Harry Peterson when reactionary Judges agree with him on all matters—or when Republican Mouthpiece Hitchcock praises him.

In citing the cases in which Mr. Peterson was reversed Mr. Hitchcock fails to cite the ones in which he was upheld. There was for instance the mortgage moratorium law upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court, one of the most important pieces of legislation passed in recent years; The State Income Tax law; the Homstead Tax Reduction Law which is today saving hundreds of thousands of dollars for home owners and farmers throughout the state; the victory in the Circuit Court of Appeals against the Banco Corporation when it attempted to restrain state officials from investigating its stock sales and financial manipulations; the development of the rate case against the Tri-State Telephone Company which justifies a twenty-five per cent reduction in telephone tolls for the St. Paul area and which will be a yardstick in the fight to reduce rates all over the state.

FINDS TWO LAMBS IN EWE CUT OPEN FOR FEED

Balaton.—To some readers this may sound like a wild story, but you may see proof gamboling about the yard of the G. A. Dennin home north of Balaton any day. W. H. Towne, a neighbor, reported to Dennin that two of his ewes had been injured by a dog believed to be Dennin's and asked for settlement. Dennen paid for the sheep and took one of them home, still alive to be used for hog feed. He had killed the ewe and was cutting open the carcass when he noticed signs of life within. He proceeded more carefully and soon removed two lambs alive and well. The lambs were fed at first from a spoon, but were soon drinking from a bottle. Now they graze in the yard and they still come to the house regularly for their drink of milk.

RIGHT TO THE POINT

Your friend listens to your troubles and wants to.

People who "invite a quarrel" often don't know it.

He can't be wrong whose life is in the right.—Anon.

It is the extremists that make a man half sick of his own cause.

In many novels and some plays destiny is called "romance."

Honesty is the best policy, but between nations, could it be?

Do good but beware of what kind of a society you join to do it.

Love of money makes the world go round. All men seek to win it.

Be the first to praise. Those who come later will sound like echoes.

It does not perturb some people when the conversation lags. They let it lag.

When shall we have the paper napkin that is not like the paper napkin?

Perhaps the "plain-spoken" man speaks more often than is necessary.

A young man doesn't want soft, white hands; he wants strong, brown ones.

A compliment is something you remember to your dying days—likewise a snub.

If flaming youth were not flaming it might be wholly incombustible and worthless.

If you can't be in sympathy with a man in his pleasures, he falls in your estimation.

FISH BONE DIET IS LATEST HEALTH TIP

The health value of eating small fish, such as sardines, which usually are eaten bones and all, is emphasized in a recent report of the medical research council in England. The investigation included chemical analyses of many different kinds of food to see which provide the largest amounts not only of ordinary nutrient materials but also of the vitamins, mineral elements and other minor constituents now known to be necessary to health.

Two of the necessary mineral elements are phosphorus and calcium, both of which are needed in the human body for building and repair of bones. In addition an ample supply of calcium is believed to be needed for health of the nerves. Phosphorus also is needed for the storage and production of muscular energy. Both elements are plentiful in fish bones.

Accordingly, a reasonable number of fish bones may be an excellent addition to the diet. Bones of large fish usually are taken out. Even moderately small fish bones usually are removed because of the well founded fear that a bone may stick in the eater's throat.

Repairs Shot at Machines

Fired at the speed of a rifle bullet, particles of hot metal rebuild worn machine parts by a new method. Screw threads are cut into the surfaces to be repaired and then the metal is sprayed on the grooves and ridges in such a way as to "freeze" and become a part of the metal under treatment. The spraying is done with an electrically operated gun that "shoots" the metal particles through a tiny hole in the nozzle at 2,700 feet a second. The rebuilt parts are smoothed and polished with abrasive, giving long wear. Piston rods, cylinder walls, shafts, bearings and turbines are among the parts treated successfully.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

New Fossil Wood Found

Paleontologists of the University of California have recently discovered a new type of fossilized wood in the Petrified Forest National Monument, Arizona. Hitherto only two types have been described in scientific literature, and they are known only by their scientific names. The new type is schilderia [illegible]. Naturalists explain that at the time when the [illegible] logs of which these petrified [illegible] are relics settled into the [illegible] of prehistoric seas such common species as oak, walnut and the [illegible] had not yet been developed.

Ruins of Ancient City Seen

The ancient legend that the city of [illegible] was buried under the waters of Tollor lake hundreds or even thousands of years ago seems to be confirmed by Chinese fishermen who say the ruins of the ancient city can easily be seen from the surface of the lake.

Seeking Peace

"I think I'll go to Europe for a [illegible]," said Senator Sorghum.

"Do you know any foreign languages?"

"No. That's why I'm going. When anybody tries to tell me a [illegible] I won't be able to understand it."

The Doggy Penwiper

"I've never seen a dog [illegible] before, Bobby!"

"Well, dad is an artist, and [illegible] where he wipes his [illegible]."—Pearson's Weekly.

Excused

[illegible]

Size of Cathedral of Notre Dame

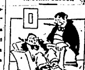
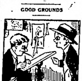
ANOTHER DETOUR



"My New Year resolutions have all gone to seed."

"Cheer up, old chap; they will sprout again next New Year's."

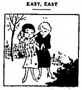
GOOD GROUNDS



Artist—I am wedded to my art.

Friend—Your art could get a divorce on the ground of intolerable cruelty.

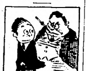
EASY, EASY



"I've made up my mind to marry Dick."

"Don't you think he ought to be told?"

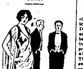
FORETHOUGHT



"With all your debts you have the assurance to ask for the hand of my daughter? What are you thinking of?"

"My debts."

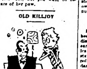
SCAT!



Paul—Edith is very kittenish, isn't she?

Ben—Yes, but you want to beware of her paw.

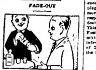
OLD KILLJOY



Miss Passe (playfully)—I'm older than you think I am.

Mr. Blunt—I doubt it.

FADE-OUT



"What about the bride's culinary efforts?"

"Well, she can make ice cream that melts in your mouth."

Put to Death by Elephants

1,500 PRESENT AT THIEF LAKE OUTING OF HISTORY GROUP

Area First Visited by White Men in 1798, Speaker Declares

Marshall county and the Thief Lake territory were visited by white men before George Washington, first president of the United States, had passed away!

This amazing statement of historical fact was told by Dr. D. Squires, professor of history, Colby college, New Hampshire, to more than 1,500 Marshall county residents who braved the sweltering rays of the sun to attend the third annual picnic of the Marshall county Historical Society at Thief Lake dam Sunday afternoon, says the Warren Sheaf.

Davdi Thompson, a Scotchman who was born in 1770, and entered the American fur trade when only 14 years of age, kept a diary of his expeditions into the Red River Valley, which shows that he traveled up Thief River to Thief Lake in 1798. He also drew maps of his expedition which shows the location of Thief Lake, the original map being on file in a library in Montreal, said Doctor Squires.

One of the main features of the afternoon's interesting program was a pageant depicting the arrival of the first settlers in the Thief Lake territory. This pageant was directed by Arvid Carlson of Middle River, who also took one of the leading roles in the cast. Others taking part included Mrs. R. D. V. Carr, Mrs. E. M. Evans, grand children of Wm. Kezar, Middle River settler, Carl Berg, John Henning, Tom Maanum and others.

Jerusalem Most Revered Spot of Religious World

Jerusalem itself is a revelation. Its narrow, winding streets lead to spots revered all over the world. Through the Crooked Way is the Church of the Holy Sepulchre where pilgrims from every corner of the earth come to worship, observes a writer in the Washington Post. Set in an open square is the Dome of the Rock (Mosque of Omar), sacred to the Mohammedans, and almost lost in the maze of turnings and alley-ways is the storied ancient Wailing Wall of the Jews where the prayers of the Children of Israel float up on the four winds to heaven. The city itself is filled with Arabs, Greeks, Jews and Turks. Queer little shops line the streets. To the west is Mount Zion, Jehovah's dwelling place. On the east once stood the castle of David. On the north stood the Temple of Solomon, where is now the Mosque of Omar. Nearby are the Garden of Gethsemane, the site of Calvary and the Mount of Olives.

Among the picturesque Judean hills about five miles from Jerusalem is the birthplace of Christ, Bethlehem, sacred to Christians and also holding many sacred traditions of the Jews and the Moslems. Here Rachel died and was buried. Here is the site of the beautiful story of Ruth and here was spent the childhood of David. In the Church of the Nativity is the cave, or grotto, where it is believed Christ was born.

Praying Mantids

There are several different kinds of Praying Mantids in North America known by the common names of Devil's Rear Horses, Soothsayers and Mule-Killers, the latter name being given to a species occurring in the South, which is believed to poison stock with a brownish fluid which they emit from their mouths. The name Praying Mantid was given to them in view of the fact that one of the favorite attitudes of these creatures is supposed to be devout. It is said that these insects are the only ones that can look over their shoulders. All are beneficial insects owing to the fact that they destroy numbers of injurious insects.

When Noise Is Harmful

Is noise definitely injurious to health? This topical question is discussed from a new angle by an ear specialist in the British Medical Journal. A healthy man, he states, can stand ordinary traffic noise without suffering much, if any, damage. This however, does not hold good for the over sensitive and weakly. The grave damage that noise inflicts upon the sick is emphasized. There are many diseases, says the specialist, in which quiet is of much greater importance than diet.

Rat Deadly Enemy

The rat is one of man's deadliest enemies, as it has spread bubonic plague throughout the world for more than 2,000 years and has been responsible for more untimely deaths than all the wars in history. This dread disease, writes Freling Foster, in Collier's Weekly, transmitted to man by bites of the rat's infected fleas, has killed an average of 2,000 persons every day since the birth of Christ.

Indian Bible Oldest

The first Bible published in America was printed in the Indian language after the translation of the missionary John Eliot. It was issued in 1663, more than a century before part of the book was published in English in 1777. A few years later, in 1782, a complete English version was issued in Philadelphia.—Pathfinder Magazine.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

(By U. S. Department of Agricultural Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., July 13, 1936 (U.S.D.A.): Monday's receipts of 13,000 cattle here included more than 10,000 from Montana and the Dakotas, mostly thin stockers and cows. Fed steers and yearlings as well as most she stock declined 15-25c, stockers being largely 50c lower. Most fed steers and yearlings brought $6.50-7.50, choice mediumweights $8.00, common grassers down to $4.75. Dry-fed heifers earned $6.00-8.00, most grassers $4.25-5.25, beef cows $3.75-4.25, dry-feds $5.00-5.50, cutters and low cutters $2.75-3.50, sausage bulls $5.00-5.50, better vealers $6.00-7.00, a few $7.50, cull and common $3.00-4.50. Lower grade stock steers and calves sold mainly at $3.50-4.50, some fairly attractive white-faces $5.50-5.75.

Hogs were largely 25c lower, pigs and light lights sharply lower. Better 160-230 lb. cashed at $9.75-10.00, one load $10.10, 230-280 lb. $9.25-9.75, 280-350 lb. $8.65-9.25, sows under 400 lbs. $7.75-8.15, heavier weights $7.25-7.65, stags $7.25-8.00. Desirable pigs weighing 80-120 lbs. were salable at $8.00-8.25, a few $8.50, lighterweights $6.00-7.00.

Lambs broke 50c Monday, other classes 25-50c. Bulk of the sorted native lambs cashed at $9.75, with rangers held at $10.00 or more. Slaughter yearlings sold at $7.00 down, light and medium slaughter ewes $2.75-4.25.

Roman Soldiers Brought Harp Back From Britain

The Irish claim to have originated the harp. Undoubtedly the oriental harps were earlier, though the Roman legions brought the Irish harp back from Britain, asserts a writer in the Washington Post.

The old Irish harp had three rows of strings. The old laws of Wales mention the use of the harp as one of three points that distinguished the freeman from the slave, and pretenders were often discovered by their unskillful use of it. Only the king, his musicians, and the gentlemen of the realm could own a harp; and slaves were forbidden even to touch the instrument. For a time the popularity of the harp was threatened by the guitar, when a troupe of Spanish players toured England. But when humble people began to buy guitars, fashionable people gave up piano for learning it, and continued to buy harps.

The orchestral harp has 50 strings. The frame rests on the pedestal, which contains the pedals, the large hollow body or back rising from this, with the soundboard at its upper face. The strings are attached with the pins by which they are tuned. The harp has seven pedals, each double-acting, and so contrived that certain strings can be shortened and their pitch raised a semitone or a tone. The instrument may thus be set in any desired key.

Harp music is written for two hands, on two staffs similar to piano music. Flat keys sound best, because then most of the strings are open, vibrating at full length.

Giant's Memorial

Over a grave in the village cemetery of St. Ann, N. S., and overlooking the bluish-green Atlantic waters of St. Ann Harbor, stands a plain gray stone. "Mark the perfect man," its inscription exhorts the reader, "and behold the upright." Above the simple phrasing is the name of Angus MacAskill, for this is the headstone of the Cape Breton giant. It is the only memorial to a man who by his sheer physical stature carried the name of Nova Scotia into the four quarters of the globe three-quarters of a century or more ago.

Far-Famed Florence

Florence, Italy, was once the center of world culture and world finance. There are names associated with Florence that will endure for all time. Some of them are Michelangelo, the Medici, Dante Alighieri, Boccaccio, Machiavelli, Della Robbia, Leonardo da Vinci, Benvenuto Cellini and Raphael.

Waltz Comes From Germany

The waltz was introduced from Germany into France at the end of the Eighteenth century and into England in 1812. Here it was at first ridiculed but soon achieved unequaled popularity.

Books Are Chained

Books were formerly held by chains in university and cathedral libraries because of their value. The earliest and latest examples in England were at Oxford in the Thirteenth and Eighteenth centuries, respectively. Cambridge university also chained its books, as did various English cathedrals and ministers. Chained books may be found in Holland at Enkhuizen and Zutphen; at Florence in the Laurentian library; in Nuremberg and at the Sorbonne in Paris.

DRENG BJORNARAA, STATE NRS CHIEF, SEES BETTERMENT

Large Gains in Private Employment This Spring, He Reports

Large gains in private employment and a striking increase in the number of placements made in public employment at prevailing wages characterized operations of the National Reemployment Service which serves the state of Minnesota, exclusive of Hennepin and Ramsey counties and the city of Duluth, for the month of May 1936. These gains in employment were accompanied by a decline in the total active file of the persons actively seeking jobs through the public employment service, according to Dreng Bjornaraa, state director.

Offices of the National Reemployment Service during May made a total of 2260 placements in gainful employment in private industry. This is a gain of 42.6 per cent over the number reported in April, and represents the highest level of private placements since the harvest season last year. These gains in private employment reflect the intensification of private placement work by the employment offices as well as the seasonal increase in this field.

Offices of the National Reemployment Service made 7147 placements in public and governmental employment at prevailing wages during May which was a gain of 149.0 per cent over the number reported in April. Employment of this nature includes all placements in local, state, and federal governmental units on public works projects and contractors working on such projects.

Security wage assignments on relief works projects (WPA) in May 1936 amounted to 1310 which represents a decrease since the monthly peak of WPA activities in November and December last year.

During May a total of 4915 new applicants were registered and classified by offices of the National Reemployment Service in Minnesota. This number is an increase of 11.6 per cent from the number of persons registered in April.

Accompanying the increase in private placements and employment on public and governmental work, the active file of job seekers registered with employment offices showed a decline in May over April of 5175. The active file May 30 was 82,254. A proportionate decline in the active file was reported nationally. Included in the active file are the registrations of all persons seeking work through the public employment offices. In addition to unemployed persons the active file contains the registrations of persons seeking better jobs; of persons engaged in short time employment, that is, on jobs lasting from one day to one week; and of persons engaged on relief works projects on a security wake basis. Placements in private industry made during the month of May 1936 constituted 21.1 per cent of the total placements reported during the month. Of the total placements of 10,717 made during May, 915 women's placements, and of the men, 851 were veterans. Of the number of total placements to other than strictly work relief (WPA) projects, 3307 were from relief rolls.

HEAT CONTINUES HERE WITH LITTLE RELIEF IN SIGHT

Mercury Passed 100 Degree Mark Nearly Every Day of Past Week

Another series of searing days afflicted the northwest during the past week, little relief being in prospect this morning. Street thermometers in the city recorded temperatures in excess of 100 degrees each day from Friday thru Tuesday, scattered showers Monday evening failing to bring lower temperatures. The mercury Wednesday afternoon again hovered close to the 100 degree mark.

Knute Solheim of the Kratka community was overcome by the heat Saturday while engaged in haying operations, and succumbed on being brought to his home.

More than 200 persons in the Twin Cities were reported to have died during the past ten days as a result of the intense heat, which broke all records for duration. The nation as a whole counted more than 2,000 dead, according to press dispatches.

COUNCIL CONSIDERS NEW ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE TUESDAY

W. W. Prichard was read announcing the appointment to the library board of Philip Bryant, succeeding T. M. Thronson, resigned; and reappointing to the board Mrs. Mary V. Shaw, Mrs. L. G. Larsen and Mrs. P. W. Mabey. The mayor also announced the naming of Helmer Ostrom as weed inspector for the current year.

H. L. Schuster appeared in behalf of the fire department to ascertain the attitude of the council as to the department continuing to respond to calls for assistance from Town of North. He suggested that the council undertake to reach an agreement with the North town board, and the matter was referred the insurance committee for investigation.

Following presentation by Secretary Robert J. Lund of the fair board of a request for a contribution by the city to the 1936 event, the council voted the sum of $500. Mr. Lund pointed out that $300 of this sum will be returned to the city treasury in the form of payment by the fair association for electric light and water service.

Paul Lundgren informed the council that contrary to the provisions of the dry cleaners' ordinance, unlicensed operators are doing business in the city. City Attorney Theodore Quale was instructed to look into the situation.

By coincidence or otherwise, five virtually identical bids were received for supplying the city with 42 white-way light standards and 3,000 feet of cable. After considerable discussion the matter was disposed of by dividing the order, involving approximately $2,500, among the five bidders, who included the Graybar Electric company, General Electric Supply corporation, Dakota Electric Supply company; Westinghouse Supply company; and the John Clark company.

Heat and Insects Held Menace to Sweet Clover Seed Crop in Northwest

During the past week it has been brought to the attention of the county agent's office that many fields of sweet clover are not setting seed properly. The extreme heat and dry weather may have done damage. Another factor may be a very small insect that destroys the flowers before fertilization takes place. There is no way of controlling this insect. County R. M. Douglass suggests that every farmer watch his sweet clover fields closely in regard to the setting of the seed. Because of the drouth conditions hay prices will no doubt be somewhat higher than they were last year. If a farmer feels that his seed crop will be very small because of a low seed set perhaps it will be better for him to cut his sweet clover for hay.

179 PENNINGTON COUNTY FARMERS HAVE U. S. LOANS

Federal Farm Loan Act Has Been in Existence Twenty Years

Observing this week the 20-year anniversary of the passing of the farm loan act of 1916, which marked the beginning of cooperative credit for farmers in the United States, President Roy A. Nelson of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, said that there are 179 farmers in Pennington county who have federal land bank or commissioner's loans.

In the whole state of Minnesota there were only 869 land bank loans outstanding at the end of 1917, the first calendar year of operation.

"In these 20 years one of the most outstanding services the land bank has rendered to farmers of the Northwest is the reduction in interest rates," Mr. Nelson said. "Starting with 6 per cent loans, the bank has been able to progressively reduce interest to the point where the borrower of today is keeping in his pocket one dollar out of every three that he would have had to pay under conditions that used to prevail."

Under the 4 per cent rate at which all new loans are made, the land bank borrower pays off both principal and interest with installments that together amount to only 5.4 per cent, and in 31 years the loan is wiped out.

"The system that was inaugurated 20 years ago," Nelson said, "has to its credit 4 main features; it has reduced interest, given the farmer a long period to pay off his mortgage, provided him with a share in conducting the institution from which he obtains his credit, and it has established definitely the principle of making loans on the basis of what the farm can earn. By so doing it is providing helpful instead of burdensome credit, for it is of no real value to a person to obtain a loan larger than his income can repay."

The land bank system of 1916 was expanded into the Farm Credit Administration in May, 1933 and now provides short-term production loans and credit for farmers' cooperative business enterprises in addition to the long-term farm mortgage credit of the beginning.

Bower Bird

The bower bird of Africa builds itself a bower, or covered avenue, of twigs and leaves, which it may use as a playground or a salon for courtship display. One species even goes so far as to lay down a "pavement" of bits of bone, shell and stone. Some of these bowers are over a yard in length.

Work on Winter Shows Building at Crookston Is Nearing Completion

Work on the Red River Valley Livestock Association building which was badly damaged by fire at the opening of the Winter Shows last February, is rapidly nearing completion, according to O. M. Kiser, secretary of the Association. The fire gutted the main livestock barn, thus necessitating the construction of new partitions, floors, roof, windows and doors. It was also necessary to replace the electrical equipment throughout.

The repairs work is being done by Otto Eichof, contractor, under the supervision of a committee representing the livestock association. This committee is composed of J. H. Sargent, directors; P. M. Finkenbinder, members of the advisory board, and O. M. Kiser.

Officers of the Red River Valley Livestock Association include Dr. A. A. Dowell, President; F. A. Green, Stephen, Vice-President; A. A. Halsdank, Ada, Treasurer; O. M. Kiser, secretary; together with the following Directors: Wm. Aab, St. Vincent; E. Ed. Carmen, Ada; J. H. Sargent, Crookston; M. E. Dahl, Twin Valley; Paul Engelstad, Crookston; C. C. Chase, Mahnomen; and Herman Strander, Crookston.

Norwegian Singers' Groups in Concert at Duluth Last Week-end

Full expression of their love for singing was given by the 1,200 members of the 36 male choruses of the Norwegian Singers' Association of America, Friday afternoon and evening with a matinee and final grand concert in the armory as the highlights of the second day of the biennial sangefest in Duluth.

Following a busy opening day of parading in which the Norsemen marched before an estimated crowd of 30,000 spectators, a formal welcome ceremony at the armory following, and the first of the series of three concerts Thursday night, the delegates assembled in the armory Friday morning for dress rehearsal.

A delegation of member of the Brage chorus of this city and their wives attended the sangerfest.

CORN HAS TASSELS, EARS ON JULY FIRST

New Richland.—The corn growing championship has been awarded with little fear of competition to Ed Casper, New Richland farmer, who had a four acre field of flint corn that broke all records for that part of the country. On July 1 this corn was fully tasseled with well formed ears, and Casper stated that scoffers could come out and have a roasting ear to prove it. The field was planted on April 27 and had nearly a two week's start over other fields in the same community. To beat this on July 1, you must have had your corn in the crib.

Six Skating Marvels Feature Fair Program

There is not another act in all of the show business that does the things on roller skates that the Six Skating Marvels do. These young women are not only graceful and costume their act colorfully, but they show an utter disregard for danger in their work and thrill all that see them.

The Skating Marvels are certain to be one of the outstanding features of both afternoon and night shows before the grandstand at the Fair. A special skating floor, designed especially for this act, is carried by the girls.

The act runs the gamut of hair-raising stunts; from snappy solo tricks to big stunts in which the whole group take part. At times certain of the girls are swung about so rapidly, that the eye must be quick to follow the positions of the body.

One of the tricks is called the "Skyride", and it is a real thriller. Five of the girls lock hands, with the other girl lying on them in a horizontal pose. They start spinning, and when they get at top speed, the girl in the center is held by just one foot and spun with such speed her body appears to form a perfect circle.

The Six Marvels were kept in training for many months to perfect their present routines. All are experts on the rollers as well as on ice skates, but only the former are used during their summer appearances.

Doctors Warn Against the Overemphasizing of Heart Afflictions

There are many people with minor heart defects who can live out a normal lifetime without serious restriction of their activities. These people should not be made into invalids and neurotics unnecessarily, says a bulletin issued by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association.

When a minor defect is discovered in a young person, particularly, it may bar him from strenuous activities such as college football, but it need not bar him from the ordinary, quieter activities of youth and he should not be frightened into invalidism.

A recent study of heart cases among young people is quoted by the bulletin to show the unfortunate effect of too much talk about "weak heart". A large number of these children and young adults were perfectly capable of leading normal school lives and of taking normal adult responsibilities. But the fact that there was a slight murmur or a slight deformity had been so impressed upon them by over-anxious parents that they were practically incapacitated. They were the victims of what doctors call "cardiac neurosis" in which the unfortunate victim suffers all the pains and weakness of true organic heart disease, though there is actually very little wrong with the heart.

Cardiac neurosis, when it is firmly established, is harder to treat than actual heart disease. The best way to avoid it is never to magnify the presence of a heart defect in a child. Regular examinations should be made of the child as a matter of course and the physician's advice followed but without harmful coddling.

CARRYING CARTRIDGE IN POCKET NOT HEALTHY

Hancock.—Carrying a revolver cartridge around in an apron pocket while working near a stove is not a very good way to prolong one's life, it was found by a young lady at Clontarf, near Hancock. The daughter of Charlie Chevalier was one of the young women engaged in cooking for a crew of some 40 men harvesting. While so engaged, there was a sudden explosion and the girl felt a stinging sensation in her left arm. An examination disclosed that a piece of shell, apparently from a 22 rifle cartridge, had struck her arm just above the elbow, and the doctor called removed a small particle of the shell. Just where it came from is a question, but the likely explanation is that a day or so before, the girl had picked up a 22 cartridge from the floor and put it into her apron pocket. In working near the stove it is probable that the shell in some way fell on the hot stove and the heat exploded it. At any rate, the shell had disappeared from her apron pocket.

BIRDS BUILD NEST IN CLOTHES OF SCARECROW

Hibbing.—Scarecrows have become a menace to Hibbing residents and are attracting birds instead of driving them away. A certain Hibbing family which takes great pride in a particularly abundant crop of strawberries in their back yard made the painful discovery recently that the birds were eating the tiny berries as rapidly as they appeared on the plants. Somewhat apalled at the prospect of losing all their berries they erected a scarecrow consisting of a rake, a discarded raincoat, figured dress and hat which presented a most grotesque appearance. Strange as it may seem, it was discovered a few days later that a tiny wren was busily building her nest in the collar of the raincoat worn by "Monsieur Scarecrow," just to be close to her supply of food.

Lutheran Institute Is Under Way at Alexandria

The second summer session of the Lutheran Bible Institute opened on Saturday, July 11, with registration of students enrolling for the summer session. The classes and services officially opened on Sunday, July 12, at 11 A. M. with Rev. A. W. Knoak, faculty member of the Lutheran Bible Institute as speaker, using as his subject "The One Important Question." Dr. C. G. Sodergren spoke at the 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon session, and Rev. H. G. Randolph spoke at the Sunday evening services at 8 o'clock. The Bible camp, in which are enrolled students all over the Northwest, will continue through July 31, over a period of three weeks. All sessions are being held in the assembly hall at the Lake Geneva Camp, Lake Geneva, two and a half miles east of Alexandria, on Federal highway 52.

STARTS NUDIST COLONY IN STORE SHOW WINDOW

Park Rapids.—It may have just been the familiar smell of sawdust, and it certainly was partly due to an over indulgence in spirituous liquors that caused a resident of Pensford to choose the show window of a Park Rapids butcher shop in which to take off his clothes and go to sleep. Imagine the surprise of Patrolman Jack Smith early on Sunday morning to see lying in the window, clad in nothing but Nature's endowment, a slumbering man. Smith was in a frenzy to get the man's clothes on before the early churchgoers started past, and finally succeeded in taking the still sleepy individual to the place provided for those in his condition. Police had the option of charging him with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, or breaking and entering, but finally chose the former charge and he was fined $27.50 Monday morning, leaving for home an infinitely sadder and soberer man.

PLUMMER DEFEATS KITTSON

Overcoming their lapse of the previous week, during which they lost two games in a row, the Plummer Cardinals returned to a winning stride defeating Kittson 12-5.

Snappy fielding was largely responsible for the victory, as the locals turned in three double plays, but they also banged out 14 hits while Kittson secured only 8 off two Plummer hurlers. Hanson started on the mound for Plummer but was a trifle wild. He got by the first inning when the second man up hit into a double play. Plummer scored one run in the first but went 1 down in the second as Kittson scored two runs and Fremling went to the mound for Hanson. The locals took the lead again by virtue of two tallies in the third but again Kittson rallied to score two and go ahead. Then came the big 5th when the locals scored seven runs on 7 hits and two errors. Kittson got one back in the first of the sixth but went scoreless from there on while the locals added two more in the seventh.

Next Sunday the Cardinals tackle Red Lake Falls on the Red Lake Falls diamond. A real battle is expected so come out and support your team.

Indians Are Strong

The secret of the Tarahumara's speed is that in wielding an adz, he cuts clean through and hits the wood again on the back stroke.

BLOW ON CRANIUM BREAKS MAN'S LEG

New Ulm—Victim of a most unusual accident is Ewald Boesch, near New Ulm, who was struck so hard on the head by a falling tree that his leg was broken. With members of a crew, Boesch was pulling out trees with a caterpillar tractor, and was standing alongside the tractor while one of the giant trees was being felled. A 10-inch branch struck him on the head with such force that his left thigh bone was fractured in five separate places, although no part of the tree hit his leg. In addition, he suffered two deep lacerations of the head, extending back from the forehead, a severe concussion of the brain, and a fracture of his right maxillary bone. It is a miracle that the young man's skull was not fractured. Despite his severe injuries, the patient is getting along nicely.

Lead to Conversation

A common interest in dogs has provided the groundwork for many a charming greeting and friendly conversation.

Dependence of Senses

There may be some relation between the various senses, and in childhood such senses as touch and sight are usually developed together. They can be developed separately, as in the case of a blind person. The popular idea that blind persons acquire an increased acuteness in their other senses in compensation for the loss of their sight, is refuted in Ackermann's "Popular Fallacies." For a person who is both blind and deaf to develop the other senses is a most difficult task, as there is no natural compensation of this kind.

Coral in Salt Water Only

Coral grows only in salt water. The best island harbors were those formed where freshwater streams poured down to sea, cutting a channel through the coral reefs as they flowed out on the ebb tide. Honolulu harbor, entrance to the great American playground of Hawaii, is an example of this.

$16,500,000 ROAD PROJECTS UNDER WAY OR FINISHED

Arranging $7,000,000 in New Projects for Coming Fiscal Year

More than $5,000,000 of road construction work has been completed by the Minnesota highway department so far this season, and projects costing another $11,500,000 are in progress, according to an announcement by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

The work completed or under way includes the following:

900 miles of grading, 600 miles of graveling, 125 miles concrete paving, 102 bridge structures, 74 railroad crossing separations, 41 railroad crossing electric signal installations.

Approximately one-third of this work has been finished, Mr. Elsberg said, while the remainder will be completed by fall. The highway department is prepared to launch another $7,000,000 program for the fiscal year beginning this month, but has been prevented from getting this work under way by delay in authorization of state bonds for matching $3,400,000 of federal aid which is available.

Fire Near St. Hilaire Razes Barn, Livestock

A fire of unknown origin destroyed the large stock barn and chicken house on the Erickson Bros. farm west of St. Hilaire July 5, says the St. Hilaire Spectator. The Erickson family was away from home when the fire started. Passersby noticed the fire and did everything possible to save contents of the structures as the flames had already advanced so far as to preclude any possibility of saving the buildings. A team of horses, five calves, harnesses and a milking machine and all stanchions were lost in the fire.

BROTHERS PASS ON WAY TO VISIT EACH OTHER

Roseau.—H. B. Rognlie of Roseau and his brother Fred of Churches Ferry, N. Dak., have their birthdays the same day, although the former is eight years the senior. They had not seen each other for a long time, and both planned to surprise the other. The Roseau Rognlie started out via car to surprise his brother by a visit to Churches Ferry, and when he got there he found that Fred had left for Roseau with the same idea. They had actually passed each other on the road. While they failed to meet each other, each one spent an enjoyable day with the other's family. Next year they will probably make a date with each other.

"Manhattan Gaieties" Fair Midway Feature

Girls galore; beautiful costumes, singing and dancing, with the latest in lighting and scenic effects, is to be seen in the "Manhattan Gaieties", one of the 14 attractions of the Hennies Bros. Shows, that will grace the midway of the 1936 Pennington County fair in Thief River Falls July 28 to 31.

This tabloid musical revue is staged and produced by Miss Alice Melville, formerly a musical comedy star, who has in recent years stepped from behind the footlights, and directing and producing musical revues for the larger vaudeville circuits in the east, but now contracted by the Hennies Bros. organization to stage and manage their girl production for this year's tour of the larger state, county and district fairs from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian Border.

"Manhattan Gaieties" is but one of the many feature shows brought to Thief River Falls this year by this large and pretentious outdoor amusement organization, which also carries 12 of the latest type riding devices known to the show world.

Fall Term at Northwest School in Crookston to Open September 28th

An increasing number of rural boys and girls are taking advantage of the recent state law whereby eighth grade graduates from rural schools may attend the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston with all necessary tuition, and laboratory and equipment fees paid from state funds. This law which was passed by the state legislature in 1935, went into effect for the first time last fall. According to Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent of the school over 250 boys and girls qualified for aid last year when a new attendance record of 395 was established.

The fall term of the Northwest School will open September 28 and the winter term will close the last week in March. Farm boys and girls are thus available for work at home during the crop growing season. Courses are offered in agriculture, farm machinery, home economics, business training, music and citizenship.

Students graduate from the regular school courses after three years attendance in addition to home project work which is required during the summer months. Those who wish to continue their training may return for a college preparatory year following which they are eligible to attend any of the Colleges and Universities in the State.

Last year over 1300 boys and girls attended the farm vocational Schools of Agriculture at Crookston, Morris, Grand Rapids, and St. Paul.

BREAKS WINDOW TO GET TERM IN JAIL

Waseca. Stranger Thomas Cody, stranded in Waseca with nothing to eat, adopted the very practical idea of making the county pay for his food and lodging. He walked down the main street and threw a brick through the plate glass window in Charles A. Smith's office next door to the city hall, and then waited for the police to dash out and arrest him. The stranger immediately informed the police they must feed him when they put him in jail. When arraigned in court the next day on a disorderly conduct, charge, he pleaded not guilty and was remanded to the county jail for further observation. It was thought at the time the man either mentally deranged or a confirmed criminal. Smith carried insurance on his window and will suffer no financial loss. It was the third time the window has been broken.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. Wedding

Wild Rice

Every part of the world has its basic food staple. Bread made from wheat is at least indispensible as a food among white races. Rice is the staple for a much greater number, chiefly Mongolian, and other foods are basic on a smaller scale in different parts of the world.

These facts prompt the writer to wonder if the conquest, if we may call it that, of the Red Indians by the whites in the northwest did not interfere with a natural process that might have had vastly greater results than those we know. Our speculation is based on the potentialities of the wild rice that was growing so abundantly in the northwest when the first whites came.

We have told in this series of the battles between the Chippewa and Sioux for control of the rice fields in Minnesota and of the struggle for lands in the Red river valley on both sides of the river where wild rice grew less abundantly, although abundant enough to give its name to two tributaries of the Red.

But recently we read an interesting article about wild rice in the current issue of The Beaver, historical magazine published by the Hudson's Bay company of Canada. While our northwest had plenty of wild rice it appears that the vast stretches of the Canadian west had much more, and, first, we wish to show that there were some who appreciated the importance of wild rice as a food. As early as 1766 an explorer wrote of the staple: "In future periods it will be of great service to the infant colonies as it will afford them a present support until, in the course of cultivation, other supplies can be produced. In 1775 another writer said: "Without a large quantity of wild rice (obtained at the Lake of the Woods) the voyage beyond the Saskatchewan river could never have been completed."

These statements The Beaver presents to show the value of wild rice in those early exploration years. Then in 1828 another writer said:

"It is astonishing, amidst all our eager and multiplied agricultural researches, that so little attention has been bestowed upon this interesting and valuable grain. It has scarcely been known (in Canada), except by Canadian hunters and savages, that such a grain, the resource of a vast country, existed. It is a mistake that it is found only in the northern regions."

Now what we wish to emphasize is that every great racial or national group exists because of its ability to provide its own food. The Chinese have subsisted for centuries on rice which they have produced. The Japanese also have native rice but lack of room in which to raise it and other factors have made the soy bean essential as a food in Japan at least partly, causing the Japanese aggressions of recent years. Rice also is a basic food in India and in other lands where civilizations of a sort have held together.

Here in the northwest wild rice was available. The Indians knew of its food value and at the time of the advent of white men depended chiefly on it. History records that about the middle of the eighteenth century the Chippewa were paying tribute to the Sioux for the right to harvest wild rice in parts of Minnesota.

Suppose, through the agency of whites the Chippewa and Sioux composed their differences and shared the rice, taking steps to increase its growth in a wild state on a greater scale. Suppose, too, that the white adopted wild rice as a food on the frontier. Is it not probable that a dependence on this food might have engendered peace and unity with results totally different from what they were?

But the Indians themselves helped to make such development impossible. The Chippewa drove the Sioux from the best wild rice areas and the latter came to depend for coverings for their bodies shelter and food on the buffalo. And in the transformations that followed the arrival of the whites wild rice was overlooked. True, Indian women continued to harvest it in lakes and streams and still do so, but its value as a staple food was not appreciated generally, not even by the Indians.

The article in The Beaver tells us that efforts to domesticate wild rice have proved unsuccessful. We know, however, that Indians on reservations in Minnesota now harvest it for sale and that it may be purchased in canned form in stores. We believe that if scientists gave their attention to the problem a way of domesticating wild rice would be found. The Beaver says a schooner with "wings" is used to harvest the rice in Canada instead of the sticks used by Indians to beat off the heads. Certainly nature's part in providing the wild rice is deserving of consideration as to the possibilities in the cosmic scheme.

COUNCIL HIRES ENGINEER FOR SEWAGE PLANT

Grand Forks Man Will Make Survey to Bring Out Cost Figures

VOTE $198 FOR RIVER DEVELOPMENT GROUP

Fixes Rate of 2 Cents KWH for Rural Electrification Project

The city council at an adjourned meeting Friday evening engaged the services of E. L. Llum, Grand Forks consulting engineer, to prepare cost estimates and other details for a proposed sewage disposal plant for this city, and to cooperate with city officials in efforts to secure federal funds for the project, either thru the WPA or the PWA.

Mr. Llum, who was present at the meeting, said he would submit his report at the earliest possible date. In the event a federal grant is approved, it will be necessary to submit the matter of issuing bonds to the voters of Thief River Falls at a special election. Action on the matter was taken at the insistence of residents of the south section of the city who have been greatly annoyed during the recent hot weather by sewage odors from the river.

At the same time the council voted to contribute $198 to a total of $1,500 to finance the efforts of a special committee of the Red Lake River Development association to secure federal aid to increase the available water supply for this city and other communities farther down Red Lake river.

A representative of the federal rural electrification administration was present at the meeting and advised the council that the government would not approve a charge of more than two cents a kilowatt hour for supplying current at wholesale for the Goodridge project. The council originally had quoted a price of 2½ cents. Following a discussion in which it was brought out that the demand would probably not exceed 30 to 40 kilowatts for the first section of the project, the council agreed to offer a rate of two cents a kilowatt hour on a three-year contract. It was indicated at the meeting that the project is ready to go forward as soon as the source of power has been arranged.

LEAGUE-LEADING TEAMS IN BATTLE HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Local Team and St. Hilaire Have Each Won Eight Games in Row

Sunday will determine the League leader when Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire, both with a record of eight wins and no defeats in league play, will fight it out for top position. The game will be played at the fair grounds at 3 o'clock.

St. Hilaire has been impressive in its victories and will probably give the Lee-coached team the toughest assignment of the year. The stage is set, the teams are ready, and the fans are anxiously waiting for the fateful battle.

In a 5 inning postponed game Sunday, Thief River Falls downed the third-place Oklee nine 18-4. Sunday the Junior Civic and Commerce sponsored team held top position in the league with St. Hilaire by defeating Goodridge 12-4. The game was close until the eighth when Thief River staged another late rally, rapping in 9 runs. MEET TO DISCUSS DELEGATION TO GO TO U. S. CAPITAL

Group Meets Here to Push Plans to Carry on Red Lake River Project

A special committee of the Red Lake River Development association recently appointed to promote the local water conservation project endorsed by the state planning board met in this city Friday evening and discussed the personnel of the delegation that will shortly be sent to Washington to seek the approval of President Roosevelt. The members will probably be named next week, Chairman Morris Bye announced today.

The Red Lake river project recommended by the planning board proposes as a first stage that a pilot channel be dug in the river between the outlet and Highlanding, a distance of 41 miles, before the winter of 1936, and that the remainder of the work be completed in 1937, the cost of the undertaking being estimated at $437,200.

The plan calls for controlling the Red lake water level between the extreme limits of 1171 to 1175 feet above sea level, which, it is contended, would permit a minimum dependable flow of 150 cubic feet per second. The planning board's report states that the project has been approved by the WPA and recommended subject to review by the department of the interior.

LOIS ODEN WEDS HAROLD OBRESTAD IN RITES FRIDAY

Ceremony Performed by Rev. Fjelstad in Trinity Church

At a beautifully appointed Wedding Friday, July 17th, at 7:30 o'clock Miss Lois Oden became the bride of Rev. Harold L. Obrestad. The services, read in the light of tall tapers, were conducted by Rev. R. M. Fjelstad at the Trinity Lutheran church, which was profusely decorated with baskets of multi-colored garden flowers. Several minutes of nuptial music was provided by Mrs. A. Hamilton and Robert Lund, who sang, "Oh Perfect Love" and "Until".

The bride, gowned in ivory satin, was given in marriage by her father, A. J. Oden. The gown was fashioned with a cowl neckline and sleeves fitted except for a bit of fullness at the shoulder. An elaborate rhinestone buckle fastened the belt, and the fitted skirt was cut with a brief train. The finger tip net veil was fastened to a wreath of braided ivory satin. The bride carried a white leather bible with satin streamers intertwined with myrtle.

Miss Olive Olson, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. She was dressed in ice blue mousseline de sole with a large cape collar. The bridesmaid, Miss Linnea Backlund was dressed in blush pink of the same material. Both carried bouquets of blue delphiniums, baby breath, and gladioli.

The groomsmen were Clarence Kristenson of Chicago, best man, and Sigvold Fauske of Minneapolis, attendant. Robert Oden and Robert Frissell were the ushers.

Miss Oden is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Oden, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Justine Obrestad of Chicago, Ill. The bride's mother wore soiree blue sheer trimmed in dubonnet velvet and a corsage of mixed flowers.

An informal reception was held at the Oden home immediately following the ceremony. The table was decorated with the brides cake and tall white tapers. About 75 attended. Out of town guests included: Rev. and Mrs. S. L. Tallakson and family of Fergus Falls; Miss Alpha Elkness of Gonvick; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elleson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Obrestad, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Obrestad and daughter, Lois, Mrs. R. Schultz, Mrs. F. Lundquist, and the Misses Agnes and Olive Obrestad, all of Chicago; Rev. A. Abrahamson of Badger; Miss Clara Halvorson of Warren; Mrs. H. Hall, Mrs. H. L. Fish and daughter, Geraldine, and Mrs. C. E. Oden and Miss Helen Merle Oden of Minneapolis; and Mr. and Mrs. Herrigstad of Lengby.

Rev. and Mrs. Obrestad left the same evening on a wedding trip to Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and other points on the West Coast. They plan to travel via the Black Hills and Yellowstone National Park. For traveling the bride wore a navy sheer with white accessories.

After three weeks the couple will be at home at Couer d'Alene, Idaho, where the groom is pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church.

Black Country in England

The Black country is the highly industrialized region, mostly in Staffordshire and partly in Worcestershire and Warwickshire, England. The site of innumerable coal mines, furnaces, ironworks and laborers' dwellings, it is an unlovely and poverty-ridden region. It furnishes a background for a number of England's modern realistic novels

WOMAN'S PROJECT IN PENNINGTON CO. ENDS THIS MONTH

Last of Series of Four Leaders Meetings Held This Week

This month completes the woman's project work in home management, four monthly meetings having been held under the leadership of Miss Charlotte Kirchner of University Farm.

Suggestions have been given to the 200 women enrolled on arranging work centers to make the kitchen convenient so as to save steps. Plans for kitchen cupboards and cabinets were discussed with reference to the supplies and equipment placed there.

Equipment for the kitchen was the theme of the second lesson. Healthful working heights, posture, and other features such as color schemes were discussed.

Special work was given on available types of cleaning and laundering equipment. Cleaning supplies and methods of cleaning and laundering household materials was studied.

Storage spaces all over the house was the final topic taken up at meetings held at Thief River Falls on July 20th, Goodridge on the 21st and St. Hilaire on the 22. Plans are being made for the continuation of the project next spring.

Next Golf Luncheon to be Held on Tuesday

The golf club luncheon, which was to have taken place Wednesday of next week, as usual, has been set for the preceding day, Tuesday, at 1:30, owing to the fact that Wednesday has been designated as Thief River Falls day at the Pennington County fair. Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. Stanton R. Dahlen and Miss Rosine Dahlen, and members who plan to attend are requested to notify either of the hostesses.

At the luncheon yesterday, Mrs. Gunder Legvold was elected treasurer of the organization, the president, Mrs. B. Borreson, having been chosen at the beginning of the season.

Dinner Party

Mrs. John Lind entertained Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith and son and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Almstedt and son at dinner Thursday evening.

Wm. Froehlich Married at Minneapolis Sat. to Jeanette Libby

A Minneapolis marriage of interest to local residents is that of Miss Jeanette Libby and William P. Froehlich, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Froehlich, formerly of this city. They were married in the elm-shaded living room of the bride's home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Philip E. Gregory of the First Congregational Church.

The bride wore white mousseline de sole, sleeveless with a cape effect. The full skirt was topped by a peplum. Sweetheart roses were fashioned into a wreath for her hair, and she carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses.

The brides only attendant was her sister, Miss Ruth Libby, attired in blue mousseline de sole with a very full skirt and puffed sleeves. The best man was Clifford Froehlich, brother of the groom.

The dining room was decorated in white at the luncheon served following the ceremony to the families and intimate friends. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher of Duluth; the bride's grandmother, Mrs. E. L. Ware of Grand Forks, N. D.; and the 94 year old grandfather of the bridegroom, William Froehlich of Mankato. The brides mother wore blue and white flowered chiffon, and Mrs. Froehlich was gowned in dubonnet chiffon.

A bridal dinner was given the previous evening by Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Froehlich at 7 o'clock in the Oak Lounge of the King Cole Hotel. A color scheme of green and white was used, and vignetted figures of the honor guests decorated the place cards.

After a wedding trip to Northern Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Froehlich will be at home at 715 Eighth Street S. E. The brides traveling costume was in black and white.

Rose Point in STERLING...

A new pattern by Wallace... as exquisite... and as elegant... as the finest rose point bridal veil.

The lacy design and delicate open work treatment of Rose Point make it a rich object. It is conceived in a decidedly modern manner, but reminiscent of the artistry and composition of priceless old rose point lace. And the price... is very moderate.

A RECORD HEAT WAVE

Now that we are through with that sort of thing for this year at least (we hope) it is interesting to know that this month has shattered most of the country's hot weather records. The world's hot weather record is held by Azizia in Tripoli with an officially recorded temperature of 136. The all-time American record of 134 was recorded in Death Valley, California, in 1913. The highest temperature recorded in the United States in 1936, 120 degrees, was registered over at Wishek, North Dakota; which is getting pretty close to home.

It seems strange that temperatures should be just as high, or higher, in northern states as they are in the southern. Large areas of the tropics are cooler than what we refer to as the temperate zone. This is explained by official explainers by the fact that in the more northern areas there are more hours of sunshine and a thinner screen of heat absorbing vapor. Which is a fortunate arrangement from the standpoint of maturing crops. Most people will agree, however, that this temperate zone of ours is decidedly intemperate. In this respect it resembles some of our people.

But getting back to the heat wave, which fortunately was not a permanent, it was the hottest hot spell on record and will give us something to talk about for years to come. More heat records were established during this two weeks period than in any other summer. And here is good news. Contrary to popular opinion, weather bureau scientists say there is no reason to believe that our climate is undergoing a permanent change or that the extreme weather of recent years has been caused by the cutting down of forests or the plowing of the plains. The present dry spell is a part of a warm weather cycle that has been with us for a quarter of a century, they say, but which, they assure us, should not last much longer.

But if it's going to last very many quarter centuries it might as well be permanent as far as we are concerned.

Is the Pennington County Fair going to be up to standard this year? Nobody knows. Not even the fair management. And nobody will know until the fair is actually under way. And even then there will be, as usual, disagreement. It all depends on the point of view. Lining up a fair is a lot like baking a cake. The same good formula does not always bring the same good results. But if planning and preparation mean anything then the 1936 fair should be the best ever. Department heads have put extra effort into their drive for exhibits. Entertainment features have been carefully selected. Every possible provision has been made for the comfort and safety of spectators. But the proof of the pudding is in the eating and the customers will decide whether it is a good show or a wasted effort.

County fair dates are a week early this year but the harvest is still earlier. Ordinarily the harvest doesn't get under way until the fair is out of the way. This year most of the small grain will be in shocks by the time the fair has ended. Which is fair enough. It would be more shocking if there were no shocks.

A few months ago we made a discouraging comment on the futility of the Republican national campaign this year. At that time it appeared that Roosevelt was a sure thing for re-election. Now, however, the situation is different. It is going to be a fight and the Democrats will have to battle to hold their position. A recent poll of public opinion indicates that Roosevelt has lost ground and that while he is still leading in popular votes by a slight majority, Landon has enough electoral votes to be elected. A poll, of course, is only a poll and elections are not decided until election day. By November many things can change. But considering the accuracy of these polls in gauging public sentiment in the past, they must be given respectful consideration. And based on the figures released in this last poll it is fair to say that the election isn't in anybody's bag at the present time.

This week's medal for good community service goes to the Smiley Community Club for doing an outstanding job in its presentation of the pageant Sunday. The well managed program had high value as entertainment. It also justified itself through the encouragement it gave to our Indian neighbors to perpetuate their interest in the dances and rituals of their forefathers. One of the entertainers, Peter Sitting, has won national recognition as an Indian dancer. All of the performers made a creditable appearance, and, especially under the lights of the evening performance, presented a very colorful spectacle. Such programs give us a realistic glimpse into the shadows of an interesting past, and from the standpoint of historical value alone they should be encouraged.

For those who like horse racing the Pennington County Fair this year is going to offer an interesting program. In the neighborhood of sixty horses, including a representative group from the Mae West Stables in California, are on hand for the competition and there will be a real contest in all classes.

In addition to the regular professional entertainment, the fair program this year will include events designed to encourage home talent. A short amateur program preceding the regular entertainment Friday evening will give local entertainers an opportunity to do their stuff. A pig race for girls, a bicycle race for boys and a horse shoe pitching contest are other attractions that will draw upon the local source of talent. If these events meet with approval their number and variety will probably be increased next year. And, after all, a community fair is a proper place to hold community championship contests.

The way of the world is to praise dead saints and to persecute living ones. N. Howe.

In my life I have had many troubles, most of which never happened. Mark Twain.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

H. R. 7154-74th Congress, Generally known as The Townsend Plan. This bill was introduced in Congress by Congressman McGroarty and is the greatest humanitarian proposal now pending. But now, as always, measures of great benefit to the common people as a whole, this bill has been ridiculed, misrepresented and pronounced unworkable, so that people in many cases have an entirely erroneous idea regarding its provisions and objects.

H. R. No. 7154 provides that federal taxes shall be levied and placed into a fund for the payment of pensions to people over sixty years old who agree to refrain from gainful occupations and to spend the pension same month as received. Anyone having an income of $2,400 or over cannot come in for this pension. The four taxes to be levied are as follows: On net incomes an amount equal to one tenth of the present income tax; a two per cent tax on transactions; a two per cent tax on gifts exceeding $500, and a two per cent tax on inheritances.

The bill provides that the amount of these four taxes shall be prorated among all eligible applicants for the pension after the necessary expenses of administration have been deducted, except that in cases where the applicant has other income it shall be deducted from his pension and pensions shall not exceed $200 per month.

Anyone having the love of the truth and square dealing will be unable to find any valid objection to this measure, and should therefore send to his congressman for a copy of H. R. 7154 and study it so as to be able to defend it against this insidious propaganda of ridicule and misrepresentation which is put out by the big, eastern financiers and their hirelings as well as by some careless people who are in the habit of criticizing matters they do not know.

The main objective of the plan is to wipe out the "depression" by furnishing needed purchasing power to keep production up to where all middle aged and young workers get employment. The other objective is to provide security for a decent standard of living for those too old to be working.

It will be much more proper to eliminate those old people from industry than to have young people, whose character is not yet fully formed, go idle. It is no more than right that people should be taken care of when too old to take care of themselves, and therefore the Townsend organization is planning to put in a constitutional amendment so as to be certain the system of old age annuities will be permanent, and thus make it a citizen's right and not a pauper pension.

Take for instance the tax on transactions. Consider the enormous amounts traded on Stock exchanges, grain exchanges, boards of trade! This tax will either produce an enormous income from these gambling institutions, or it will reduce gambling in food and other necessary commodities!

Think of the enormous pick-up in manufacturing and other productions and distribution when this system gets into actual operation! Why should not all business men, laborers and farmers push along and get the plan into law, instead of letting themselves be fooled by the boondogling and bamboozling of the Old Parties, and those who want most people to be down in poverty? I see no logical reason. The Union Party, with Lemke for Presidential candidate should get a tremendous big vote this fall, in order to throw the election into congress and thus get some recognition for demands of the common people.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

The thoroughbred always displays his class when the going becomes toughest. It is that something in the heart which the scientists have as yet been unable to discover. It is more than mere physical and mental equipment.

The thoroughbred on the race track will spot his opponent physical advantage and make him give up. He will discourage his opponent on the wrestling mat when the breathing becomes short and laborious. In the prize ring he will attain victory against superior skill and strength. A "money player" on the baseball diamond is merely evidence of a mans' gameness. Only few possess it.

One of the finest tributes ever paid to Governor Olson came the other day from a political writer on one of the conservative papers when he attested to the Governor's gameness and fighting qualities. This, he said, is admired by friend and foe alike.

Governor Olson displayed this quality long before he underwent the surgeon's knife. As prosecutor of Hennepin county he did not hesitate to send a corrupt and powerful group of city politicians to the penitentiary. He brought officers of the Ku Klux Klan into court and successfully prosecuted them at a time when the mere mention of the Klan struck fear to the hearts of public officials. And he defied all the powers and resources of wealth when he, as Governor, ordered out the National Guard, not to shoot down strikes but to protect the rights of the workers seeking to better their economic condition.

There was something that showed the Governor's rare courage—that touch of class—when he went to the operating table the other day smiling and joking. "Be sure you don't pass out," he told his chauffeur as he was going under the effect of the anesthetic.

It is true the operation was a relatively simple one, but all operations are serious affairs in the mind of the patient. You can't smile just before they are going to cut you open—not unless you have the kind of "ticker" that the skipper, as his friends call him, has.

Attorney General Harry H. Peterson, speaking before a mass meeting of relief clients on the Capitol steps last Saturday, declared that while other states have liberal relief rules, Minnesota, because of decisions of the State Supreme court, must treat all relief clients as paupers. He characterized the language of an early decision in which the court declared "that in the midst of such a great public calamity, a person who is within one degree of being a pauper, and in imminent danger of becoming such, may, for the purpose of preventing him from becoming such, be given aid by the state or municipality without violating the Constitution," as narrow and heartless. At the same time he attacked the recent legislature for its pinch-penny policy in refusing aid to needy citizens.

BIG ARRAY OF EXHIBITS AT COUNTY FAIR

LIVESTOCK SHOWING TO BE IN LIMELIGHT

Women's Interests Are Given Special Attention at Pennington Fair

More than $1,500 offered as prize money for exhibits of various farm products, livestock, grains, seeds, etc., assures a big show in this form of exhibition at the Pennington County Fair this year. Last year's record will be broken this year according to Robert J. Lund, secretary, judging by the unusual interest already displayed by exhibitors. Premium lists were distributed thruout this region last week.

The exhibits of livestock will attract most attention as usual, Mr. Lund says. The cattle show is especially worth while, Guernseys and Holsteins being the favored breeds. Judges in past years have stated that the Pennington County Fair Guernsey show is one of the best in the Northwest, many leading Guernsey breeders being located in this territory. Competition in this breed is always keen and anyone interested in Guernseys will find this department especially worth while. The Holstein show this year will be more complete than ever before according to the superintendent of the department, and interesting exhibits of other breeds are assured.

Sheep, hogs and horses have always had plenty of competition at the Pennington County Fair, especially in the leading breeds. The increase in sheep in this section of the state in recent years has tended to increase the interest in this department and each year the exhibit has made notable progress.

Poultry has become one of the principal revenue producers of this section of the state and the poultry exhibit has become one of the principal departments of the Pennington County Fair.

Grains, grasses, seeds, flowers, vegetables and fruits will be displayed in abundance. Sewing, cooking, fancy needle work, painting, drawing and other art work, along with a large display of educational exhibits lend variety to displays. Liberal prizes make the competition worth while in all departments. The Fair management appreciates the fact that the principal purpose of the Fair is to stimulate interest in quality products in this section of the state. Entertainment is secondary and every possible effort is put forth to make the Pennington County Fair a truly great community exposition.

SOIL CONSERVING BASES ANNOUNCED SOON FOR COUNTY

Program Will be Further Explained at Series of Meetings

The bases on farms signed up under the soil conservation program are expected to be sent to the producers in Pennington county in the near future, county Agent R. M. Douglass announced today.

When the producers are notified of the bases, they should check to see if they are in line for their maximum payment this year. The base figure will be given on the notification of the base for the farm and in order to obtain the maximum payment, a 15% reduction from this base is necessary. It will be necessary to adjust all of these bases by the committeemen so that some of them may be smaller than the 1935 acres. In that case, if the maximum payment is desired it will be necessary to have a stand of legumes on this land representing the 15% reduction.

Very soon a series of meetings will be held in the county explaining these new provisions and to go over the new method of payment which has been made more liberal because of the drouth. Anyone intending to apply for a grant should be sure to attend these meetings to get the information first hand.

WLS Barn Dance Shows Here Tuesday Evening

Coming to Thief River Falls from Chicago, the original WLS barn dance entertainers, who have gained nation-wide fame for their radio activities, will appear at the Pennington county fair for a one-night stand Tuesday evening, July 28.

The program, which will continue for a full hour and one-half, will feature Tom Owen's Cornhuskers band; Pat Buttram, monologist and singer; "Red" Foley and Eva in vocal duets; and songs by the Kasper sisters, known as the Hayloft trio.

With fiddles, guitars, banjoes and harmonicas galore, the boys and girls of the WLS National Barn Dance open up their air and stage shows with the good old theme song. And that's the signal for at least an hour of bright, peppy, clean old-fashioned entertainment of the kind that dad and mother used to enjoy.

The barn dance is a happy tradition in almost every American community. For many decades, folks got together to dance the old-fashioned reels, polkas, scottisches and breakdown. And they'd sing the lively and sentimental ballads so popular in the yesteryear.

Since 1924, when WLS decided to reproduce this old-fashioned type of entertainment every Saturday night, the popularity of the Barn Dance has grown by leaps and bounds. It is now broadcast on an NBC network of over 60 stations from New York to Honolulu. Millions listen to it—dance to the old-fashioned fiddlin' and sing the heart and home songs.

With such a background, the WLS National Barn Dance comes to Thief River Falls Tuesday, July 28. The stage will be transformed into a hayloft scene, the members of the cast will be in rural costumes, and the toe ticklin' music will be ushered in with the ringing of cowbells.

The boys and girls appearing on the show are regular stars on the Barn Dance that has played to nearly 500,000 folks at the Eighth Street Theatre in Chicago.

JUNIOR BALL TEAM IS ELIMINATED IN SUBDISTRICT TILT

Crookston Wins Tight 3-2 Battle in First Round of Tourney

The junior league baseball team sponsored by Elmer J. Eklund post of the American Legion Monday lost a heart-breaking game to Crookston 3 to 2 in the subdistrict tourney at East Grand Forks, and won the consolation game from Winger 8 to 7. Crookston won the subdistrict title by defeating East Grand Forks 3 to 2 Monday evening.

In the Crookston game Helmer Sahl, pitching for Thief River Falls, pitched a perfect game for 5⅔ innings, not a man reaching first base during the period. With two men disposed of in the sixth inning, a walk and an error put the first men on base, both scoring on the first hit. Fans were unanimous in saying this was one of the best pitched games they had ever witnessed.

Helquist pitched against Winger and coasted to victory after the locals gave him a six-man lead in the first inning. Every boy on the squad took part in the game. The local team will play Crookston at the fair grounds this evening at 6:15, and Sahl will again try his luck.

Extremely Hot Weather Ends Locally Saturday

A cool wind from the northeast Saturday evening brought to an end a two-weeks period of temperatures ranging around the 100-degree mark or higher. A hard shower arrived in the city and some nearby points early Sunday evening, and was accompanied by a fall of hail which damaged crops northeast of the city and in the Holt vicinity. Moderate temperatures have prevailed since, the mercury this morning registering in the 70s.

Road construction contracts, mostly on farm-to-market roads, aggregating $76,169 have been awarded by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. The work is in seven counties and includes 10 miles of grading, 13 miles of gravel surfacing, one mile of grading and stabilized gravel surfacing and one bridge eliminating a grade crossing in Blue Earth county. The jobs on farm-to-market roads are in Big Stone, Grant, Pine, Stearns, Ramsey and Wilkin counties. The bridge is over the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad.

VARIED PROGRAM OF ENTERTAINMENT AT BIG FAIR NEXT WEEK

many listeners to the radio programs broadcast from Chicago will welcome the opportunity to get a first-hand glimpse of the entertainers.

The program in front of the grandstand Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings will be featured by the "Around the Town" revue offering a large group of attractive girls in a series of vocal and instrumental offerings and dance numbers, with special music provided by the company's own band, as well as attractive scenic backgrounds.

Rounding out the evening programs, as well as appearing at the afternoon performances while the horse races are in progress, will be a group of high grade vaudeville attractions, including Eddie Ruton's dogs, a feature of which will be a leap by a member of the canine troupe from a 40-foot pedestal into a blanket; the Six Skating Marvels, performing solo and group stunts on roller skates; the Five American Eagles in a series of hair-raising aerial gymnastic thrillers; and Cuby & Smith, burlesque acrobats, who will provide the necessary comic relief.

More than fifty horses from all sections of Minnesota, as well as Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Canada, and the Mae West stables in Hollywood, will compete in a series of seven pacing, trotting and free-for-all events scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. Much work has been done on the race track this month, and it is expected to be in perfect condition for the races next week, according to Harry Lund, in charge of the race program.

Midway attractions for the fair next week will be provided by Hennies Brothers shows, which made a favorable impression with their appearance at the fair in Thief River Falls in 1935. Included in the offerings will be twelve riding devices for the youngsters, as well as no less than fourteen shows of various kinds.

Numerous improvements have been made in the fair grounds equipment in preparation for this year's fair, Secretary Robert J. Lund announced. Included is the rebuilding of the bleachers, which together with the grandstand, now have a seating capacity in excess of 2,500; together with the application of a coat of aluminum paint to several buildings on the grounds.

New additions to the fair program this year will include a prize contest for amateur entertainers of this section to be conducted under the direction of Harold F. Harrison; and a boys' bicycle race and a contest to determine the horseshoe pitching champion of Pennington county, both of which events will be in charge of W. G. Claffy, Lincoln high school principal.

Despite somewhat unfavorable growing conditions this summer an excellent array of products of the farm and garden will be exhibited at the fair next week. The display of the various classes of livestock, including 4-H exhibits, also is expected to be fully up to the standard of past years, according to superintendents in charge of the departments.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR STATE LEGION MEET AUG. 15 TO 19

More Than 800 Musicians to Attend '36 Convention in Brainerd

According to Henry C. Mills, general chairman of the Brainerd State American Legion convention to be held at Brainerd August 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19, the convention city will ring with music and song. To date over 800 musicians have made reservations to attend the convention. Drum and bugle corps will sound the military strain with martial music, but there will also be bands and orchestras, glee clubs octets, quartets and trio singers—besides the informal songs which always characterize gatherings of the veterans.

The ten district conventions of the state plan to send bands to the convention and numerous drum and bugle corps and several glee clubs also are already promised. The St. Paul Post No. 8 drum corps is sponsored by the Fourth district of St. Paul.

The 60-piece Mankato Legion drum corps is attired in full Chippewa tribal regalia, wearing 16-inch eagle tail feathers in their headdress, with buckskin suits. The corps made a sensation when it appeared in the national exposition at Cleveland, Ohio. They will travel in Pullman sleepers with a baggage car for their equipment.

Rochester Post and band are coming in a special train of Pullmans and their equipment will be carried in baggage cars. Winnipeg will come in a special train, carrying 75 or more exservice men, accompanied by the Winnipeg Pipers Band. They have already reserved quarters in the Washington High School. They leave Winnipeg on August 16 and will spend the following two days in Brainerd. Special trains are also expected from Duluth and the Mesabi country, Bemidji and the north country and the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Other organizations pledged to go to the convention, Mills said, include: St. Paul Post No. 8 drum corps, sponsored by the Fourth district of St. Paul; Ely drum corps, 40 men; Sleepy Eye drum corps, 35; David Wisted post band of Duluth, 42; Cambridge American Legion band, 30; Chisholm drum corps 36; East Side post No. 366 drum corps, St. Paul, 36; Wells Legion Auxiliary drum corps, 18; Thief River Falls Legion Auxiliary drum corps, 28; Aitkin drum corps, 33; F. A. Auxiliary drum corps, Duluth, 30; St. Paul East Side Auxiliary glee club, 30 singers; American Legion Auxiliary glee club of Fergus Falls, 26, and Crookston Legion Auxiliary trio.

DEER WITH COW'S TAIL IS A FACT— NOT A TALL TALE

Pillager.—If someone told of a deer with a cow's tail you might think it a "tall tale." But several substantial citizens have reported seeing a wild deer with such a tail a few miles west of Pillager. The animal is quite an oddity, and several have gotten quite close to the curious animal.

MAE WEST STABLE OF RACE HORSES IS COMING FOR FAIR

Over 50 Entries From Thruout Northwest for the Races Next Week

Followers of horse racing will see some of the fastest competition ever witnessed in Northwestern Minnesota at the Pennington county fair next week, it was indicated today on the basis of a big field of entries received from a half-dozen states and Canada.

Harry Lund, in charge of the program, announced that more than fifty horses have been entered in the seven scheduled events, headliners being seven entries from the Hollywood, California, stables of Mae West, famous movie star and originator of the expression "Come up and see me some time." Miss West is an ardent follower of horse racing, and her entries are expected to furnish stiff competition.

Other entries, including horses that have competed at the Minnesota state fair and in the Grand Circuit races, are coming from all sections of this state, as well as Canada, Wisconsin, Iowa and North and South Dakota.

The program for next Wednesday afternoon calls for the 2:16 pace, the 2:24 trot and a running race, while the 2:24 pace and 2:16 trot will be run off Thursday. The major event Friday, the last day of the fair, will be the free-for-all, with a running race to complete the program.

$650,000 Highway Jobs to be Awarded Shortly

Bids on nine highway construction jobs estimated to cost approximately $650,000 have been called for July 31 and August 7, by the state highway department. Four miles of grading and gravel surfacing, 4 miles of grading and stabilized base, 8½ miles of grading, three bridges and two culverts are proposed in the following seven counties: Anoka, Big Stone, Fillmore, Houston, Kandiyohi, Pipestone and St. Louis. Projects in Kandiyohi and Pipestone counties and one job in Houston county are in the August 7 letting while the others are up for July 31.

PARTNERS 28 YEARS ARE GRANDPARENTS SAME DAY

Wanamingo.—For twenty-eight years partners in business, Adolph K. Syverson and Martin O. Syverson of Wanamingo last week became grandfathers on the same day and less than an hour apart. Daughters of each of them gave birth to baby daughters. The first baby to arrive was born to Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, daughter of Adolph, in Minneapolis. The other baby was born to Mrs. Kent Bergum, Martin's daughter, in Rochester 20 minutes later. The two partners locked up shop that day, and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph motored to Minneapolis and Mr. and Mrs. Martin motored to Rochester to greet the new babies and pay a visit to their daughters and sons-in-law. It was the first grandchild for each of the two partners in business, who are also brothers.

CROPS AND SOILS DAY AT NORTHWEST SCHOOL DRAWS 175

Simon Breiland of Hazel Is Elected Director of Association

The annual Crops and Soils day at the Northwest Experiment Station was held under the auspices of the Red River Valley Crops & Soils association, Monday, July 13. In spite of temperatures over 100 degrees, about 175 farmers and their families attended. At a business meeting of the Crops & Soils association, Melvin Fleskrud of Fosston was elected president to succeed Herman Skyberg, Fisher, who had served three years. Theodore Mellum, Ulen, was re-elected vice-president, and S. M. Sivertson, Crookston, and R. S. Dunham, Northwest Station, were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively. Directors from each of the thirteen northwestern counties elected for the ensuing year are as follows: Kittson, Lawrence Ward, St. Vincent; Roseau, Lenus Landby, Swift; Pennington, Simon Breiland, Hazel; Marshall, Alfred Hvidsten, Stephen; Red Lake, Maurice Lallo, Oklee; Clearwater, J. Al. Anderson, Gonvick; W. Polk, Herman Skyberg, Fisher; E. Polk, Wm. B. Moll, McIntosh; Norman, Wm. Frederickson, Perley; Becker, Fordyce Larson, Ulen; Clay, Hans Johnson, Rollag; Wilkin, Wm. Fredricks, Foxhome, West Ottertail, Theo. Thompson, Fergus Falls; East Ottertail, W. H. Frey, Perham.

Following an address of welcome by Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent of the Northwest School and Station, the men made a tour of the experimental plots and the women were shown the flowers, poultry, and home economics equipment by T. M. McCall, A. M. Pilkey and Retta Bede. On the tour of the plots, horticultural work and potatoes were explained by T. M. McCall. The Agronomy work was presented by R. S. Dunham, Agronomist and E. R. Clark, pure seed specialist. Dr. F. J. Alway, chief of the division of soils and Dr. J. J. Christensen and Prof. M. Moore of the Plant Pathology division, University Farm, assisted in the discussion, and Prof. Wong, a plant pathologist from China was a distinguished visitor.

Among the agronomy plots, greatest interest centered in the comprehensive trials of sweet clover as a soil improvement crop. Prof. Dunham explained that this investigation was begun in 1931 with a preliminary study of the effect of methods of sowing on the yield and root and top development of sweet clover and has been greatly enlarged in its scope since that time. The plots this year show the marked effects of complete and partial fallow in a year of deficient moisture. Wheat, oats, barley and flax following a season of complete fallow are in best condition at this time and where following sweet clover that was plowed under in June last year and fallowed subsequently they look almost as good. These crops following two years of wheat look worst. Corn has not conserved moisture or controlled weeds as well as the complete fallow or the partial fallow following sweet clover plowed under.

Jung of this city is a director of the association representing Pennington county.

WOMAN'S BLOOMERS INSUFFICIENT DRESS

Littlefork.—Heat or no heat, no nudists will be tolerated in Littlefork, says Policeman Koester, as he warned one person, clad only in a pair of women's bloomers, that he would have to wear more clothes on the public streets or go to jail. The order was complied with. "It's not that I care," said the policeman, "but I don't think the village council will stand for it." And to make matters worse, several persons have been seen wandering around the streets recently clad in only a night shirt.

FINDS TWO LAMBS IN EWE CUT OPEN FOR FEED

Balaton.—To some readers this may sound like a wild story, but you may see proof gamboling about the yard of the G. A. Dennin home north of Balaton any day. W. H. Towne, a neighbor, reported to Dennin that two of his ewes had been injured by a dog believed to be Dennin's and asked for settlement. Dennen paid for the sheep and took one of them home, still alive to be used for hog feed. He had killed the ewe and was cutting open the carcass when he noticed signs of life within. He proceeded more carefully and soon removed two lambs alive and well. The lambs were fed at first from a spoon, but were soon drinking from a bottle. Now they graze in the yard and they still come to the house regularly for their drink of milk.

Life of Insects

The life cycle of most insects is very brief. Many do not live longer than a single season. The longest period of the life history of any insect is undoubtedly the space of 17 years which lapses between the burial of the larva and the emergence of the adult insect in the case of the periodical cicada.

CHILDREN GET IN FREE AT FAIR IF UNDER AGE OF 12

Large families are not penalized at the Pennington County Fair—children under twelve years of age are admitted free. And if you don't think this arrangement is appreciated by the good people of Northwestern Minnesota just spend a half an hour at the gate this year and watch the big families roll smilingly by the ticket taker.

The only qualification necessary to a free admission is that they be twelve years old or under and be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

So bring the children. Bring the neighbors' children if you are so inclined. Children get a real wallop out of a fair. You were a kid once yourself. Remember? A fair or a circus was one of the big events of your early years. You looked forward to it for weeks. And you talked about it afterwards for months. So bring the children, by all means.

The admission charge for adults is only 25 cents. So come early in the morning. Bring a picnic lunch and stay all day. Forget your troubles for just a few hours. Bury old man Gloom. Give yourself and the family a holiday. And bring the children.

FINDS POCKETBOOK LOST 12 YEARS AGO

Williams.— Just twelve years ago this month a Grand Forks woman, picking blueberries on Pete Nugent's farm southeast of Williams lost her pocketbook containing a small amount of change in berry patch. Although in the meantime Nugent had cleared up the ground, the pocketbook remained unfound until last week. It was in a fair state of preservation, and the money in it was practically undamaged. Every effort will be made to find the owner, altho in the 12 years which have passed it may be difficult. It will be a surprised woman when the incident is recalled to her by the return of purse and money.

Crossroads Newspaper Correspondence Award Goes to a Farm Woman

Mrs. Susan Frawley Eisele of Blue Earth, Minnesota, has been judged the best country newspaper correspondent of 1936, it was announced today by Wheeler McMillen, Editor of The Country Home Magazine in New York City, which sponsors the annual award to rural reporters.

Mrs. Eisele, who writes a weekly column for the Fairmont, Minn., Sentinel, lives on a farm nine miles from Blue Earth, with her husband and three children, the youngest of whom arrived almost simultaneously with word that she had been recognized as the best writer in her field.

In recognition of her work, Mrs. Eisele will receive the $200 first prize, together with a trip to New York and Washington, as soon as she is able to travel. The award is the equivalent, in rural journalism, of the Pulitzer Award in the metropolitan press. The winner last year was Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Mahnkey of Oasis, Missouri.

Mrs. Eisele's work was chosen from 3,600 clippings from country papers, submitted by the rural editors as the writing of their best correspondents. The judges, in addition to Mr. McMillen, included Miss Gertrude B. Lane, editor of The Woman's Home Companion; William L. Chenery, editor of Collier's; and Summer Blossom, editor of The American Magazine.

The annual award was inaugurated by The Country Home Magazine, a national farm publication, in an effort to give recognition to what the editors believe is a most important phase of American journalism. The quality of writing submitted, according to Mr. McMillen, has been extremely high; simple and straightforward.

Egg Producers Urged to Use Care in Hot Weather

The Minnesota egg, butter and poultry association in its campaign of education to improve the poultry and egg industry in Minnesota points out that huge losses are suffered during this hot weather due to the fact that the egg producers are not careful in handling the eggs at this time. Eggs are a highly perishable product and it is very essential and vitally necessary that eggs be kept in a cool, dry place. They should be gathered several times a day, immediately placed in this cool place and they should be marketed at least three times per week. It should be kept in mind that this cool, dry place should be free of all offensive odors. In addition to the egg producers using great care in protecting their eggs from this heat it should be kept in mind by all of the grocers in this State that they should use care too in handling the eggs after they have bought them.

NEW ELECTRIC ORDINANCE IS READ 2D TIME

Council Makes Reduction in Third Stage of the Domestic Rate

3 PERMITS GRANTED FOR NEW BUILDINGS

To Confer With North Town Board as to Answering Fire Calls

Hearing the second reading of the proposed electricity rate ordinance and the granting of three building permits calling for an expenditure aggregating $7,500 constituted the principal business to come before the city council at an adjourned meeting Friday evening.

Permits were granted to Fred Forsberg for the construction on the Soo Line right-of-way of a seed cleaning plant and warehouse at a cost of $3,000; Thief River Falls Seed House, warehouse on the Soo Line right-of-way, $1,000; and the state highway department, gravel truck and storage garage on Arnold av. near the county warehouse, $3,500.

The only major change in the electricity rate ordinance made on its second reading involved a reduction in the domestic rate on current consumed in excess of the first 60 kilowatts from 3½ cents to three cents.

The rate on domestic current, as the ordinance now stands, calls for the first 35 kilowatts at eight cents, the next 25 kilowatts at seven cents and all excess current at three cents. The reduction was made when it was ascertained that a number of households using electric stoves would be called on to pay larger bills under the new ordinance than under the present one. ourrefa on-a

The pending ordinance also provides that no meter rent will be charged, and that users of direct current will continue to pay the same rates as at present.

The matter of the fire department responding to calls from outside the city limits, and particularly in the Town of North, again came up for discussion, the possibility being cited of a fire starting in the city while the department is answering a call outside the city limits. It was voted to invite the North town board to attend a conference with the council at an early date to discuss the matter.

"The King Steps Out" Is Avalon Offering Sunday

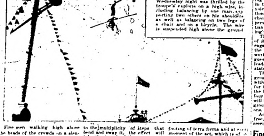
American Eagles in Thriller at County Fair This Week



Herewith are presented the Five American Eagles, one of the outstanding acts being presented in front of the grandstand at the Pennington county fair closing Friday evening. The crowd at the fair Wednesday night was thrilled by the troupe's exploits on a high wire, including balancing by one man, supporting two others on his shoulders as well as balancing on two legs of a chair and on a bicycle. The wire is suspended high above the ground.

Five men walking high above the heads of the crowds on a slender strand of wire is one of the outstanding thrills among the acts offered at the Pennington county fair which closes Friday. The American Eagles will present their act twice each day before the grandstand.

It is usually breathtaking to see one person perform on the high wire, but when five persons walk it and do stunts upon it all at the same time, the wire swaying to and fro and at uncertain angles due to the multiplicity of steps that bend and sway it, the effect will take the breath of the most cautious thrill-seeker.

There is probably no other form of aerial gymnastics that demands the same dexterity and precision to defy the laws of gravity than walking the wire. This is multiplied five-fold when the American Eagles step out upon the strand to go through their routines.

Using long bars as balancing rods, the Eagles do things on the wire that many acrobats would hesitate to perform upon the solid footing of terra firma and at every moment of the act, which is of unusually long duration for an act of this kind, their very lives hang in the balance. A single misstep and one or all would plunge to certain death before the eyes of the thousands.

There is no doubt but that the fair has secured the greatest act of its kind in the show business today in booking the American Eagles. There is no other act that even approaches it in the number of persons on the wire at one time or in the feats performed.

In a hard-fought contest Sunday at the fair grounds between the league leaders, each of which had a record of eight straight wins and no defeat in league play, the Thief River Falls baseball team downed their rivals, St. Hilaire, by the decisive score of 7 to 0. A large crowd witnessed the game, the proceedings being enlivened by music by the St. Hilaire band.

Orvalla, on the mound for the locals, pitched a fine brand of ball, striking out a total of twelve men and allowing only six scattered hits divided among five innings. W. Hallamack, pitching for St. Hilaire, struck out five men and proved vulnerable in the fourth inning when the locals got to him for four hits accounting for a total of five runs in that frame. George Lee, for the locals, accounted for three of the seven runs scored by Thief River Falls.

Ickes described the program as the "first proposal of a practical nature for the execution of a water resource plan as a major corrective for serious drouth conditions." It was worked out by a tri-state committee in co-operation with technicians of the national resources committee, of which Ickes is chairman.

Ickes said the states "had indicated a willingness" to help pay for the work and were setting up an organization to operate and maintain "existing and contemplated works under a unified plan of water management."

"The tri-state committee recommended starting immediately on a group of projects including channel improvement and control works on Red Lake river, $437,200.

Meaning of Word Humor

The word humor is taken directly from the Latin and meant fluid or moisture. Old physiologists believed there were four fluids—blood, phlegm, choler or yellow bile, and melancholy or black bile. The relative proportions of each, they reasoned with seeming logic, determined a person's mood. Hence came the expressions good humor and ill humor. But, under the wear and tear of usage, words shift their meanings. Gradually, perhaps because of man's natural optimism, the pleasant meaning triumphed over the unpleasant, and humor came to signify something wholesome, cheerful and finally, downright funny and laughable.—Rotarian Magazine.

Frankfurters Popular During Summer, Served in Variety of Styles

More than a quarter billion pounds of frankfurters are sold annually in the United States, a fact which in itself indicates that this meat has gained a prominent place in the American dietary.

Have you experimented with frankfurters to find new ways to prepare them? Miss Inez S. Willson, home economists, suggests a few which are excellent for Sunday night supper when guests have dropped in, or for that matter when only the family is present.

Stuffed Frankfurters

Choose large frankfurters. Split them lengthwise and spread the cut surface with mustard. Place a slice of cheese in the center and wrap the stuffed frankfurter with a slice of uncooked bacon. Fasten with a toothpick. Broil until the bacon is crisp and the cheese melted. Serve at once. This is particularly good when served with hot German potato salad.

Red Hat Crown

Choose large frankfurters of uniform size. Thread these onto a string so that they form the shape of a crown, with the concave side of the frankfurters toward the outside. Around the center, fasten 3 or 4 slices of bacon pinned securely with toothpicks. Fill the center with a savory bread dressing, and bake uncovered in a moderate oven until the frankfurters are puffed and the dressing heated through. Serve at once.

Any kind of bread dressing may be used with the frankfurter crown, but here is one which is particularly good:

½ pound bulk sausage
½ cup grated onion
2 frankfurters, sliced
1 loaf bread, finely diced
1 egg
Salt and pepper
Meat stock to moisten

Brown the sausage and grated onion together. Add the remaining ingredients. Moisten enough to hold the dressing together. Pack into the frankfurter crown and heat.

Frankfurters en Casserole

Split the frangfurters lengthwise and arrange in a casserole with alternate layers of cooked lima beans and frankfurters. Dot with butter, cover and bake until thoroughly heated through.

HAVE SNOWBALL FIGHT WITH TEMPERATURE 108

Granite Falls.—With the thermometer outside the George Mooney gravel pit recording 108 degrees in the shade, down in the pit where the temperature was at least 120 the drivers of the Hallet gravel trucks waged a merry snowball fight the afternoon of July 14 at Granite Falls. A liar, did you say? Read on. The steam shovel was scooping up gravel for the shouldering of highway 212. Suddenly the shovel's dipper came up half full of snow. A little careful maneuvering on the part of the operator uncovered a fine large snowbank—evidently a remainder from last winter and which had been preserved by a landslide that covered it with eight feet of gravel. For an hour or more the truck drivers were riding their vehicles with clumps of snow atop their heads, while every little while one of the perspiring men would take a headlong dive into the rapidly disappearing white bank. Several of the men, it is rumored, refused to engage in the snowball fight, fearing that the snow might melt in the air, become boiling water in the terrific heat, and scald them to death!

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear husband and father, John Hanson, who passed to his eternal rest, July 28, 1935.

One sad year has passed since that sad day.
The one we loved was called away.
When the evening shadows are falling
And with our thoughts we sit alone
To our hearts there comes this longing
If he only would come home.
But though our hearts are broken with sorrow
With the grief so hard to bear,
We will meet you, some bright
 tomorrow
In the Upper Garden there.

Vaccination Against Smallpox Is Urged by State Medical Group

A serious setback in the fight against small pox was reported in a recent reliable study of figures for the United States in comparison with other civilized countries.

The results of this study are cited by the Committee on Public Health Education of the Minnesota State Medical Association to show that a new campaign for vaccination against small pox is essential in all of the states where there are still cases and deaths from the disease.

Minnesota with a rate in 1935 of from five to nine cases for every 100,000 population in 1935 has neither the best nor the worst record in the country. There were six states west of the Mississippi and north of the Missouri that had thirty or more cases per 100,000; on the other hand, seven Eastern states including Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island had no small pox whatever last year.

The rate for the United States as a whole was 65 per 100,000 in 1935, almost a half again higher than 1934. The increase meant, in actual cases, 8,021 in 1935 as against 5,366 the year before. This rate and number of cases was far higher than in Canada whose rate was only 37 per 100,000.

One reason advanced by public health experts for this increase lies in the fact that small pox in the United States had been very mild in the last few years, with few deaths. It may be that it is often unrecognized and thus more easily spread. In any case, it no longer causes the fear that once sent people hurrying to secure vaccination.

The importance of keeping this ancient plague under control should be obvious, according to the physicians. There is no reason to suppose that every case will be mild or that, if we become lax, a new and fatal wave of small pox will not overtake us at any time.

Scott's Pet

Sir Walter Scott had a staghound, Malda, of most majestic appearance. Malda's pet aversion was artists and the minute he would see one with pencil and paper in hand, off he would rush and disappear. Malda knew by experience that posing meant restraint.

Painting the Ocean

Marine artists say that the finest place in Europe to see mountainous ocean waves is at the wild tip of Denmark, Skagen, where the king has his summer home and a large group of artists gathers each summer.

Growing With Your Child

Leading and Following

Although each child is different from every other, they do tend to fall into groups. There is the kind of child who likes to dominate, who determines what shall be played and who shall be allowed to join in, whose ideas must be incorporated into an enterprise which he joins. There is another type of child who is so docile and pliable that he seems never to have any way of his own that he wants to enforce. He copies what others are doing, imitates their actions and words, and altogether shows such marked suggestibility that we wonder whether he will ever develop the stamina to stand up for his own ideas.

Now of course there are many children who sometimes give in to the group plans, but at others show a determination to direct the play and affairs of others. There are many ups and down to this business of learning to get along with people, and the give and take of play is the way young children do most of their learning. But because of the tremendous piling-up force of daily habit, it may be a good idea to look at our children's play habits once in a while with as impartial a mind as possible. Without our realizing it, they may be acquiring habits of accepting, of agreeing, of chiming in, that will do little to develop initiative and self-reliance. If a child has few ideas of his own, all the more reason for encouraging him to use and expand those ideas.

A situation in which a child has little chance to assert leadership is when he spends much of his time with adults. Children eagerly watch, follow and copy the things that adults do. There is perhaps less strain in this situation than when the child is thrown much in the society of older children. Here he is even more helpless than when he is with adults. On occasions when the adult would say, "Here, let me help you," or "Let me show you how that goes" the older children will ignore his predicament, or make fun of his inadequacy. Again, he is under more or less physical strain when playing with children above his own capacity. He tries to do the things they do, but his powers of coordination and of endurance are not always equal to the effort.

Now struggle is essential to growth and development. Unless a child has problems to meet he does not develop the power to solve them. It is bad for him to be undisputed "king of the castle" in his play, for he will come to rely on his undisputed power, or will develop habits of unfair dominance that will make him unliked.

Markedly differing attitudes have been observed as early as the second half year of life. Buhler describes three types of behavior, the socially dependent baby, the socially blind, and socially independent. The "socially blind" baby pays no attention to the presence of another child, acts as tho no one else were present. The dependent one watches the other baby, copies his behavior, shows decided awareness of his presence. The third "is neither intimidated nor inspired. He may or may not join the other in play, is not inconsiderate, but sometimes even consoles the other, encourages him, takes part in his activities; yet, with all that, he remains independent, may suddenly turn away and do something for himself. It seems very probable that these typical attitudes depend on a primary disposition and not on environmental conditions."

What are we doing to foster or nullify these inherent tendencies?

Ancient Fortification

Cuba's Castillo de la Fuerza (the Castle of the Armed Forces) is believed to be the oldest fortification on the western hemisphere. It stands at the foot of O'Reilly street in the oldest part of Havana. It was begun in 1538, thereby antedating Morro castle by about 50 years. The history of La Fuerza goes back to the time of Hernando de Soto.

That was a nice rain that poured in on us Saturday night and Sunday morning. While too late to be of benefit to small grain, it did help much in reviving late crops and the meadows and pastures. Potato men are still hopeful of getting a fair crop in this territory. And if their hopes materialize potatoes should be a substantial cash crop this year.

That was a bang-up good ball game between Thief River and St. Hilaire Sunday—a lot better than the score indicates. Both teams played fast ball and some of the fielding was sensational. The large crowd that witnessed the game indicates that baseball is fast regaining its old time popularity in the community.

Alexandria, which formerly operated its police department as we do, under the direction of the mayor, has now appointed a three man commission to handle the department which is now to be operated under a civil service system. The commissioners are appointed by the council for three year terms, and the terms staggered so that one commissioner is appointed each year. The advantage of such a system, of course, is that it removes the department from the direct influence of politics. There probably are disadvantages. It is conceivable that under such a system a department might become indifferent to public opinion. Here in Thief River Falls we have had good results under the present system. The fact that our police department has not become a political football is to the credit of those who have held the office of mayor. But over a period of years we believe the commission form would be more satisfactory and it certainly would make the thankless job of mayoring a great deal more attractive.

A DANGEROUS BOTTLE NECK ROAD
(Wadena Pioneer Journal)

There are a number of highways in this section of Minnesota that need the attention of the state highway department but about the worst one and most dangerous strip in the state is the narrow, bumpy piece between St. Cloud and Osseo, this side of Minneapolis.

This bottle-neck strip, catching a lot of traffic from the east, north and west, is so congested at all times that any motorist venturing on it does so at the risk of his life.

It has been patched and repatched and in a couple of spots an effort has been made to widen the narrow strip. Its width is one that encourages drivers to speed up in an effort to relieve congestion and that practice alone makes it a hazard for conservative drivers.

Wide trucks do not help the situation and ill-mannered and inconsiderate motorists who hog the road, fail to dim their lights and otherwise disregard the rights of others, add to the danger.

The highway department would be doing a service to the entire northern end of Minnesota if it would start plans for making this a three or four-lane trunk highway into Minneapolis. Many lives could be saved if such a step were taken immediately.

A SPENDING SAMPLE
(Long Prairie Leader)

One of the fantastic schemes of the New Deal to squander money was the attempt to harness the tides at Passamaquoddy Bay, state of Maine. The idea was that if the tides could be harnessed, a great quantity of electricity could be generated that would benefit the people by sale at a low price. The estimated cost was $35,000,000. After $7,000,000 had been spent, it was discovered that if the project was completed the investment would be considerably more than the $35,000,000 and that if the electricity was generated there was no market for it. It was also discovered that the completed plant would represent an investment of $1,500 a generated kilowatt as compared with $100 to $150 a kilowatt in privately operated steam plants. So the project has been abandoned and the taxpayers will take care of the $7,000,000 already sunk. Passamaquoddy is only one of hundreds of brain truster schemes to rebuild the universe at public expense with the appalling result of a federal debt burden that will be a first mortgage on citizen earnings for generations to come.

THE PARENTS ARE TO BLAME
(Grand Rapids Herald Review)

There is one practice in which fond parents indulge that needs some frank consideration.

As soon as a youth cuts all of his baby teeth his parents set him to driving the family automobile. Boys who ought to be pushing a wagon are now stepping on the gas.

Out of such conditions many accidents come. It is usually the other person who is injured.

No one blames a child for wishing to drive an automobile. It is the best toy he has ever seen. The responsibility for what happens when immature youth drive cars is the responsibility of the parents.

No child has good judgment in an emergency. A boy or a girl may drive safely, but they have neither the strength nor the experience to handle a machine under difficult circumstances.

Certainly no youth who is not allowed by law to drive should be given that privilege. No parents should think of incurring the moral and legal responsibility of such a condition.

No boy or girl should drive a car until the father and mother believes as a matter of cold, sensible judgment that they can be trusted to drive.

Certainly parents should do some thinking. There are some in every community who need a good sound spanking.

THE BICYCLE PROBLEM
(Duluth Herald)

Domestic animals and boys on bicycles were among the hazards that made automobiling exciting in the days when it was a sport and not a means of transportation. The domestic animals are pretty well cooped up, or belong to generations which have been familiar with and unafraid of automobiles since their first view of the world, but the bicycle is still something of a problem.

Bicycle sales in 1932 were 275,000; in 1933, 423,000; in 1934, 527,000, and in 1935, 642,000. Bicycles are rugged and have a long life for all their delicate appearance. Replacements cannot account for a very large percentage of the increased sales.

Newspapers in several parts of the country are concerned about where the cyclists should be allowed to ride. Nervous pedestrians and the cause of safety were behind the ordinances of 40 years ago which put them off the sidewalks. Now motorists would like to see them kept off the streets and highways. Special cycle paths would be prohibitively expensive for most communities, and the riders might not like them. But cycling is healthful fun and should be encouraged.

If this country can find a solution for a 40-year-old problem which has come back for a visit it will win the admiration of those European nations which find the bicycle problem an ever-perplexing one.

The Mormon church, organized in Utah, has announced that it has completed arrangements whereby it will take all of its members now on relief off the relief rolls and care for them itself. It is estimated that under this system eight members who are employed will care for one member who is not employed. It is a rather unique proceeding. Beyond doubt it will mean a more just method of relief. In making the decision the Mormon organization has taken a step that means a considerable saving to the governmental agencies, and at the same time represents a large additional expense to itself, since its members must contribute taxes to support general relief work. The church feels that by keeping every Mormon off the dole, it will build up a better morale among its members, hold for them a deeper regard for the church, and maintain the spirit of self respect in all members. It is also a good advertisement to the world of the efficiency with which the Mormons manage their business affairs.—Murray County Herald.

Nearly one-third of the potatoes used in the Twin Cities are shipped in from other states. These outside potatoes find a local demand because they are of better quality than the home grown stock and command a better price on the market. Minnesota can raise as good potatoes as any state in the union if proper attention is given to quality of stock and grading. Failure to realize these important requisites in raising potatoes is responsible for the large shipments from outside the state.—Kanabec County Times.

A certain person showed me some red reflectors that he has attached to his headlights. This little endeavor (that's a good word) shows him when one of his headlights is not burning. A good idea, and an attachment that should be on all cars. Then there would be no excuse for driving with one light and there is plenty of that being done.—Madison Independent Press.

Father Coughlin, claiming ten million votes, announced that he was ready to back the Third party. Two days later Secretary Wallace expressed deep concern over drouth in the Dakotas. Four days later the White House announced that almost a hundred million is to be spent in the Lemke-stricken regions, or was it the drouth-stricken regions?—Waseca Journal.

The peppiest gal in my class in school turned out to be the sourest old maid I ever knew. She used to be the life of the party and never had to sit out a single dance. Time does some terrible things with some of us.—Blooming Prairie Times.

News and Comment
By R. W. Hitchcock

The "economics of scarcity" theory of recovery and living gets a terrific rimming from the very department of the national government which originated and sponsors it—the Department of Agriculture.

Little pigs are killed, cotton is plowed under, farmers are commanded not to sow and reap on the theory that if less is produced, the demand will be greater and the price higher, but that if more is produced, a surplus will be created and prices will fall. If less is produced, farmers will benefit; if more is produced, farmers will lose. This is the theory of the "economics of scarcity" originated by the Department of Agriculture when it was taken over by the New Deal. If the New Dealers had studied the records of the Department of Agriculture they would have had irrefutable proof before them that their theory was unsound.

A study of the records of the Department of Agriculture over a period of more than a quarter of a century, made by Homer R. Grommon, President of the Farmers National Grain Dealers Association, shows that big crops put more money in the farmer's pocket than small crops. It is the economics of plenty, not the economics of scarcity, whose application brings higher prices and prosperity.

During 26 years, from 1909 through 1934, the records of the Department of Agriculture show that the thirteen largest crops of wheat exceeded the thirteen smallest crops by 2 billion 874 million bushels, that the average price received by the farmer for the thirteen largest crops of wheat was nineteen cents per bushel more than the average price of the thirteen smallest crops, that the thirteen largest crops put into the farmer's pocket 5 billion 4 million dollars more than the thirteen smallest crops.

The records of the Department of Agriculture also show that during the same 26 years, the thirteen largest crops of corn gave 6 billion 407 million more bushels of corn than did the thirteen smallest crops, that the average price of the thirteen largest crops of corn was six tenths of a cent higher than the price of the thirteen smallest crops, that the thirteen largest crops brought the farmer 4 billion 911 million dollars more than the thirteen smallest crops.

The records of the Department of Agriculture show that during the 26 year period, the thirteen largest crops of oats exceeded the thirteen smallest crops by 4 billion 228 million bushels, that the average price per bushel of the thirteen largest crops was two-tenths of a cent higher than the average price of the thirteen smallest crops, that the thirteen largest crops paid the farmer 1 billion 884 million dollars more than did the thirteen smallest crops.

Thus the records of the Department of Agriculture show that the average farm prices for the country's three most important crops were higher in the years of lush production and lower in the years of scarcity. They show that the farmer received nearly 12 billion dollars more for his big crops than for his poor crops. Yet that very department today tells the farmer and the country that the way of scarcity is the road to prosperity.

Not only did the farmer get better prices for his products in the fat years than in the lean years, not only did he pocket 12 billion dollars more in the big crop years than in the small crop years, but he produced nearly 14 billions more bushels of grain in the big crop years and these billion bushels required the employment of thousands on their way from the farm to the consumer's table. "The cycle of prosperity, started by these large crops, spread into all walks of life with direct benefits at every point of contact." It was not alone the farmer, but everybody, who profited.

STATE TRUST FUNDS RECEIVE ROYALTIES

The trust funds of the state received $604,451.54 in royalty payments on iron ore removed from state-owned mines during April, May, and June, F. A. Wildes, director of the division of lands and minerals, announced last week. The royalty was paid on more than 2,400,000 tons of ore from ten Minnesota mines. The state school fund received the largest share of royalties. Other substantial shares went to the University of Minnesota and Swamp Land funds.

Resources of Insured Thrift Units Approach Billion Dollar Total

Insurance of individual investments in savings, building and home-loan associations is steadily playing a more active part in the development of institutions of this type throughout the country. A current report from the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation shows that, during the first two weeks of July, 29 applicant thrift and home-finance associations, with total assets of $12,000,000, were granted certificates of insurance, protecting each of their depositors and shareholders up to $5,000 each. This brings the aggregate number of insured institutions to 1,365, with combined resources of $921,584,423.

Investors numbering 1,016,803 are listed by these associations in reports to the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. However, it is believed that many additional thousands of persons are now so protected as to the safety of their accounts, because of growth in membership of the insured associations since they filed their latest required reports.

Vacationers Urged to Take Precautions to Avoid Typhoid Fever

If typhoid fever prevailed in Minnesota today as it did 30 years ago, there would be thousands sick with the disease and close to a thousand deaths this summer alone.

Members of the Committee on Public Health Education of the Minnesota State Medical Association point to the fact that only four cases and no deaths were reported in May in Minnesota to show the magnitude of the conquest that modern sanitation and modern methods of disease prevention have won over what was the greatest of summer plagues up to very recent times.

The fact that typhoid is only a sleeping menace is shown by the fact that a real epidemic broke out only two years ago in a city that has been noted for years for its progressiveness in sanitation. The source of that epidemic was generally agreed to have been a lapse, somewhere, in the expert care that had always been bestowed on the water system of the city.

Any carelessness anywhere either on the part of the individual or the community, in the protection of milk, water or food supplies finds typhoid fever, there, alive and waiting its turn.

Vacationists and campers are especially warned to boil the water they use if they are not absolutely assured of its safety. A consistent demand upon the part of tourists for safe water and safe milk will help to convince all municipalities and all others who profit by tourist trade of the advisability of proper sanitary safeguards.

Tourists who are going into unsettled regions where all sanitary arrangements are primitive may be protected by typhoid vaccination against the possibility of returning with a dangerous illness. Each year sees a few such cases even in the absence of epidemics anywhere.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

NORTH DAKOTA WINS—MORE THAN 25,000 MAJORITY

North Dakota rejoices in another dry victory. This time the attempt was made to establish municipal stores for the sale of hard liquor in towns of more than 200 population. The title of the bill—Municipal Control Act—was confusing, yet at the primary election, June 24, it was defeated by a majority of 25,308, according to unofficial figures to date.

The state W. C. T. U. carried on its own program as usual but worked harmoniously with the consolidated Drys, comprising all the temperance forces of the state. It was an earnest, educational, cooperative campaign. Through the kind assistance of the National W. C. T. U., Mrs. Necia E. Buck, National organizer and lecturer, gave us eight weeks of splendid, successful service in the field. Informative literature was widely distributed.

The young people, inspired by Rev. Robert S. Nance of Kansas on his brief visit to the state and led by Miss Esther Bremer of the Christian Endeavor Society, got into the fight. Thousands of children wore buttons—"Please Vote Dry For Me"—and we all used stickers—"For Youth's Sake, Please Vote Against Liquor."

Never before has the press come to our assistance so generously. A number of newspapers published dry articles free. The ministers who never fail us, warned the people of the failure of repeal. Other public speakers assisted. Every available agency was utilized. Through prayer and work the victory was won.

In our 47 years of statehood, hard liquor has never been legalized in North Dakota. With God's help we will maintain this glorious record. North Dakota holds the line!

LaPorte—You can't tell where the most dangerous place in the world is these days, believes Jackie Meads, LaPorte. Young Meads was standing near a pop cooler at the LaPorte cafe when one of the bottles exploded with considerable force, and a flying piece of glass hit the youngster in the eye. He was taken to Walker immediately to have the injury taken care of, and upon examination the doctor found that the white of the eye had been cut and an operation by an eye specialist would be necessary. He was taken to Bemidji for the operation.

Somewhat Higher Butter Prices Are in Prospect

It is probable that consumers will have to pay somewhat higher prices for butter, said the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in a report on the dairy situation issued today. The drought, which began to injure the pastures and feed crops in June, has cut down milk production further during July. Butter and cheese prices have risen rapidly during the month. The tend of butter prices during the remainder of the year will depend to a large extent upon the seriousness of the drought in affecting production. Even if the drought is broken in the near future, it seems probable that butter prices during the last half of 1936 will average higher than in 1935 and the highest since 1930, the Bureau said.

Storage stocks of butter are low. Total stocks of butter and cheese in storage on July 1 were 15 per cent less than a year ago and about the same as the relatively low stocks on that date in 1934.

Short Season Garden Crops May be Planted

Barring an early killing frost, there are several varieties of vegetables which may be planted now for fall gardens to replace garden crops which may have been destroyed by the moisture deficiency of the past few weeks, according to Arthur Hutchins, instructor in horticulture, University Farm, St. Paul.

Vegetables which may be planted now, and which one may be reasonably sure of maturing, include garden cress, Grand Rapids lettuce, mustard and radishes. Mr. Hutchins believes that a fair crop of carrots and beets may mature to the edible stage, even though they may not be large. Turnips and kohl rabi, a relative of the cabbage, are hardy and will withstand light frosts. Spinach, although not a warm weather crop, may grow also.

Moisture and warm weather, of course, are the factors which will determine whether or not garden crops will mature. Unless the growing season is very long, carrots, beets and turnips may be limited to the southern part of the state.

American Towns, Streets Have Some Queer Names

American visitors to England get a laugh out of the names of some English villages. But their own country has some queer place names, notes a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

For instance, in the U. S. A. one finds the towns of Bonapart, Wellington, and Waterloo. Also Needle and Haystack, the former in California, the latter in Connecticut, a distance of over 3,000 miles.

Then there are names that sound more like race horses than respectable American villages: Hard Cash, Boomerang, Bird-in-hand, and Dynamite.

Any United States gazeteer will reveal that Americans evidently like their groceries. They have even named towns after them: Apricot, Grape, Fish, Coffee, and Cereal.

Others have named their places after trades. This group includes Brewer, Carpenter, Mason, Barber, Clothier, Farmer, Doctor, Hatter, Sailor, Sawyer, and Surveyor.

Did you know that China, Cuba, Egypt, France, Austria, and Scandinavia are all in the United States? They are—for villages bear these names. Probably the most beautifully named towns in the states are Bliss, Harmony, Love, Solitude, and Tranquility. In contrast, they have villages called Blood, Cemetery, Exit, Fate, and Ghost Pine.

Fake Castle Rein Famous

Although a fake, Rothley "Castle" at Rothley, England, has become so famous that it is to remain as part of the scenery and any attempt to destroy it will meet with the opposition of Rothley citizens. It stands on a commanding position on a lonely and rugged crag. It has a square tower and a curvated wall, embattled and loop-holed, and each wing ends with a bastion. The structure was built by the late Sir Walter Caverly Blackett merely to decorate the landscape.

"Worthless" Stocks Have Value

Supposedly worthless stocks and bonds of thousands of American companies, now out of existence, writes J. F. Milligan, Santa Monica, Calif., in Collier's Weekly, still have a definite value, and the holders of these securities can obtain the money due them by applying to the receiver, trustee or Court of Chancery holding it. The value of these unclaimed funds is estimated to be about $100,000,000.

PENNINGTON FAIR TOURS LAST WEEK WERE BIG SUCCESS

Cavalcade of Cars Goes Out Last Thursday and Friday

The annual Pennington county fair booster tour to Northwestern Minnesota towns, held in two sections last Thursday and Friday, was the most successful on record, in the opinion of those who participated in the event.

Twenty-four cars started from this city on the first tour Thursday morning under the direction of Chairman Alf Borry, and this number was increased to 35 by the time the cavalcade reached the Roseau county fair for the evening stop. The procession of cars met the auxiliary drum corps at Greenbush and went on to Roseau, where the corps gave a well-received demonstration on the streets and at the fair grounds.

John W. Taylor of this city, former Roseau county agent, addressed the grandstand crowd, and Paul Lundgren also spoke briefly. At Bronson a delegation headed by Ray R. Swanson entertained the tourists and escorted them to the site of the Bronson lake project.

Friday evening 25 cars left the city for St. Hilaire and other communities southeast of the city, winding up at Red Lake Falls. Speakers at the various stops included Mr. Lundgren, W. E. Dahlquist and Robert J. Lund, secretary of the fair association.

Minnesota State Fair Adds $17,000 to Prizes and Premiums This Year

Increases of more than $17,000 have been added to premiums and prizes for competitive classes at the Minnesota State Fair, September 5 to 12, it was announced by Raymond A. Lee, secretary.

Exhibitors in the livestock, poultry, horticulture, woman's activities, and boys and girls 4-H club classes are offered substantial increases in awards. Total premiums offered in all departments for the 1936 Exposition is $87,101.

New demonstrations and displays in the 4-H Club division will stress the importance of the quality of milk delivered to the creamery. Correct care and handling of milk on the farm is one of the many projects included in the state wide competition for trips to the State Fair among the 45,000 boys and girls engaged in the work.

Other projects will show modern milk house construction of efficient cooling systems as well as specific demonstrations of proper handling of milk from the cow to the creamery receiving door. The increasing interest in this type of work among the boys and girls foretells a steady improvement in Minnesota milk and butter quality.

RIPS ARM AND SIDE OPEN WHILE SWIMMING

Hills.—Ward Swenson was the victim of a peculiar accident recently while swimming in the reservoir at Hills, in Rock county. The 12-year old boy dived from the tower into the reservoir and as he came to the surface hit the cross beam which supported the tower. Large nails protruding from the beam ripped his left arm open from the wrist to the elbow, and his left side was badly gashed. Twenty-five stitches were required to close his wounds, but altho they were painful, his condition is not serious.

Acting on information supplied by federal agents, Sheriff Arthur Rambeck Friday arrested Charles Huff of St. Hilaire on a liquor selling charge. Taken Monday before Judge M. A. Brattland in district court, Huff pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs, and was given a 90-day jail sentence which was suspended on during good behavior.

Transient Bothered by Delusions is Committed

Local police last week-end picked up a transient giving his name as Thomas Pody, who was apparently suffering from delusions including a fear that the Black Legion was in pursuit of him. Taken before Judge Andrew Bottelson in probate court he was committed to a state institution, and Sheriff Arthur Rambeck Monday took him to Fergus Falls.

FISH FLY INVASION HEAVIEST IN YEARS

Battle Lake.—Lake communities are suffering under an invasion of hordes of fish flies this year. Old timers cannot remember when the flies were so numerous, and while in the past they stayed near the lakes this year the air is fairly alive with them the early part of the evening. Fronts of business places which are lighted become completely covered with the pests and they pile up in large heaps on the side-walks. It is impossible to tell the color of the light posts, as they are covered with flies. Cars driving along the lake road are forced to drive carefully and slowly, as the swarms of insects are so thick they are like a bad snow storm, and the cars are covered with them to such an extent that the radiators become clogged and the motors get no air, causing overheating.

BOYS GET 13,500 VOLT SHOCK, LUCKY TO LIVE

Hallock.—A narrow escape from death by electrocution was experienced by John and Lawrence Docken, farm boys residing near Hallock. Playing with an old automobile chain directly under an interstate power line. They tossed it into the air, where it became entangled with the high line and hung suspended just out of reach. Not thinking of the electricity, and wishing to recover the chain, one of the boys climbed upon the other's shoulders to reach it. Being grounded, the full force of the charge got them as they touched the chain, and 13,500 volts of electricity went through their bodies from one to the other. One lost consciousness and was revived with a pail of cold water. The youngster that had touched the chain got his hand severely burned, while the other had two holes burned in his back where his brother's legs gripped him. His feet were also scorched to the bone. Aside from considerable pain due to the burns both boys seem to be all right. The fact that the ground was too dry to give a complete ground saved their lives, as that charge is sufficient to cause instant death.

Gov. Olson's Condition Reported as Improved

Radium treatments on Governor Floyd B. Olson resulted in "very little reaction," Mayo clinic physicians reported Wednesday at Rochester.

In their daily morning bulletin they said: "Governor Olson's general condition is about the same. He had a very good night and very little reaction from the radium."

Radium was given the governor Tuesday for the first time. Clinic physicians reported the governor had shown decided improvement in his condition the past three days.

LONG PARTED BROTHERS ALLOWED BRIEF VISIT

International Falls.—Brothers who had not met for 35 years were rejoicing last week, but only for a short time and with considerable restrictions. Both unnaturalized citizens, one a resident of Canada and the other of United States, they could not visit one another in the other's home, but were permitted by immigration officials to meet and talk together for two hours in the middle of the bridge which joins the two countries at International Falls. Ely Popovich has a large farm at Drumheller, Alberta, and Michael, his brother, has a fine farm near Superior, Wis. They both left their home in Jugo-Slavia 35 years ago, and altho they had corresponded as the years passed they had never seen each other. Both now plan to take out citizenship papers in their respective countries so they can visit each other and see each other's families.

TURKEY EGG THROWN AWAY HATCHES IN SUN

Moose Lake. — Anyone who doubts the heat of the past few weeks should interview Holver Ellevseth, farmer near Moose Lake, where it was so warm that a turkey egg he had thrown away hatched out in the sun. In cleaning up around the barn Ellevseth tossed what apparently was a well-worn turkey egg onto the manure pile, and much to his surprise, it hatched a perfect baby turkey. He took the youngster into the house, where it was tended with the greatest of care. Ellevseth was reported as saying: "I expect to get around $4 for that bird about next Thanksgiving time."

WATCH LOST 12 YEARS AGO FOUND; STILL RUNS

Hutchinson.—A watch lost 12 years ago in a plowed field was found last week in good running order, very little the worse for wear. The watch was given to John E. Albrecht, as a confirmation present in the sping of 1924, and lost the same fall. His father, William C. Albrecht, reached down from his corn plow last week and picked up the watch from where it had lain for 12 years. After bringing it into a jeweler, it was found the watch was still in running condition without the need of new parts, and all that was necessary was a thorough cleaning and oiling. The watch was a 15 jewel in a yellow gold case. A peculiar incident in the find was that John, the loser and owner of the watch, did not know it had been found until the peculiar facts of the case were announced in the newspapers.

TRAIN FAILS TO DISTURB SLUMBER; JUDGE WAKES MAN

Red Wing.—It may have been the heat, altho police say that didn't figure much in the case. But when George Riley, 61, transient, took a little snooze on a recent Sunday morning he picked the railroad tracks just outside of Red Wing. And he slept so soundly that he didn't hear an approaching train nor notice that it halted to permit removal of his inert form from the tracks to permit further progress. Police, called from Red Wing, found that Riley could sleep under any or all circumstances. "He slept soundly as we hoisted him over a wire fence and pasture land to the roadway where we could load him into a automobile," said the officer. "He was still sleeping when we deposited him in a bunk at the police station." Riley "awoke" long enough the following morning to hear Municipal Judge Francis Watson say "ten days" in the county jail. Then he lapsed back into slumber again.

The St. Lawrence River

The St. Lawrence river actually rises at the source of the St. Louis river, near the headwaters of the Mississippi in Minnesota, flows into Lake Superior, then through the other Great Lakes and empties itself into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at Cape Gaspe, Province of Quebec. Of course, technically speaking the St. Lawrence is only that part of the river which flows from Lake Ontario to Cape Gaspe, 770 miles.

Montgomery Ward Co. Introduces New Radio Sets With Novel Dial

Pioneers in the field of radio engineering, Montgomery Ward now introduces an exclusive radio dial which promises to revolutionize the radio industry, according to an announcement made today by A. W. Mickelson, store manager.

This innovation, called the "movie dial", because it operates in much the same fashion as a motion picture projector, flashes the call letters of stations on a screen in large, illuminated letters with the twist of the tuning knob.

The letters are projected from a small circular film onto a glass screen by means of light, lenses and a mirror, in a size large enough to be seen from any part of a room. A color filter shows the stations of the three wave bands (one standard and two short wave) in three colors, white, amber and green.

In commenting on this radically new step in radio improvement, Mr. Mickelson said, "As you no doubt know, Wards was the first to introduce 'instant dialing' several years ago. This was the first time station call letters were used on an open faced dial to facilitate tuning. This new 'movie dial' carries that one step further by cleverly enlarging and lighting the call letters so that you can stand away from the radio and tune it properly."

Twin City Market Week Set for August 3 to 15

With all the arrangements completed for the first week of Twin City Double Market Week, August 3 to 15, additional features were scheduled for the second week to make it even more pretentious than the first half of the buying event.

Because numerous merchants in the territory will be unable to attend the first week's program, it is anticipated that attendance, the following week will equal or exceed the registration of the previous week.

Opening the second half of Twin City Double Market week will be the fun fest at Excelsior amusement park when all the merchants will be guests. The entire park will be taken over for Monday, August 10. On Tuesday retail merchants will be the guests during a special Moonlight excursion on The Capitol Steamer which will leave St. Paul on a round trip down the Mississippi river.

Pheasant Distribution in Pennington This Week

Distribution of six-week old pheasants raised at the Madella game farm will begin this week, according to Frank Blair, superintendent of game propagation. The first truck load of about 800 birds will be distributed in Hubbard, Becker, Polk, Red Lake, Marshall, and Pennington counties. Mr. Blair said hatching had been satisfactory despite the hot weather. There are apparently more pheasants than ever before in the central western counties of the state. Mr. Blair attributes the increase largely to improved winter feeding methods. Game birds are distributed on a basis of applications made by sportsmen's clubs and individuals.

One crate of the birds destined for Pennington county was consigned to C. H. Jung and was to be called for at Crookston today.

BLACK BEAR BITES BAGGAGEMAN BROWN

New Ulm.—A big black bear bit a baggageman named Brown. It sounds like a tongue-twister, but it was decidedly painful to Fred Brown, New Ulm railroad baggageman, who is still unable to work as the result of wounds on the back of his hand. Brown and another man were unloading a crate containing the bear from a freight car, and evidently Brown got a bit too close to the crate and the bear snapped at his hand through the bars. The bear had been shipping from the Wichita, Kansas, Zoo, and was being sent to the carnival at the Brown county fair grounds.

Pamphlet Aids in Controlling Weeds

Just now when weed control measures are being advocated and used throughout Minnesota, revised Pamphlet 29 entitled "Weeds" is timely published by the extension division of the University of Minnesota.

The pamphlet, attractively made up with color plates of several of the more common noxious weeds, gives information which will enable a farmer to identify noxious weeds on his place and tells him how to control them.

Descriptions and methods of control are given for leafy spurge, field bind-weed, common barberry, French weed, horse nettle, perennial pepper grass, sow thistle, Austrian field cress, buffalo burr, Canada thistle and others. The pamphlet is available from the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul, or from your county agent or high school agricultural instructor.

Republican Candidates Visit City Last Week

FIRST HOLIDAY IN 30 YEARS CUT BY FIRE

Elbow Lake.—The first vacation in 30 years of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of Elbow Lake was cut short last week when they were summoned home to be advised that all the buildings on their farm except the house had been burned to the ground. In addition to the fine farm buildings, they lost a number of head of stock, a large quantity of grain, pigs, chickens, harness and other farm equipment. No one was at the farm home when the fire started, the Johnsons being in Evansville which was to be the initial part of a long awaited vacation. They had been gone for only a day. Although the buildings were insured, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson suffered a large loss.

$774,000 A MONTH BEING SPENT FOR FARMS IN THE N.W.

Federal Land Bank Is Financing Many Purchases This Year

Purchase of farms, mostly by farmers with families who expect to live on the land, is being financed by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul with land bank and commissioner's loans at the rate of about 260 to 270 farms per month, says Roy A. Nelson, president of the land Bank.

Through these 2 types of loans the land bank has been supplying funds at the average rate of $775,000 per month during the past 8 or 9 months, making it possible for farmers in many instances to extend their present properties, and for others who had temporarily abandoned farming during the depression to return again to the production of grain and livestock.

More than $6,192,000 was supplied for the purchase of farms in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan from October 1935 to the end of May this year. This was possible largely because of provisions of the Farm Credit act of 1935 which permits commissioner's loans to be made for all purposes for which land bank loans can be made.

Previously commissioner's loans had been chiefly used for the repayment of farm debts. Under the new law farmers who have a portion of the purchase price and now have, or can acquire, adequate workstock and machinery, are obtaining first mortgage land bank loans, supplemented by a commissioner's loan, both together not exceeding 75 per cent of the appraised value of the farm.

Mr. Nelson said that these loans have enabled many good farmers to obtain farms. Some have been renters, others are the sons of farmers who are now ready to start out on their own. The commissioner's loan, he said, often obtained on a second mortgage, has enabled some who could not otherwise have obtained sufficient funds, to start an independent farming career with prospects of success.

TO DEDICATE 1st CO-OP RURAL ELECTRIC LINE

Dedication of Minnesota's first co-operative rural electric line will be made at Litchfield, Meeker county, on Aug. 7, with Morris L. Cooke, national REA administrator, and E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau, taking part in the ceremonies. The Meeker county co-operative, organized by the Meeker County Farm Bureau, was the first in Minnesota to receive REA approval and a loan from Washington. Many other county setups, organized through the activities of County Farm Bureaus, are near the final stage of organization, says J. S. Jones, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation.

Father Coughlin in Hankinson, N. D., Asks Support for Wm. Lemke

Father Charles E. Coughlin advised 15,000 Dakota and Minnesota farmers at Hankinson, N. D., Sunday to be prepared to repudiate their debts if Representative William Lemke fails in his presidential candidacy.

"You must fight and win with Lemke or be prepared to repudiate your obligations and those who would seek to enforce them," the Detroit radio priest said.

Lemke, Union party candidate, and Coughlin, head of the National Union for Social Justice which is supporting him, delivered a mutual attack on President Roosevelt and the republican candidate, Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

The farmers cheered when Coughlin told them that if Lemke fails, the "only thing" for them to do will be repudiate their debts.

"There is no hope for you in the New Deal, which has sold out to Wall street, or in Landon, who is backed by Hearst," Coughlin said. The priest declared that Publisher William Randolph Hearst, "one of the richest men in creation," brought Landon "out of obscurity."

Warns Livestock Buyers to Watch Feed Supplies for the Coming Season

With the movement of drouth livestock into Minnesota assuming sizable proportions timely warnings are issued to farmers by H. G. Zavoral, extension animal husbandry specialist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Before a farmer loads up on livestock, states Mr. Zavoral, he should be certain of sufficient feeding operations, for all indications are that feed prices will be high.

Farmers should look for quality in purchasing beef cattle as far as it can be seen in emaciated animals by color and breeding characteristics. Good, well bred beef animals are as thin as some dairy cattle in the drouth regions, stated Mr. Zavoral. And needless to say, farmers will let go of their poorest stock.

In discussing the feeder pig business, Mr. Zavoral believes farmers who have old corn and prospects for a good crop this year could afford to take chances on buying feeder pigs. The price of hogs has come down some he stated, but there is still a good margin of profit. The 1936 corn crop has not reached the safe stage, but when it does, states Mr. Zavoral, feeder pigs will not be available at present prices.

During drouth conditions, when stock is in poor condition and susceptible to disease and is being moved, farmers cannot be too careful regarding the spread of disease, Mr. Zavoral warns. Considerable buying will be direct, and in the case of cattle farmers should make sure that the stock they buy has been tested for tuberculosis and Bang's disease.

GOVERNOR LANDON PROMISES TO FREE U. S. ENTERPRISE

Formal Notification Ceremonies Are Held at Topeka

Governor Alf M. Landon called for an end to "this fumbling with recovery" as he accepted the Republican presidential nomination Thursday night at Topeka, Kansas, and promised "to unshackle initiative and free the spirit of American enterprise" for business and employment expansion.

In terse sentences, sketching in broad outline the policies on which he will battle the new deal for votes at November's polls, Landon favored a farm plan embracing cash benefit payments.

He said "those in need of relief will get it," declared for economy in government spending and a lighter tax burden, and turning to the constitution, said:

"It is not my belief that the constitution is above change. But change must come through the people and not through usurpation. We propose to maintain the constitutional balance of power between the states and the federal government to restore and maintain a free competitive system."

The Republican candidate spoke to massed thousands from the south steps of the Kansas capitol. Speedily, he expressed "complete adherence" with the Republican platform and then turned to the new deal "record."

"The nation has not made durable progress, either in reform or recovery, that we had the right to expect," Landon said. "The new deal has fallen far short of success.

GARDEN HOSE PERFORMS A "HOUDINI" IN YARD

St. Cloud.—A garden hose that went for a little trip all by itself in the back yard of the Roy Gerlach home in St. Cloud caused quite a little commotion. Mrs. Gerlach left the hose running near the base of a plum tree and paid no more attention to it until she noticed that the nozzle had disappeared from sight beneath the ground and a large length of hose had disappeared with it. She tugged and strained, but her efforts, as well as those of her husband and a large group of neighbors, was in vain. An uncanny force seemed to be pulling it down. They finally gave up and cut the hose off near the ground, losing the nozzle and a goodly length of hose. Whether or not some youngster came along and started the hose is not known, but once down the hose kept right on going of its own accord.

Fast Stepping Colored Revue on Fair Midway

One of the snappiest and most entertaining colored minstrel and musical revues ever to be staged under canvas is the attraction presented by the Hennies Bros. Shows, called "Ginger Snaps", produced and directed by Arthur Ray, one of Chicago's foremost colored producers.

This show, one of the many at the Pennington county fair this week, is a brand new attraction, and is composed of thirty-two people in all, which includes singers, dancers, comedians and a snappy colored jazz orchestra.

"Ginger Snaps" is but one of the 14 attractions along with 12 thrilling rides that grace the midway of the fair which ends Friday evening.

PLUMMER

Garnes Downs Cardinals 8-6

A muddy field didn't bother the Garnes team as they proved that they can still beat Plummer although hard luck and injuries have besieged them throughout the season. During the past two years Garnes has taken 4 out of 5 games from Plummer.

The game was supposed to have been played at Garnes, but as it was impossible to play there because of a wet field the game was changed to Plummer although the field there was not very dry.

Hanson started on the mound for Plummer, but his mates failed to give him the support he should have had. Gilbertson relieved him in the sixth after Garnes had counted 4 runs with two men out. He ended the inning by pitching Don Hervey off second. Don Hervey was virtual poison to the Plummer hurlers, as he pounded out two doubles and three singles in 5 times up. Plummer's hitting, which very capably subdued Red Lake Falls a week ago, fell before the hurling of Pug Lund. Plummer collected 7 hits to 10 for Garnes. Each team made 6 errors some of which were due to the muddy field.

Next Sunday's game with Oklee is scheduled for the Plummer diamond. Oklee holds a previous shutout decision over the locals and the boys are out for revenge.

Score by Innings:

Garnes . . . . 2 0 0 0 0 4 2 0 0—8
Plummer . . . . 0 2 0 0 0 2 0 0 2—6

TAILOR STEIGER was making no effort to live up to his reputation for reliability about getting garments ready at the promised time. The coat lying on his table had been promised for three o'clock. It was nearing that time, and since he had flung it there early in the forenoon Steiger had not touched it. His mind went over and over the details. The blackguard would soon be coming now. With lips set anew, Steiger sewed grimly on, his eyes smoldering, his breath coming irregularly.

Morris Steiger marrying at forty a girl of seventeen, had been thought foolish. But things had turned out well after all. Not until this very day had he had reason to deplore the fact that his wife had been married too young. It was because she had had no experience of life herself that she had not been able to guard their lovely young daughter, Rosa.

But never had her father had one moment of serious worry concerning Rosa until the moment when, as he was holding Floyd Ranger's stained coat in his hand, there dropped from the breast pocket the string of genuine pearls her father had given her on her eighteenth birthday, six months before.

Floyd Ranger, known by his evil reputation and his high family connections, had come into Steiger's little shop one day of the previous spring to have a coat cleaned. Pleased with the speed and quality of Steiger's work, he had continued to patronize the shop.

Stupid that he had been, Steiger had not taken alarm when Ranger had spied his wife and pretty daughter on the neat little porch of the cottage. And so on successive visits Ranger had been allowed to repeat his gallantries to the ladies, joking with them when they happened to be in the shop, sitting with them for half an hour on the porch while waiting for some garment to be finished, even entering the cottage. And always Steiger would be secretly flattered by these attentions to his women. And always his wife would say nothing, though she would seem more than necessarily flustered. And always Rosa acted as if there were nothing at all to be either flustered or flattered about.

The necklace lay upon the counter where Steiger had dropped it. Pearls were for innocence, he remembered. Rosa, Rosa! How was he to face her again? She would be back home today. She had gone to visit her cousins at Marysville for two days, and it was Wednesday she left, the day of her mother's evening club. She would be back on the four o'clock interurban. She would come running into the shop to give him a hug and kiss.

Suddenly he heard a car stop before his door. He had scarcely time to fling a cloth over the necklace. Clearing his throat noisily and trying to assume a noncommittal air, he turned toward Rosa.

Her arms were around his neck, and she was kissing him. His own arms were limp and his lips were working. "Here already?" he managed to grate out; "your train—"

"I didn't come on the train, Father. I came by car. Cousin—Cousin Albert brought me."

She was nervous. Almost as tense and shaking as he. "Uncle Bertie said to tell you—" she was beginning, but he stopped her. Yes, he would speak to her now, at once, before Ranger's arrival.

"Rosa," he began, and he could see his daughter start at the unusual tone of his voice. "Rosa, haven't you something to tell me, to confess?"

She went a bit white. "You saw him, then!—We didn't think you would. Yes, it was Goodwyn Off who brought me home. He came to Uncle Bertie's to see me. We're—we're engaged. I know, Father, how you dislike Goodwyn—"

"Goodwyn—Goodwyn Off?"

"Yes, Father, I know it was wrong. And Goodwyn feels sorry, too. We really didn't intend to do it this way. Father, he is really the finest young man in the world! If you will only give him a chance to show—"

But Steiger's joy could contain itself no longer. He burst into hysterical laughter and at the same moment the tears sprang into his gray eyes so that there before his astonished daughter he was laughing and crying at the same time.

"Rosa," he said in as startled a tone as he could command, "your necklace?"

Her hand went automatically to her throat. But her frightened look was too much for him. Quickly he snatched off the piece of goods he had flung over the necklace and looked at her, laughing.

Rosa smiled, though her eyes still looked startled and wondering.

"Oh, you—you believed I would think I had lost it? That's what you meant by 'confessing' something?"

Steiger's triumphant laughter checked itself. "You didn't think you had lost it? Weren't worried?"

Rosa shook her head, smiling. "No. I didn't wear it when I went away. I lent it to mother to wear to her society that night."

St. Bernard Dogs Swiss Heroes as Life-Savers

So universal is the fame of the St. Bernard dogs that it goes without saying that they rank first among the aristocracy of Switzerland's canine world. Their home, as their name suggests, is the Great St. Bernard Hospice, founded over 1,000 years ago by Bernard de Menthon, a saintly priest, and inhabited up to this day by brethren of the Order of St. Augustine, states a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Winter lasts from eight to nine months in that isolated mountain region and the snow is sometimes piled up as high as 12 to 15 feet. Blizzards are sudden and descend with such fury that many travelers would surely perish were it not for the vigilance and devotion of the monks and their marvelously trained dogs.

Historic records show that the Hospice was without any dogs up to 1670 A. D. From then on the brethren kept a few watch dogs, but it is not clearly established of what breed they were. These animals soon took delight in accompanying their masters on their many errands of mercy and were quickly appreciated for their unerring sense of location.

The race which has for the last 250 years been described as St. Bernards has, according to a noted naturalist, been gradually developed by the monks through careful breeding and training in life-saving work.

The short-haired variety is the original kind. In 1830 some of the brethren decided to cross their dogs with Newfoundlands, in order to raise animals which would be protected against the inclement climate with longer hair. However, this crossing did not affect the physical characteristics of the St. Bernards, and only the hair became longer.

Fingers Our First Forks; Hands, Earliest Spoons

In these civilized days it is difficult to realize that our first forks were our fingers and the earliest spoons the hollow of our hands, observes a writer in the Montreal Herald.

The spoon is thought to be older than the knife and fork. According to the fashion of the Middle ages it was carried in a case in the belt of the wearer, with other table tools. The cases were frequently as handsome as the tools.

From the Sixteenth century more cutlery sets were made. As in modern times, they were often given as presentation sets. Many fine old silver spoons are still prized as family heirlooms. The seal-top, the rattail and the fiddle were three popular designs and the fiddle pattern is used today.

Unlike knife blades, the bowls of spoons were seldom etched or engraved. Early spoons were of bone, ivory, and wood.

Ancient Patriarch Ruled

The ancient patriarch ruled his family; there was little defying of parental authority and virtually no recognized age of manhood or womanhood. The Chinese not only reverenced the old but believed that the older a man became the wiser he grew. Much the same idea was held in ancient Rome. The senate was the most powerful of the governing bodies and was composed of the heads of the most important of influential families. In most cases nothing could be considered by the other body without senate consent and usually if the senate said "no" that settled any matter. The word "senate" is of Latin origin, meaning "old man," but literally it refers to an assembly of elders.

Many Kinds of "Rheumatism"

There are many kinds of "rheumatism." The main varieties are inflammatory or rheumatic fever, the chronic condition known as arthritis, and muscular rheumatism. Rheumatic fever is an infectious disease, most commonly found in children and young people. It is rarely fatal, but quite serious because the germ causing it may attack the heart. Arthritis makes the joints stiff, swollen and deformed. It seldom kills people, but if not checked, causes great suffering and interference with work. Muscular rheumatism usually yields to rest, heat and massage but chronic cases may refuse to yield until the cause is discovered and removed.

Revive Manx Language

Interest in the Manx language which has been on the verge of extinction, is being revived by the Manx society, composed of ardent nationalists of the Isle of Man. When the last Manx census was taken, four years ago, 529 persons could speak in Manx, about fifty per cent of them were then over sixty-five years of age. A peculiarity of the Manx language is that it contains no swear words.

All Big Apes Intelligent

All members of the large-ape families are intelligent, according to a zoo expert, and all but the baboons are affectionate. The gorilla, for instance, which has been presented in story-book fiction as vicious and untrustworthy, is the most loving of all the tribe of wild animals. The gorilla's great fault is jealousy.

Right and Ignorance

Gypsy Woman

By MARGARET ROSS
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

NO WONDER he hated her, coming like a bitter wind out of the past to fret him. Oh, she was pretty enough, if you have an eye for a gypsy woman with a mouth like a wild pomegranate and black hair wound in heathen spirals that show blue in the sun. One morning he came over with a fine red shawl.

"I found this under my window. That fence is a deadline. I built it for you."

The gypsy woman laughed low in her throat. "I go where I please."

I went to the dishes and clattered them like mad. Call her place a house if you like; an honest working woman like me would call it something else. Made of fancy, colored tiles it was, with a thing she called a patio, and fat little gods and wicked looking knives along the wall. Maybe it would pass where rich people live, but stuck off in the hinterlands as close to his citrus trees and his plain little shack as she could get it, no wonder I smelled murder in the Florida air.

Carrie stopped by his grove for eggs next day. Carrie was his sort—tall, yellow-haired and quiet. Married, they would have a lot of nice yellow-haired kids. The gypsy woman—her name was Marya—whispered something to her dog. I haven't mentioned that dog, Timor, for a special reason. I was afraid of him. God knows what bred he was. Anyway when Carrie walked to her flivver, he was at her like a long gray wolf. Carrie screamed. The wolf-thing stopped just for a heart-beat, then with a curving leap was at her throat.

The gypsy woman called, slow and amused. There lay Carrie flat on the ground, but a tooth mark on her. And there was Jim, his blue eyes blazing, shaking the gypsy woman until her hair was a ragged black shawl that lashed her knees.

She stared at him with her pomegranate mouth white and terrible. "Oh, no. It is only women you kill; you with your clodhopper boots and right-with-God ways. Your friend of the fat face is gone and her squeaky car is gone with her. Timor will see that she stays."

"You, Ellin," whirling to me, "take your saucer eyes into the house."

Why didn't I quit? I couldn't. That gypsy woman fascinated me. And I liked Jim Torgeson; for all his cold Norse eyes and highland mighty ways, I liked him. After the day Carrie left her eggs in shattered splotches in the muck there was only a great black wall between him and the gypsy woman. She busied herself in queer secret ways. There was a sunken pool where she lay for hours, brown and beautiful in the sun. I never knew why the gypsy woman left the house.

Weeks. Weeks. Weeks. And still that queer black walling.

"Look here," I said to the gypsy woman, "I heard something in town today. Jim and Carrie are to be married."

The gypsy woman touch Timor's ugly snout. Then she picked up a little blue-robed Madonna dreaming in a niche on the wall.

"Do you think I could ever be like that? Still and peaceful?"

"No." Then I surprised myself. "Yes. Maybe. If you had a child at your breast."

The little Madonna shivered on the tiles of the floor as the gypsy woman took a knife from the wall.

I was screaming for Jim. Blood—I can see it yet, weltering the clear gorgeous purple of her dress. Everything went dark and when I opened my eyes I saw Jim's face, white and tormented.

"Dead?" I gasped. "Is she dead? Jim Torgeson, may God have mercy on your soul, for I never will."

I heard the gypsy woman laugh. Only her hand was hurt. Did the knife slip or was it just her way of getting Jim over? Your guess is as good as mine.

"Ellin," she spoke kind of puzzled, "I didn't know you liked me." "Nor did I."

As I bandaged her hand, I might have been made of air for all the attention they gave me. I was ashamed of listening but a woman who has never known passion will always listen if she gets a chance.

Jim's mouth was almost on hers. "You left me. You—my wife. When I saw that blood over your heart . . ."

His wife! And me believing all that gossip about him and Carrie!

"You were hard." That was the gypsy woman. "You were cold and God was always with you. I left you alone with him in the snows of the North. When I came back you were gone. When I followed you here you shut the door in my face. So I smiled and built this house. I knew it would make you angry but I built it. I love you. You can tramp on me but I will never leave you again. I love you."

Well, it wasn't decency that stopped my listening. It was Jim picking up that gypsy woman and carrying her out to the pine needles under the moon. [illegible]

OSCAR BECOMES THE MOTHER OF TWO CHICKS

Walker,—The life of Oscar, proud Golden Pheasant Rooster reared and cared for by the Daniel DeLury household at Walker, was a sad one. Altho perhaps no bigamist should be pitied, yet the father who desires an offspring and neither of his two mates is willing to go through the discomforts of sitting on eggs during the hot weather deserves at least a grain of pity. Many an egg had been laid, but with no serious intentions as to hatching the disputed "cackleberries". In a fit of paternal anguish, Oscar rolled the scattered eggs to a central spot and after taking a complete inventory of his collection, kicked out the ones he figured would be a discredit to his lot of hatched. Day by day thru the scorching heat, Oscar, the hero, sat religiously and faithfully upon the eggs. And now little Oscar has become a mother, as well as a credit to his flock.

SPECIAL FEATURES WILL MARK STATE FAIR SEPT. 5 TO 12

State-wide Band Concert Is Scheduled for Sunday, September 6

Two special features for the opening Saturday and Sunday of the Minnesota State Fair, September 5 to 12, were approved this week by the board of managers of the exposition.

Approval was given for a repetition of last year's popular "Key Day" on the opening Saturday and arrangements were completed for the staging of the second annual state-wide band tournament in front of the grandstand Sunday afternoon.

Key Day gives patrons a plan for seeing the entire Fair, on the opening Saturday only, by means of a special combination ticket offered at a greatly reduced price. Key Day tickets valued at $1.20 will be sold for 50 cents. They will include an admission to the grounds, admission for an automobile or the Indian Village, admission to the grandstand for the afternoon championship auto races and two admissions for riding devices in the Royal American Shows on the Midway. Key Day tickets will be on sale prior to the Fair and at the outside gates until 3 p. m. the opening Saturday.

Plans have been completed for the second annual band tournament which is being sponsored to foster living music. Awards for the winners will total $2,000. Judging will take place in front of the grandstand on Sunday afternoon, September 6, and bands will be scored on a basis of music, uniforms and marching ability. In addition to the cash award the championship band will be presented with a trophy with individual medals for each member.

First entry in this year's tournament is the Little Falls City band, which won the championship in 1936. The public will be admitted to the grandstand for the event without charge.

EDITORS SEEKING FIRE STORY FIND TWO MORE

Staples.—The newspaper staff of the Staples World has at times been accused of making news, when times were dull, but it had no intention of having a fire story back-fire on them recently. "Doc" Sims and Ralph Bachman drove out to the Pete Card's farm to gain first hand information on a fire. While Bachman was interviewing Mrs. Card, "Doc's" car caught fire under the hood. It was quickly extinguished with a pail of water, but Doc had hardly turned the car around and started back to Staples when it blazed again. Both newspapermen broke all records in getting out of the car. Several pails of sand smothered the blaze and the car was towed back to the city. But the editors who had started out to report one fire found they had two more on the list.

Laboratory Work in Gas Tractors Given at Northwest School

The Northwest School and Experiment Station has purchased a 35 H. P. Diesel catipillar tractor to supplement the laboratory work in gas motors and tractors. Beginning with the fall term, practical work with the Diesel motor will be offered students specializing in agricultural engineering. Other courses that will be offered in this department include farm mechanics, blacksmithing, carpentry, field machinery, and mechanical drawing.

Work in gas motors will include principles of construction and handling of stationary and traction gasoline and Diesel engines including timing, ignition, starting and lighting systems, carburetion, cooling and lubrication. Practical work will also be given in overhauling and repairing automobiles and tractors.

Work in soldering, pipe fitting, babbitting and bearing scraping together with rope work, belt lacing and harness repairing will be given in the course in Farm Mechanics.

Students in blacksmithing will be required to familiarize themselves with operations necessary for blacksmith repair work on the farm. Carpentry work includes training in the construction of the foundation, framing, stair and rafter cutting and selection of materials and concrete work.

A. M. Foker will direct the work in blacksmithing, carpentry, and mechanical drawing, while W. D. Rusk, a graduate of the University of Illinois, and W. D. Bromeralberger, a graduate of the University of Minnesota will have charge of the work in motors, gas engines, field machinery and farm mechanics.

The school year will open Sept. 28 and close the last of March, thus enabling farm boys and girls to assist with home work during the crop growing season.

CHICKEN IS TIED UP IN MIDDLE OF BUNDLE

Walnut Grove.—An 8 weeks old chick went through a grain binder, was tied up in the middle of a bundle, and lived to run about again at Walnut Grove recently. As Abel Anderson was cutting grain north of Walnut Grove he noticed that a chick had gotten onto the platform. By the time he could stop the binder, the chick had been carried with the grain through the binder and come out inside a bundle. His son, Oscar L. Anderson, pulled the bundle open and out hopped the chicken, none the worse for the escapade.

MANY LIGHTNING FIRES REPORTED

The worst series of lightning fires on record have occurred in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties during the past two weeks, according to Grover M. Conzet, director of the division of forestry. Ranger Pat Hoyle reported there were more lightning fires in the last week and a half than in the last ten years. Ordinarily electric storms are followed by rain, but this year, according to reports, there has been no rain following the lightning.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. Weeking

Local People in California

The writer regrets very much that he was away from home and so did not receive in time a letter from Mr. Homer F. Mussey, former Thief River Falls resident and now living in San Gabriel, Calif., some of whose reminiscences we have presented in this column. The letter contained a request in connection with the gathering of former Thief River Falls residents now in southern California. We do not feel that we are at liberty to reveal the nature of the request until permitted to do so by Mr. Mussey, but we are writing him to explain our remission.

We learn from Mr. Mussey, by the way, that there are about 100 members of the "Thief River Falls Society of Southern California", who were expected to gather for the annual reunion, the second one, in Brookside park, Pasadena. It will be recalled that the last year's reunion took place in Recreation park at Long Beach.

Since we have been away we have not had time to look through the papers so do not know whether or not an account of this year's gathering has appeared in the Times. We understand that Mr. Mussey was to write it as he did last year. By the way, in case the fact has not been published, Oscar Sponheim is the president of the association of former local residents in California.

Of last year's reunion Mr. Mussey writes:

"Friends met friends, relatives met relatives and we had one real time. I was chosen to describe this meeting for the home town papers and I expect to have the same job again this year.

"In the gathering at Long Beach were many of those whose activities made Thief River Falls and, as I have kept all recent letters of mine, I expect to be able to send 'back home' some real 'stuff'. The former resident adds to his latter as a postscript:

"P. S.—I want to add that Mayor 'Bill' Prichard's folks are quite actively identified with southern California. He has a brother-in-law, Fredericks, who edits our own San Gabriel Sun, along with several other nearby papers.

A sister, Mrs. A. I. Anderson, is one of the 'big shots' in our Thief River Falls Southern California association. I know Bill would like to tell Bertel Backe, Frank Kratka, Charlie Kratka, the Caldwell girls (Irene and Mary) and a lot of other old school pals and me just what he thinks of us." We can't say any more about this now as it really is a part of the secret request.

But we wish to refer briefly to the association of former residents of this city in southern California. Readers will recall that there is a standing joke about so many of the residents of California being natives of Iowa, but so enthusiastic about California after a few years that they are actually more loyal than the natives. Of course, other central states are well represented there, although it may be that Iowa once was the leader in sending its sons and daughters to the west coast. Minnesota certainly is extensively represented and there are probably enough former residents of this state, Wisconsin, Iowa, the Dakotas, Montana and other states to make a large-sized city made up exclusively of the former residents of a single state.

Now it is possible that Minnesota residents will go to California to get away from the heat as well as the cold weather, for the writer was informed recently that the summer weather of southern California is delightfully cool compared with the terrific heat of recent weeks here.

But these associations prove the strength of home ties. Every state in the union, we believe, has such groups in California, composed of persons who still are attached to their home state and probably would prefer to spend part of the time here at least. The main trouble with going to California is that it is so far away from Minnesota that it is too costly to make frequent return trips even by car. So those who elect to go there find it expedient to remain permanently with rare visits home. This proves the truth of the old saying, we can't keep our cake and eat it, too.

Those of us who prefer the warmer clime must be prepared to give up many of the advantages of residence in Minnesota, including the delights of its great summer playgrounds. Thousands of residents of California come to Minnesota for the summer or at least for a summer vacation, which helps to prove this state's outstanding position as a vacation land. But we must admit that California is a bit warmer in winter, part of the time anyway.

On the beautiful and spacious lawn nicely decorated with native and garden flowers at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Christ Clausen, their daughter Miss Mary, exchanged marriage vows with Arden Hill of St. Paul, with Rev. S. T. Anderson local pastor officiating.

The bride is a product of this county living here all her life and is a graduate of the Warren High School and its Teachers training Dept. She has for the past six years worked at her profession in the vicinity of Argyle and Warren and was very highly commended for her work as a teacher.

The groom is also a home product, is well liked by all who know him and very favorably spoken of. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hill of Alvarado, who farm very extensively. For the past year and a half Mr. Hill has been employed by an Auto Supply firm in St. Paul where the newlyweds left for immediately after the ceremony. The bride was attired in an ankle length gown of white silk net over pink satin with rhinestone buckles at the neck and on belt and she carried a beautiful bouquet of pink gladiolus and lavender asters tied with pink streamers. Miss Lila Clausen a sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and was attired in an ankle length gown of white taffeta with blue sash, with pink and blue flowers at the neck. The groom was smartly dressed in a neat suit of Oxford Grey being attended by his brother Maurice Hill of Alvarado. Olaf Anderson played the Mendelsohns Wedding march and sang a solo. A very delicious two course wedding dinner was served by the bride's parents on a table decorated with pink and white place cards and a three layer wedding cake with a bride and groom decoration on top forming as a center piece.

The happy couple will be at home to their friends at 617 N. Snelling Apt. 105 St. Paul, and have left here with the best of wishes for a happy journey through life.

SPUD PLANTS BEAR TOMATOES

Lake Crystal.—Shades of Luther Burbank! Henry Walters of the Cambria vicinity near Lake Crystal, whether he meant to or not, has started growing a new kind of double purpose plant. A good name for it would be the "pomato", for some of his potato plants are also bearing tomatoes.

Railroad Jim the Conductor Says

Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

Ever hear about the new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to door at no extra charge.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

DOUVILLE SAYS HE MADE ERROR IN STATEMENTS

Retracts Pre-election Charges Made Against the School Board

MATTER BROUGHT UP AT BOARD MEETING

B. O. Norby Is Re-elected President of Board for Coming Year

Charges made by William J. Douville, new member of the board of education, in a circular issued preceding the election last month, which reflected on the management of the school district's affairs, were brought up for discussion at the organization meeting of the board Monday evening, following which Tuesday Mr. Douville issued a retraction and apology for his statements.

At the same time two new teachers were appointed, and the board organized for the coming year with the reelection of B. O. Norby as president and the naming of Dr. A. M. Smith as vice president, R. W. Woolhouse clerk, and Alfred Skarstad, treasurer. The clerk's salary was fixed at $100 a year and that of the treasurer at $200.

Mr. Douville's statement follows:

"A day or two before the last school election, I published and caused to be circulated a circular signed by me making certain charges against the members of the school board; since my own election as a member of the Board, I have met with the said school board and have had a chance to go into the facts more thoroughly.

"I find that the meeting which I referred to was not a meeting of the school board but a meeting of a certain committee of the board, that the books at that time were not available and I did have an opportunity to get the information I wanted from them later.

"I am particularly anxious to correct the statement made by me that the public examiner 'found in the neighborhood of $1,100.00 which was returned to District No. 18.' I am informed by the board members that the records and correspondence of the Board show that this item had already been discovered by the then members of the school board before the public examiners were called in and that steps had been taken to recover this amount and that it was called to the attention of the examiners by the board members themselves.

"I make this statement, in order to dispel any inference that may have been drawn from the circular which I published that there was any dishonesty in the affairs of the school district.

"I want to be fair and wish to make public retraction and apology for any statements made intimating that such was the case."

At the meeting Monday H. W. Gabrielson of Chicago, who has taught at Wheaton the past two years, was appointed physical education and biology instructor succeeding Donald Chalmers. He will take charge of intramural athletics and assist Coach George Lee in training the football team. A graduate of Gustavus Adolphus college in St. Peter, Mr. Gabrielson gained an outstanding reputation as an athlete during his college career, starring in football, basketball, track, gymnastics and swimming. He is spending the summer as director of a boys camp in Wisconsin.

Miss Theone Folkedahl of Erie was elected second grade teacher in the Knox school succeeding Miss M. Ellen Brooks. She is a graduate of the Lincoln high school teacher training department and of Mankato state teachers college, and has had two years of teaching experience. Remaining vacancies in the public school faculty, scheduled to be filled at the August meeting next Monday, include the positions of school nurse and commercial and kindergarten teachers.

DELEGATION TO CONFER WITH F. D. R. TODAY

Seeking Immediate Approval of Red Lake River Project

MAYOR PRICHARD IS MEMBER OF GROUP

State Conservation Head Joins Delegation in Washington

A delegation including Mayor W. W. Prichard of this city left on Monday for Washington, D. C., where the group has an appointment today with President Roosevelt to discuss the proposed Red Lake river water conservation project designed to remedy a critical water shortage that threatens communities along the river.

The delegation, appointed early last week at a meeting of the executive committee of the Red Lake River Development association headed by Supt. Morris Bye, includes, in addition to Mayor Prichard, Clifford Bouvette of Hallock, Henry Holt of Grand Forks, Democratic candidate for the United States senate in North Dakota; E. V. Willard, state conservation commissioner; and L. P. Zimmerman state relief director.

The purpose of the conference with the president, Mr. Bye said, is to seek immediate approval of the Red Lake river project and to attempt to arrange for a start on construction this fall. The undertaking, which will involve an expenditure estimated at $437,200, has the unqualified approval of the state planning board, members of which recently made a survey of the projected work.

Cleaning of Red Lake river over a 100-mile stretch to provide an adequate water supply for cities served by that river was recommended Tuesday as an emergency project to cost approximately $152,000 by Director L. P. Zimmerman of the Minnesota state relief administration.

Zimmerman said Minnesota, including the district served by the river, is confronted with an acute drouth situation which is endangering the safety of northwestern communities because of depleted water supply for domestic use and fire fighting. He spoke before a meeting of the state executive council at St. Paul to consider relief measures.

After Seeing Drouth Area Says Pennington Co. Should be Content

In a letter to the Times Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Waale, who recently drove thru North Dakota and Eastern Montana on a honeymoon trip to Yellowstone National park, say that after surveying the drouth damage west of this section they feel that Pennington county farmers have no reason to complain over the outcome of this year's operations. "We didn't see one decent grain crop after leaving Grand Forks," they write. "The few cattle to be seen roamed all over trying to find their food in some of the lower and partly green places. In the vicinity of New Salem they hadn't had a good rain since July 4, 1935."

The fast East Grand Forks baseball team, which ranks second in the Red River Valley league, will meet the Thief River Falls aggregation this evening at 6 o'clock in a contest at the fair grounds. The East Siders recently took two games from Shorty Dekko's Gary team and a week ago won from Oslo 2 to 0. Next Sunday the Garnes team will come for a league game at the fair grounds at 2:30. The visitors have recently strengthened their lineup and have defeated Red Lake Falls and Plummer. The game Sunday will be followed by a five-inning contest between two teams of boys between the ages of nine and twelve.

Playing last Sunday at St. Hilaire Thief River Falls again revealed superiority in league play by administering a second straight defeat 6 to 4. The game was not lacking in thrills, with the lead changing hands several times, with long hits being driven into deep left field, in addition to double plays and sensational flashes of fine pitching.

St. Hilaire initiated the scoring with a hit by Johnson after three men had walked to first place. Thief River Falls rallied in the fifth with a quintet of hits and four runs to lead 5 to 2. For the remainder of the game Sahl, on the mound, left no doubt about the outcome, shoving the pill over for easy outs and strikeouts. He piled up ten strikeouts and allowed only six hits while [illegible] was nicked for thirteen. [illegible] fielding errors in the eighth [illegible] two runs for St. Hilaire.

ATTENDANCE AT FAIR REACHES TOTAL OF 45,000

Both Gate and Grandstand Receipts Run Ahead of Last Year

AUDIENCE ENJOYS AMATEUR CONTEST

Leaf Sahl Wins Pennington County Horseshoe Pitching Contest

The 35th annual Pennington county fair came to a highly successful close last Friday evening after breaking all previous records for attendance at the event, an estimated total of 45,000 persons passing thru the gates during the four days the fair was in progress. Attendance at the fair last year was computed at 44,000, and in 1934, 40,000.

The largest crowds were present Wednesday, Thief River Falls day, and Thursday, the attendance Friday being reduced by a high wind that made it unpleasant to be on the grounds. Secretary Robert J. Lund of the fair board stated that both gate and grandstand receipts were considerably in excess of last year's figures. A portion of the proceeds, he said, will be used to complete payment for improvements to the bleachers, grandstand and other structures involving the expenditure of more than $2,500.

An enjoyable added feature of the grandstand program Friday evening was an amateur contest in which Harold F. Harrison, filling the role of Major Bowes, introduced ten numbers by local talent. Three-dollar prizes were awarded to Ruby and Ruth Angell of Smiley, who sang and played the ukuele; Jewel Helen Warner, tap dancer; LeRoy Rupprecht, guitar and yodeling; and Verna Olson, singer.

Awards of two dollars went to Herbin and Luella Ellason of Erie, song and guitar; Earl and Harold Kelly, violin duet; Dolores Ricker of Morris, tap dancer; and Burnes Larson, song; while one dollar awards were presented to Jean Pahlen and Eileen Peterson of Plummer, tap dancers; and Anna Knutson of Goodridge, singer.

Leaf Sahl was introduced in front of the grandstand Friday evening as the county horseshoe pitching champion after vanquishing H. Fossum of Kratka in the final round, losing the first match 42 to 50 and winning the last two 52 to 19 and 50 to 23. In the semi-finals Sahl won from Floyd Olson 52-44; 38-50 and 50-28, and Fossum defeated Helmer Sahl 52-45 and 50-42. Eliminated in the quarter-finals were Don Krause, Charles Langer, O. Williams of Goodridge and H. Berg of Fertile. W. G. Claffy was in charge of the event.

Oren Peterson made the fastest time of eight boys entered in the bicycle race Thursday afternoon, and was awarded first place, followed by Neil Mullen, second; John Foster, third, Lorel Anderson, fourth, and A. Wilson of St. Hilaire, fifth.

Much merriment was provided by the girls' pig race, another event of Thursday. Rena Woolson proved to be the most expert driver or to have the most tractable pet, and easily won first place and a prize of $5. Other winners were Madeline Gunderson, second; Elizabeth Jorde, third; Florence Fontaine, fourth; Bertha Moren, fifth; Helen Anderson, sixth; Pearl LaCoe, seventh; and Isabel Rosendahl, eighth.

STRIKES SELF WITH STICK, IS POISONED

Spring Grove—Although Emil Vick of Spring Grove was poisoned with snake venom, it was not by a snake but by a stick. Hearing a rattler under his front porch, he picked up a neck yoke, but failed to kill the snake with his first blow, and it crawled further back behind some boards. He pulled the snake out with a stick and killed it with the neck yoke, but in doing so a nail in the end of the stick scratched his arm badly, getting some of the poison, which the "snake bite" but was able to return home the same day.

Bring Brightness Into Life

Life is too short, time too precious, to go about with a vinegary countenance, peddling pessimism and discontent. People who do this are not producers. They are not creators of values. Pessimism is always a destroyer, a handicap; never a creator.

Growing With Your Child

"Should the parents of a girl sixteen years old choose her boy friends?".

"I'm in a perplexing situation for a boy. I like a girl my mother doesn't like. What do you thing I should do?"

These questions represent two phases of a problem faced to some extent by almost every adolescent. The period during which a child is becoming an adult is a trying one if the child has loving parents whose tender care and watchfulness stretch on past the time when they were originally necessary.

Attempts to pick out friends for children seldom come to anything but fretfulness, argumentation, and ill feeling. If only we'd put ourselves in our children's places, we'd see the absurdity of trying to say, "You must like this person or that one." We do not like people because we are supposed to. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and not where we wish it would.

Parents who decide for their daughter whether she is to go out with this boy or that, or have them at the house, must face the possibility that if her liking for a boy of whom they disapprove is very strong, they are almost forcing her to meet him under conditions of which they know nothing. That any boys and girls should have no place to do their courting but street corners, movies and parks is pathetic, but that girls who have attractive homes and presumably understanding parents should be forced to meet their friends in a clandestine manner is absurd.

The boy whose mother wants to pick out a girl for him is in as sorry a plight. Instead of realizing that she must be content to step out of the picture as the person of first importance in his life, she is trying to continue to dominate his affections by choosing girls whose appearance and behavior, as far as she can judge by the surface signs, coincide with her ideal. Whether or not they have the same tastes and interests, see the same things as funny, like the same books, seems unimportant to her if only a girl comes from a family of which she approves, and if she appears docile and amenable to her ideas and suggestions.

Dr. Frankwood Williams, whose experience with the problems of boys and girls has been extensive, says somewhere that the normal goal to look forward to should be the boy's ability to fall in love with some one not in the least resembling his mother in appearance, character and habits. The same thing might be said to be true of the girl, with reference to her father.

When we are tempted to direct our children's lives to the point of interference and conflict, it would be well for us to sit back and remind ourselves of what we are told by the poet, Kahlil Gibran, who says that our children are not our own, to possess, but that they only come through us, as a part of the stream of life. We can house their bodies, he tells us, but not their souls; for their souls have their own thoughts, and live in a future that we cannot share. We may try to be like our children, he says, but we have not the right to try to make them copies of ourselves.

EXHAUSTED LITTLE FAWN IS PICKED UP ON ROAD

Mora.—While driving to Ogilvie from Mora, William Lemm discovered a fawn lying on the road north of Ann Lake. The little animal was entirely exhausted and made no resistance when picked up and placed in the car. Lemm took the fawn into Ogilvie and notified Warden Basil Irwin, who brought it to his home at Mora in the rumble seat of his car. Irwin did not believe the fawn would survive, but he cooled it off with water and managed to feed it some milk with a nipple. It responded to the nourishment, which gave him hopes of keeping it alive, but the animal lived only a short time.

In Memoriam

Time has called, her roll is answered
A star shines forth from heaven's shore
Sounding footsteps on our threshhold,
Come again as days of yore.
Always as the twilight lingers,
Shading day at eventide,
We do dearly miss you Maybelle,
Bless the shore where you abide.
Time may change the course of nations,
Time may wither forms of stone
But your going from our circle,
Is one thing time cannot atone.
We miss you dearly every hour
The sound of footsteps, voice of cheer
And all the time ticks slowly onward
God keeps you always always near.

In sad memory of our beloved daughter and sister, Maybelle, who passed away August 8, 1932.

In Memoriam

To our son and brother, Edwin Nesby, who passed away two long sad years ago today, Aug. 1st.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon his love is given,
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in Heaven
Where neither sorrow sin nor death

936 Farms in Minnesota Purchased Thru Funds of Federal Land Bank

In its program of encouraging ownership of farms, the Farm Credit Administration has increased its financing of farm purchases during the first half of 1936 about one-third over that for the preceding 6 months.

Figures for Minnesota show that from October 1, 1935 to the first of June this year 936 farm purchases were made in this state with funds supplied by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul and the land bank commissioner, says President Roy A. Nelson of the bank in a statement given out today.

Of this total 180 were bought from the Federal Land Bank either on a mortgage basis or contract terms, and the balance of 756 were bought from other owners with funds supplied by or thru the land bank.

More than $2,770,000 of the funds borrowed during the period were utilized by the borrowers to buy farms from various other owners, while about $674,000 was used to buy farms that had been acquired by the land bank, making the total amount of funds utilized in Minnesota for farm purchases $3,444,000.

11-Mile Paving Section on Highway 59 Now Open

Formal opening of the new pavement on Highway 59 between Ogema and Callaway was celebrated recently when a big picnic dance was staged on the street in Callaway. Nearly 500 persons attended the affair, according to a report from state highway department employees.

The stretch, 11 miles in length, which runs from Ogema to a point two miles south of Callaway, was completed recently by Nelson, Mullen and Webster, contractors.

Only a two mile detour now slows motorists in their drives through this area. The detour is located between the two villages and is reported in good shape.

Completion of the new strip leaves only the road to Callaway unpaved from Detroit Lakes to Crookston and Grand Forks. N. W. Elsberg, state commissioner, has announced the balance of the project will be contracted yet this summer.

JOKE BACKFIRES; FINE IMPOSED

Alexandria.—It was a good joke to Joe Patrick, but his friend Ole Johnson didn't look at it that way at all. Laying down a barrage of cold water on the sidewalk in front of a drug store in an attempt to cool off the interior during the hot spell, Johnson was suddenly surprised to have the stream turned on himself. He was seized behind and the nozzle of the hose thrust down his throat. Ole was "drowning by his own hand" theoretically, since he still had hold of the hose, when the prankster felt he had enough and let Ole go. The water had cooled the victim's throat, but it had by no means cooled the inner man. As soon as he could speak, Ole took himself to the county attorney's office and lodged a complaint. At a hearing in the justice court it was decided that Ole was the victim of a prank that was too serious to go unpunished. Joe Patrick, the jokester, was fined $5.

Mrs. Stein Jorgenson Dies

Mrs. Stein Jorgenson was born in Sweden Nov. 27, 1874 and died at the St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls, Thursday, July 30, 1936 at the age of 63 years.

She was married to Stein Jorgenson at Denver, Colorado, in 1897 and came to Fisher, Minn., the same year, where she lived until 1916, when she moved to Thief River Falls. She lived there until 1918 and then moved to Plummer, where she resided until the time of her death. Her husband died in 1917. To this union were born seven children. Those surviving are: Mrs. R. A. Franceschina of Minneapolis, Gladys and Paul of Minneapolis, Lloyd, Ethel and Arnold of Plummer, two grandchildren: Muriel and Doris Franceschina, one sister and two brothers of Firth, Idaho, and one brother of Osage City, Kansas.

The funeral was held in Fisher with Reverend Lee officiating. The pall-bearers were as follows: William Nelson, Nels Peterson, John Torrison, Hans Haaven, H. J. Enderle and O. H. Langlie. Interment was in the cemetery near Fisher.

Plummer Wallops Oklee 12-3

A confident Oklee team ran into a determined Plummer club Sunday and the result was the complete downfall of Oklee 12-3.

In the opening game of the current league season Oklee downed a poorly organized Plummer team 10-0. They rather expected another victory although they were certain that Plummer was stronger than at that time. As usual, Laniel started in the box for Oklee, opposed by Plummer's ace hurlers, "Lefty" Fremling. Laniel was in constant trouble for the first pitch until he yielded the mound duties in favor of "Babe" Fortier. Plummer loaded the bases in the first inning but was unable to score. In the second they came thru with two runs. The first a long home run over the left fielder by Jack Ripple, the second as a result of three errors. In the third they added 5 more, Lefty in the meantime holding the Oklee sluggers to one measly hit until the fourth when three errors and two hits plated three runs for Oklee's only scoring gesture. In the last 5 innings Lefty allowed only 1 hit and was never in serious trouble.

Next Sunday finds Plummer going up against the second place St. Hilaire club which holds a previous 10 inning victory over the locals. This will undoubtedly be a pitching duel between "Lefty" Fremling and Bill Hallemack.

Score by innings:

Diphtheria Deaths Shrink to Negligible Total in 25 Years

Here's news to gladden the heart of every father and mother in Minnesota! The report of the committee on public health of the state planning board reveals an amazing decrease in the death rate from communicable disease. Diphtheria, typhoid, smallpox and tuberculosis, for instance, show a decline in the Minnesota death rate since 1910 greater than that for the entire United States registration area.

Minnesota deaths from diphtheria have been reduced from 556 in 1910 to 17 in 1935; smallpox, from 207 in 1924 to one last year—and absolute zero for the three years preceding; typhoid, from 688 in 1910 to 17 in 1935; and tuberculosis, which reached its high for the 25-year period with 2,622 deaths in 1911, has shown an almost uninterrupted retreat to the 1935 figure of 935.

Those dramatic records are not accidental the Planning Board report makes clear. They are due largely to alert and active State and local boards of health, public health education in schools and elsewhere, and helpful cooperation on the part of the public.

Here's an insight into how the spread of typhoid has been all but conquered in this state: Sanitation, sewage disposal and hygenic methods have done most to strangle the plague at its source. But cases which do develop are easily transmitted. So Minnesota exercises strict supervision over persons handling ready-to-eat food sold or served to the public. The increased use of pasteurized milk has saved an untold number of lives. Rigid restrictions are imposed upon those proved to be chronic carriers of typhoid bacteria and Minnesota is the first state to grant compensatory aid to give up their work and suffer financial loss.

Vaccines and anti-toxins have aided greatly. In the case of diphtheria, since 1926 Minnesota has provided free distribution of toxin-antitoxin and toxoid to nearly 275,000 persons. Vaccine for typhoid and smallpox are not distributed free by the State but their free distribution and other proved methods of combatting these and other diseases are recommended by the Planning board.

With regard to tuberculosis the report recommends, "a growing appreciation of the value and necessity of quarantine; (and) of the state and county sanitoria; better medical care; the wider use of pasteurized milk and the control of tuberculosis cattle; higher wages, better housing and industrial conditions and better and more abundant diets."

Notice this: If the 1910 death rate for typhoid had been allowed to continue during the 25-year period there would have been 14,521 deaths from this disease; actually there were 2,779. Last year there would have been 688 deaths from typhoid; actually there were 17.

2,000 4-H Workers to Compete at Minnesota Fair September 5 to 12

Approximately 2,000 4-H boys and girls from all counties of Minnesota will participate in a week's program of exhibitions, demonstrations and judging contests at the Minnesota state fair to be held Sept. 5 through Sept. 12, according to T. A. Erickson, state club leader, University Farm, St. Paul.

The premium fund budget for sponsoring club activities during the fair reaches nearly $20,000.

The premium fund budget for sponsoring club activities during the fair reaches nearly $20,000. The 4-H program will begin Monday, Sept. 7 and run through Saturday, Sept. 12.

Representation in fair contests and activities depends upon the number of club members enrolled in the various projects in each county. During the past month county and district contests have been conducted to select home economics teams for entry in state fair competition. Boys teams have been selected in county contests.

For Minnesota's 4-H boys the state fair will mean a climax in dairy calf, colt, pig, sheep, poultry, and purebred beef heifer contests. The high point in the 4-H girls' program of the year will be reached in bread baking, cake, canning, and clothing work. A new feature of club activities at the fair will be that all 4-H livestock exhibits will be held under the same roof in the remodeled sheep barn on the fair grounds. Previously contests were held in several buildings.

Dormitories on the farm campus will be thrown open to be used as quarters by the 4-H members when they trek to the fair. The overflow will be quartered in the club building on the fair grounds. The college cafeteria at University Farm will be in operation to provide food for the 2,000 farm boys and girls.

NEBRASKA MAN EARNS 'HONEST MAN' CROWN

Elbow Lake.—The Gust Hansons of Elbow Lake are ready to unofficially place the crown of "The Most Honest Man" on the head of Frank Prokop of Spencer, Neb., and Diogenes can blow out his lantern and take a rest. It all came about like this: Back in February, 1914, 22 years ago, Prokop unknowingly made an error in figuring the amount he should pay for some corn bought from Hanson. The difference amounted to 100 bushels and came about in making an error of one point in a row of figures. Later the mistake was discovered, but the Hanson family had moved to Minnesota and Prokop was unable to locate his debtor. At church gatherings and picnics, the "Most Honest Man" would ask, "Say, do you know what became of the Hansons?" This has kept up for more than 22 years and only recently did Prokop locate the Hanson family through some mutual friends at Briston, Neb. A check for $30, based on corn at 29 cents per bushel in 1914, has been sent in payment of the corn.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

The problems which the people face today are too real and the economic suffering of the people too intense to permit of any deceit or political trickery by parties seeking to win favor at the hands of the electorate.

If a political party has a program it seeks to put into effect but conceals the nature of that program from the people, it is guilty of something more than mere political sharp playing.

The Republican platform of Minnesota expresses itself in favor of the Youngquist Amendment, known as Amendment No. 2. This Amendment would abolish the state real estate tax levy. But not even the Republicans claim that it will not be necessary to enact some other tax to make up for this loss in revenue. It is quite generally known by those who are familiar with the situation that the Republicans propose to slip over a sales tax, which in effect is a tax on poverty. For political reasons they have refused to tell the people exactly what tax they propose to substitute for the state real estate tax.

In an effort to smoke the Republicans out on their secret tax program, and to force clear cut issues for the coming campaign, Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for Governor, last week issued a challenge to his Republican opponent, Martin A. Nelson, to let the people know the secret tax program of his party. "Do you believe that the citizens and taxpayers of Minnesota are entitled to know what the secret Republican tax program is?" Senator Benson asked Mr. Nelson.

Senator Benson's open challenge should be welcomed by the citizens of Minnesota who want to go to the polls with a full and complete understanding of the issues and principles involved in this campaign. They will not be satisfied with smoke-screen issues manufactured by the reactionaries such as their fake claims of Farmer-Labor extravagance. Neither will they be satisfied with manufactured red-scares and meaningless invectives.

The Republicans must make their stand known on every important question effecting the welfare of the people. Their past attitude towards these questions and problems will be made known for them. If their known position means repudiation at the hands of the voters, then at least they can be consoled with the thought that they at least have openly and truly championed the cause of reaction—but that their cause was not a popular one.

Now that the State Executive Council has authorized the sale of bonds to match Minnesota's allotment of the Federal highway aid, the State Highway Department is moving rapidly to get the new program underway.

First contracts under the new Federal Aid Fund will be let within a few weeks. As much as possible of the work will be completed this season if possible. The Federal aid now available amounts to $3,400,000. About $4,000,000 of state funds must be used with this.

The Minnesota Farmer-Labor Juniors will be represented at the World Youth Congress to be held at Geneva, Switzerland, August 31 to September 7, by Harold Peterson, state president. About 50 delegates from the United States will attend the Congress, representing the Y's churches, National Peace Conference, Women's International League, trade unions, National Student Federation, American Student Union, and the American Youth Congress.

Three principal themes have been selected for discussion. They are: organization of peace; economic and social organization of the world; and moral, religious, philosophical and other bases of peace. Although adult leaders of world affairs will address the group, these young people from all over the world will endeavor to work out their own problems and solutions. There is no dispute that the youth have been the most neglected of all classes during the present capitalistic depression, and it is time that they assert themselves and find out whether they have or have not a place in society.

PLAYFUL KITTEN STARTS SERIES OF ACCIDENTS

Plainview.—Two children playing with a kitten started a series of mishaps that were rather painful and expensive to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Martin of Plainview. The children of the family were playing with the kitten when it scampered into a pen where a bull was kept. The boy leaned through the bars of the pen to try to catch the kitten. The bull swung his head at the boy, causing the youngster's head to slide along the bars. A deep gash was cut in his neck and one side of his face bruised. As the youngsters ran for the house, the boy with blood streaming over the front of his garments, the father saw him. He jumped from his wagon and ran to help his son. While giving his attentions to the boy, the team stepped forward to nibble at the leaves of a tree. The standard on the hay rack caught the tree and snapped off. The noise frightened the team and they ran away. The hay rack was smashed, wagon damaged, and all four tugs broken from the harness.

Canning Culled Hens Is Economy Measure, Says 'U' Farm Worker

During the next month when farm flocks are being culled of hens past their most productive age, the canning of chicken will be most convenitne and economical, according of Miss Inez Hobart, extension nutrition specialist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Plump 2-year-old hens, no longer profitable members of the flock, are ideal for canning, says Mrs. Hobart, for their meat has a better flavor and texture than that of younger chicken.

Among the safer and more common ways in which chicken may be canned are putting it up as just plain canned chicken or plain chicken broth. The canned chicken may be put up with or without the bone.

Because chicken canned in any form needs processing under steam for safety, a pressure canner is the first essential piece of equipment, states Miss Hobart. Chicken is a non-acid food and requires a higher temperature than merely boiling for sterilization.

Chicken may be canned in either glass or tin containers up to the size of a quart, but it has a better flavor and texture when canned in smaller jars because of the shorter processing time. Chicken meat darkens more easily than other meat, and sheet iron and copper utensils should be avoided when it is canned. The use of stainless steel knives is recommended when preparing the chicken.

LAKE TROUT TO BE PLANTED THIS WEEK

Approximately 200,000 lake trout will be planted in northern lakes this week, according to Dr. Thaddeus Surber, superintendent of propagation of the state division of game and fish.

The lake trout were raised at the St. Paul and Lanesboro hatcheries. Planting of stream trout has been postponed until waters become cooler.

SISTERS RETIRE AFTER 100 YEARS OF TEACHING

Mankato.—The retirement of two sisters from the Mankato public schools, announced this week with their resignation at Mankato, has brought to an end a century of service to teaching, the combined record of the Kelly triplets. More than half of the 100 years which the three sisters have taught have been spent in Mankato schools by Clara and Catherine Kelly, whose resignations have just been accepted by the board of education. Mrs. Celia Kelly Donahue, third of the triplets, retiring from teaching many years ago. Among the three, Clara Kelly, for many years principal and teacher at the Lincoln school in Mankato for 42 years. Catherine Kelly came to Mankato 15 years ago with the reputation of being one of the best third grade teachers in the state. The two retiring sisters plan to see something of the world while their health is still good.

Least Hairy Peoples

The least hairy peoples are the yellow and red races, the men often scarcely having even rudimentary beards, such as many American Indians and the Mongols. Negroid peoples may be said to be intermediate, but usually inclined to hairlessness. The amount of hair is, of course, somewhat related to its type.

SPECIAL FEATURES WILL MARK STATE FAIR SEPT. 5 TO 12

State-wide Band Concert Is Scheduled for Sunday, September 6

Two special features for the opening Saturday and Sunday of the Minnesota State Fair, September 5 to 12, were approved this week by the board of managers of the exposition.

Approval was given for a repetition of last year's popular "Key Day" on the opening Saturday and arrangements were completed for the staging of the second annual state-wide band tournament in front of the grandstand Sunday afternoon.

Key Day gives patrons a plan for seeing the entire Fair, on the opening Saturday only, by means of a special combination ticket offered at a greatly reduced price. Key Day tickets valued at $1.20 will be sold for 50 cents. They will include an admission to the grounds, admission for an automobile or the Indian Village, admission to the grandstand for the afternoon championship auto races and two admissions for riding devices in the Royal American Shows on the Midway. Key Day tickets will be on sale prior to the Fair and at the outside gates until 3 p. m. the opening Saturday.

Plans have been completed for the second annual band tournament which is being sponsored to foster living music. Awards for the winners will total $2,000. Judging will take place in front of the grandstand on Sunday afternoon, September 6, and bands will be scored on a basis of music, uniforms and marching ability. In addition to the cash award the championship band will be presented with a trophy with individual medals for each member.

First entry in this year's tournament is the Little Falls City band, which won the championship in 1935. The public will be admitted to the grandstand for the event without charge.

EDITORS SEEKING FIRE STORY FIND TWO MORE

Staples.—The newspaper staff of the Staples World has at times been accused of "making news" when times were dull, but it had no intention of having a fire story back-fire on them recently. "Doc" Sims and Ralph Bachman drove out to the Pete Card's farm to gain first hand information on a fire. While Bachman was interviewing Mrs. Card, "Doc's" car caught fire under the hood. It was quickly extinguished with a pail of water, but Doc had hardly turned the car around and started back to Staples when it blazed again. Both newspapermen broke all records in getting out of the car. Several pails of sand smothered the blaze and the car was towed back to the city. But the editors who had started out to report one fire found they had two more on the list.

U. S. Savings Bonds in Amount of $127,000 Are Sold Thru Local Office

Since United States savings bonds went on sale thruout the nation March 1, 1935, bonds with a maturity value of $127,600 have been distributed thru the local postoffice to July 1 of this year, Postmaster Andrew Anderson said today. In the country as a whole, he added, bonds with a maturity value of more than $600,000,000 have been sold. The bonds, which are issued in denominations of $25 to $1,000 and mature in ten years, draw interest at the rate of 2.9 per cent, Mr. Anderson said.

Laboratory Work in Gas Tractors Given at Northwest School

The Northwest School and Experiment Station has purchased a 35 H. P. Diesel catipillar tractor to supplement the laboratory work in gas motors and tractors. Beginning with the fall term, practical work with the Diesel motor will be offered students specializing in agricultural engineering. Other courses that will be offered in this department include farm mechanics, blacksmithing, carpentry, field machinery, and mechanical drawing.

Work in gas motors will include principles of construction and handling of stationary and traction gasoline and Diesel engines including timing, ignition, starting and lighting systems, carburetion, cooling and lubrication. Practical work will also be given in overhauling and repairing automobiles and tractors.

Work in soldering, pipe fitting, babbitting and bearing scraping together with rope work, belt lacing and harness repairing will be given in the course in Farm Mechanics.

Students in blacksmithing will be required to familiarize themselves with operations necessary for blacksmith repair work on the farm. Carpentry work includes training in the construction of the foundation, framing, stair and rafter cutting and selection of materials and concrete work.

A. M. Foker will direct the work in blacksmithing, carpentry, and mechanical drawing, while W. D. Rusk, a graduate of the University of Illinois, and W. D. Bromersberger, a graduate of the University of Minnesota will have charge of the work in motors, gas engines, field machinery and farm mechanics.

The school year will open Sept. 28 and close the last of March, thus enabling farm boys and girls to assist with home work during the crop growing season.

CHICKEN IS TIED UP IN MIDDLE OF BUNDLE

Walnut Grove.—An 8 weeks old chick went through a grain binder, was tied up in the middle of a bundle, and lived to run about again at Walnut Grove recently. As Abel Anderson was cutting grain north of Walnut Grove he noticed that a chick had gotten onto the platform. By the time he could stop the binder, the chick had been carried with the grain through the binder and come out inside a bundle. His son, Oscar E. Anderson, pulled the bundle open and out hopped the chicken, none the worse for the escapade.

MANY LIGHTNING FIRES REPORTED

The worst series of lightning fires on record have occurred in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties during the past two weeks, according to Grover M. Conzet, director of the division of forestry. Ranger Pat Boyle reported there were more lightning fires in the last week and a half than in the last ten years. Ordinarily electric storms are followed by rain, but this year, according to reports, there has been no rain following the lightning.

Local People in California

The writer regrets very much that he was away from home and so did not receive in time a letter from Mr. Homer F. Mussey, former Thief River Falls resident and now living in San Gabriel, Calif., some of whose reminiscences we have presented in this column. The letter contained a request in connection with the gathering of former Thief River Falls residents now in southern California. We do not feel that we are at liberty to reveal the nature of the request until permitted to do so by Mr. Mussey, but we are writing him to explain our remission.

We learn from Mr. Mussey, by the way, that there are about 100 members of the "Thief River Falls Society of Southern California", who were expected to gather for the annual reunion, the second one, in Brookside park, Pasadena. It will be recalled that the last year's reunion took place in Recreation park at Long Beach.

Since we have been away we have not had time to look through the papers so do not know whether or not an account of this year's gathering has appeared in the Times. We understand that Mr. Mussey was to write it as he did last year. By the way, in case the fact has not been published, Oscar Sponheim is the president of the association of former local residents in California.

Of last year's reunion Mr. Mussey writes:

"Friends met friends, relatives met relatives and we had one real time. I was chosen to describe this meeting for the home town papers and I expect to have the same job again this year.

"In the gathering at Long Beach were many of those whose activities made Thief River Falls and, as I have kept all recent letters of mine, I expect to be able to send 'back home' some real 'stuff'. The former resident adds to his letter as a postscript:

"P. S.—I want to add that Mayor 'Bill' Prichard's folks are quite actively identified with southern California. He has a brother-in-law, Fredericks, who edits our own San Gabriel Sun, along with several other nearby papers.

A sister, Mrs. A. I. Anderson, is one of the 'big shots' in our Thief River Falls Southern California association. I know Bill would like to tell Bertel Backe, Frank Kratka, Charlie Kratka, the Caldwell girls (Irene and Mary) and a lot of other old school pals and me just what he thinks of us." We can't say any more about this now as it really is a part of the secret request.

But we wish to refer briefly to the association of former residents of this city in southern California. Readers will recall that there is a standing joke about so many of the residents of California being natives of Iowa, but so enthusiastic about California after a few years that they are actually more loyal than the natives. Of course, other central states are well represented there, although it may be that Iowa once was the leader in sending its sons and daughters to the west coast. Minnesota certainly is extensively represented and there are probably enough former residents of this state, Wisconsin, Iowa, the Dakotas, Montana and other states to make a large-sized city made up exclusively of the former residents of a single state.

Now it is possible that Minnesota residents will go to California to get away from the heat as well as the cold weather, for the writer was informed recently that the summer weather of southern Calofirnia is delightfully cool compared with the terrific heat of recent weeks here.

But these associations prove the strength of home ties. Every state in the union, we believe, has such groups in California, composed of persons who still are attached to their home state and probably would prefer to spend part of the time here at least. The main trouble with going to California is that it is so far away from Minnesota that it is too costly to make frequent return trips even by car. So those who elect to go there find it expedient to remain permanently with rare visits home. This proves the truth of the old saying, we can't keep our cake and eat it, too.

Those of us who prefer the warmer clime must be prepared to give up many of the advantages of residence in Minnesota, including the delights of its great summer playgrounds. Thousands of residents of California come to Minnesota for the summer or at least for a summer vacation, which helps to prove this state's outstanding position as a vacation land. But we must admit that California is a bit warmer in winter, part of the time anyway.

Mr. Hanson, director of Game and Fish was present as well as other notables, all giving good and instructive talks, the climax coming with a motion picture showing of wild life, the hi-lite coming when pictures on the screen showed part of the baribou herd now living on the Reserve just north of the Upper Red Lake. A very sumptous lunch was served after all departed homeward proclaming this meeting the best ever.

Hill-Clausen Nuptials

On the beautiful and spacious lawn nicely decorated with native and garden flowers at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Christ Clausen, their daughter Miss Mary, exchanged marriage vows with Arden Hill of St. Paul, with Rev. S. T. Anderson local pastor officiating.

The bride is a product of this county living here all her life and is a graduate of the Warren High School and its Teachers training Dept. She has for the past Six years worked at her profession in the vicinity of Argyle and Warren and was very highly commended for her work as a teacher.

The groom is also a home product, is well liked by all who know him and very favorably spoken of. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hill of Alvarado, who farm very extensively. For the past year and a half Mr. Hill has been employed by an Auto Supply firm in St. Paul where the newlyweds left for immediately after the ceremony. The bride was attired in an ankle length gown of white silk net over pink satin with rhinestone buckles at the neck and on belt and she carried a beautiful bouquet of pink gladiolus and lavender asters tied with pink streamers. Miss Lila Clausen a sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and was attired in an ankle length gown of white taffeta with blue sash, with pink and blue flowers at the neck. The groom was smartly dressed in a neat suit of Oxford Grey being attended by his brother Maurice Hill of Alvarado. Olaf Anderson played the Mendelssohn Wedding march and sang a solo. A very delicious two course wedding dinner was served by the bride's parents on a table decorated with pink and white place cards and a three layer wedding cake with a bride and groom decoration on top forming as a center piece.

SPUD PLANTS BEAR TOMATOES

Lake Crystal.—Shades of Luther Burbank! Henry Walters of the Cambria vicinity near Lake Crystal, whether he meant to or not, has started growing a new kind of double purpose plant. A good name for it would be the "pomato", for some of his potato plants are also bearing tomatoes.

THE COLUMN CONDUCTOR
Says

Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

You can't beat the improved travel comfort in coaches and sleeping cars. It's a good thing movies don't have such restful seats—most folks would sure fall asleep.

Ever hear about the new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to door at no extra charge.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

What's more, the railroads believe in "safety first." Last year not one passenger was killed in a train accident on western railroads.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.
